Yankee Fliers Smash And Run Through Debris Of Buzz Bomb

By HAL BOYLE

An American Air Base in Belgium, Nov. 9 (Delayed) (AP) — Flying through an exploding buzz bomb gave three airmen of this base the greatest scare of their wing-borne lives.

Lt. Philip (Skinny) Guba, 23, New York city, told of this amazing adventure with one leg drooped casually over a desk in "the spy shack" of this Black Widow night fighter base.

The flight began as a routine patrol mission. Guba flew as an extra observer with Capt. Tadas (Ted) J. Spells, Hartford, Conn., pilot, and Lt. Eleutherios (Lefty) Eleftherion, Elmira, N. Y., regular Radar observer whose buddies say he has the longest name in the U. S. Ninth air force.

LOOKING FOR NAZIS

"We were stooging around that night looking for a German plane to take a crack at when all of a sudden this buzz bomb came hot-footing through the skies toward us," said Guba.

"It looked like a full moon steaming along about three times as fast as a crack express train. We were in a good position to intercept it, so Ted decided to try and shoot it down."

As the big, twin-engined fighter closed to within 1,500 feet of the bomb, Lefty called into the interphone:

"Shoot, Ted, shoot."

But the pilot didn't want to take any chances of this prize escaping. He sped nearer. At 1,000 feet Lefty called again:

"Give it the works, Ted, shoot!"

The plane and the buzz bomb hurtled toward each other as if on invisible rails until the target ahead appeared as a massive neon watermelon. At 400 feet Lefty screamed:

CANNON BLAST

"Ted had been sitting up there in front practically getting a sunburn from that buzz bomb's propulsion unit—so he was ready to let go," said Guba. "He gave it a long burst from his 20mm cannon and the shells streamed right into their target.

"There was a tremendous orange flash and that buzz bomb went up like a gasoline storage dump. It blew apart in a million pieces.

"We had no time to swerve and flew right through the center of the explosion. It blinded everybody in the plane for awhile."

BLINDED BY GLARE

"We thought for a moment Ted had got a piece of the buzz bomb right through him," continued Guba. "We were diving groundward at a terrific speed and I began reaching toward the escape hatch.

"Ted was still so blinded from the glare of the explosion he couldn't see his instruments, but from the corner of his eyes he managed to see the horizon.

"That glimpse saved us. He managed to pull us out of that dive—how, I don't know.

NEVER AGAIN

"Lefty was so mad at Ted for not opening fire sooner that he would hardly talk to him for a week," said Guba.

"'I don't want anymore of that kind of stuff. The next time you decide you want to run over a buzz bomb just let me know. I'll get out and walk home.'"

GRAND JURY FOR NOVEMBER TERM MEETING TODAY

Business was slow this morning as the grand jury was empanelled and sat in the first session of the November term of court.

The session opened at 9:30 o'clock with President Judge W. C. Sheely and Associate Judge A. Dale Knouse and J. Price Oyler presiding. After empaneling the jury, it was charged and retired to the law library. Only seven cases were certified to the jurors and by noon none had been returned.

Butt, Esq., attorney for the Kimes, and Eugene V. Bulleit, Esq., as attorney for the Commonwealth.

Two divorce decrees were signed by the court. Georgia Pittenturf Brady was awarded a divorce from Louis David Brady and Ruth Brothers Melhorn was awarded a divorce from John F. Melhorn. Costs were awarded to the libellants in both cases.

In a desertion and non-support hearing, Harvey Duncan, now of Baltimore, was ordered to pay up the arrearage in his support account. He is to report to the court January 19 if he has not paid up by that time. If he has paid, he need not report. His wife lives near Littlestown.

Women's Clubs Aid Library Project

Preliminary expenses of the group that have initiated the move for the organization of an Adams county library association are being paid out of the Adams County Rural School Library fund set up several years ago by the Woman's club of Gettysburg, the Trilogy club of upper Adams county and the Women's Community club of Littlestown.

Members of the committee in charge of the fund include: Mrs. Wilbur Plank, chairman; Mrs. R. S. Saby, Mrs. A. H. Barr and Mrs. Richard A. Brown, all of Gettysburg; Mrs. Chester Tyson and Mrs. G. W. Koser, of the Trilogy club, and Mrs. Emma Mehring and Mrs. J. R. Riden, of Littlestown.

GROWERS SEEK LABOR SUPPLY FOR CANNERIES

The seriousness of the labor shortage in the fruit processing plants in the county was emphasized at a meeting of the Adams County Fruit Growers' association Thursday evening in the Biglerville auditorium.

Following discussions by the members of the association present and representatives of several county canneries, the group adopted a resolution stating that "every effort would be made" to help out in the acute shortage of workers.

The growers agreed in discussion that they would be willing to do their part in making available to the canneries some of their farm and orchard help.

Those present from the canneries included M. E. Knouse, of the Knouse Corporation; Allen Stauffer, of the Musselman company, and Glenn Taylor, of the Adams Apple corporation. E. A. Crouse, manager of the local office of the United States Employment Service, also attended.

Pathologist Speaks

President Robert C. Lott presided at the meeting and introduced the speakers. Dr. Fred Lewis, research plant pathologist at the Arendtsville Fruit laboratory, gave the first address in which he explained some of the experimental work which has been done with sprays for control of leaf spot and brown rot on sour cherries.

He gave figures showing that many of the spray materials now in use reduce the normal size of the cherry. It is the special interest of the laboratory, he said, to find a spray material that will provide proper control of disease and still provide minimum injury to the fruit.

The laboratory work on cherries is checked by the number of leaves retained on the tree by October 1, the number of cherries per pound and the percentage of the solids in the fruit, he stated.

Reports On Insect Pests

Doctor Lewis also spoke of his work with the apple-cedar rust and showed a red cedar seedling he has secured in the vicinity of Arendtsville, with at least 50 cedar galls on its foliage. Considerable experimental work is being done with a material called "fermate" the research specialist declared, and it has so far proved helpful in checking

SOLDIER TELLS OF EXPERIENCE ON FOREIGN SOIL

Pfc. Charles Kerrigan, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kerrigan, 132 Chambersburg street, has completed his first "hitch" overseas. On his first anniversary in service on foreign soil, he wrote the following letter telling of his experiences:

PFC. CHARLES KERRIGAN

Netherlands East Indies

"Today marks my first hitch overseas and I felt it my duty to let The Gettysburg Times know of my experiences.

"We arrived in New Guinea a few months back, where we received our advanced jungle training. We were located in a swell area where we lived quite luxuriously. However, we had to leave the sweet and get a taste of the bitter. Eventually we were forwarded to Dutch New Guinea to oppose our foe.

"Our first encounter was quite a thrilling one. We hardly knew what it was like to have returned fire coming at us. But now realize what it is all about, and the picture isn't so bright. Contending with mud and malaria seemed to be our major obstacles, then came the atrocious Japs.

"Later we were called on to make a larger operation. We made an invasion to our present day location and were rather dominant in our task. We are now in our recuperation exercises from the constant prowling through rain, muddy jungles and high sloping hills. Soon, no doubt, we'll have another assignment given us.

"For participation in front line duty, we have been awarded the Combat Infantry badge of which the majority of our organization has earned.

"We understand that Gen. MacArthur has invaded the Philippine Islands and is making steady progress. Soon, no doubt, we will have the ruthless Japs in their own back yard and be able to draw this war to a quick termination for a better and peaceful world."

LIST MORE WAR FUND DONATIONS

Topped by a contribution of $200 from the Windsor Shoe company of Littlestown, an additional list of contributions to the Adams County War fund was announced today that sent the campaign total up to $17,257.92. The shoe company employes added $90 to the company's gift.

D.; Mr. and Mrs. G. Edward Taughinbaugh, Gettysburg R. 4; and the following from Biglerville: Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Minter and Mrs. Earl Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Stock, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Trostel and Mrs. John A. Hauser.

In a previous list the contribution of the Albert J. Lentz post of the American Legion was announced as $5. The correct figure is $25

Dinner - Meeting Of Bond Group Tonight

Benjamin Ludlow, of Philadelphia, will be the principal speaker at tonight's dinner-meeting of the Adams County War Finance committee at the Hotel Gettysburg at 6 o'clock.

Edmund W. Thomas, chairman of the committee, announced today that he is hopeful of a large attendance. Every member of the committee has been invited.

Mr. Ludlow is on the speakers' bureau for the state committee. 2nd Lt William L. Black, graduate of Gettysburg college, will sing several tenor solos accompanied by Robert Rau on the solovox. Miss Juanita Waters, a co-ed at the college, will also render several selections accompanied by Miss Nancy Pyle, also a co-ed.

PAUL SCHWARTZ NEW PRESIDENT OF BANK UNIT

Paul M. Schwartz, formerly of Gettysburg and now cashier of the People's State bank of East Berlin, was presented as the new president of the Adams County Bankers' association at the group's annual banquet meeting at the Hotel Gettysburg Thursday evening.

Other new officers elected at a brief business meeting which preceded the turkey dinner include: Vice president, Theron W. Spangler, assistant cashier and treasurer of the Littlestown National bank; secretary, Mrs. Dorothy Roomsburg, of the Peoples' State bank at East Berlin, and treasurer, Elmer W. Warren, trust officer at the First National bank of Gettysburg, re-elected.

These bankers were named to the association's council of administration: J. D. Miller, Biglerville, retiring president of the county bankers; W. M. Weidner, York Springs; H. B. Flaherty, New Oxford; Edmund W. Thomas, Gettysburg, and J. Preston Smith, McSherrystown.

Lauds Trial By Jury

Guest speaker for the evening was Judge Harvey A. Gross, York. He was introduced by Edmund W. Thomas who had been presented as toastmaster earlier in the evening by President Miller who presided during the early part of the program.

There was special music by the Wartime Harmony Aces of Harrisburg with solos by Cark Bair, baritone, and Harry M. Etter, tenor.

Addressing the group on the topic, "Romancing," Judge Gross, veteran of 41 years of legal experience at the bar and on the bench, stated his "growing regard for the system of trial by jury in the administration of justice." Pointing out the value of the human element in the jury system, he declared "human hearts render justice in trials by jury. Through their knowledge of human nature, they are able to exercise mercy, which is the only concept higher than justice on this earth."

He explained the "uncertainty" of law by pointing to the human element in the interpretation and administration of law but asserted that "substantial justice" is rendered in 95 per cent of the cases that go to court.

Cites Experiences

Admitting that there is ground for criticism of the cost of court litigation, Judge Gross predicted that the time is not far distant when "courts will be open and free to litigants." He added: "Justice is one of the highest attributes on this earth and it ought to be free."

Comparing the trial lawyer to the surgeon in the medical profession, Judge Gross cited cases in his own experience to confirm his statements that there is such a thing as "luck and good and bad breaks" in court trials and that psychology is an all-important element in court.

A roast Adams county turkey dinner was served to the 93 members and guests of the association.

Register Advances Up To 10 Miles In Important Conflict

By WILLIAM FRYE

London, Nov. 17 (AP)—Six Allied Armies, committed to what may be the last great battle in western Europe, advanced virtually shoulder to shoulder today against the battered German Army.

The U. S. First and Ninth Armies, driving from their five to 10-mile breach in the Siegfried line, punched our gains of one to two miles toward the Rhine.

The British Second Army reached the Maas river bend near the German border with the capture of Buggenum, three miles north of Roermond. British rearguards were only four and a half miles from the German frontier at the nearest point in the Venlo-Roermond sector. Wessem, on the Maas four and a half miles southwest of Roermond, also fell.

A field dispatch from the Ninth Army sector said possibly a dozen German towns were captured yesterday in the first day of its attack near Geilenkirchen, while the First Army surged eastward from Aachen in gains that averaged up to two miles in the initial thrust.

The bombs and guns of nearly 6,000 Allied planes, plus a thundering artillery barrage, began the assault which massed the force of two entire armies on a front hardly 15 miles wide.

On German Soil

Fighting on German soil, and aimed at the heart of Germany's industrial Rhineland with Cologne only 35 miles away, the two armies apparently caught the enemy off-balance while German divisions were preparing an attack on the First Army at Aachen.

While the tank-led troops of the First Army pushed their breach of the Siegfried line deeper, the Ninth rolled forward through the towns of Immendorf, Floverich, Euchen and Beggendorf. All east of Geilenkirchen, and representing advances of about a mile.

For the Nazi high command the six-army attack meant that the Allied winter offensive it had hoped to throttle by blocking and ruining the Atlantic supply ports was under way.

A dispatch from Supreme headquarters said that the scant reserves available to the Nazi generals are believed insufficient to back up the long western front against simultaneous Allied assaults in sector after sector.

Metz Virtually Ringed

To the south the U.S. Third had virtually ringed Metz, the U.S. Seventh was fighting doggedly through the Vosges foothills, and the French First drove forward three more miles toward the Belfort gap near Switzerland.

In what First Army headquarters described officially as the greatest tactical air support of the war, more than 2,350 U.S. and RAF heavy bombers from Britain smashed at the enemy with deadening blows directly in front of the attack.

The Ninth Army lashed out north of Aachen on a nine-mile arc between Geilenkirchen and Eschweiler. It swept ahead 2,000 yards to within four miles of the Roer river.

Associated Press Correspondent Wes Gallagher, with the Ninth, said German resistance was lighter than expected in the initial stages. Many prisoners appeared too stunned by the deluge of bombs and shells to fight.

ASK THOSE WHO HEARD LINCOLN TO OBSERVANCE

A special invitation was issued today by the committee in charge of the annual observance of the delivery of Lincoln's Gettysburg address Saturday in the National cemetery, to all of the county residents who heard the Civil War President speak here on November 19, 1863.

Any persons who were present at the cemetery on November 19, 81 years ago, are requested to go to the GAR post room on East Middle street at 2:45 o'clock Saturday afternoon to ride to the National cemetery.

The public also was invited to attend the exercises. P. J. Kammerer, of Newville, a noted impersonator of President Lincoln, will be present. He is a veteran of the Spanish-American war and a member of Gettysburg Camp 112, Sons of Union Veterans and the Gettysburg post of the United Spanish War Veterans.

The exercises will begin at 3 o'clock at the Soldiers' National monument, the spot at which Lincoln delivered his address. Opening the program, the Rev. Charles K. Gibson, pastor of the Methodist church, will give the invocation. The Rev. Howard S. Fox, pastor of Trinity Evangelical Reformed church, will deliver the address. During the exercises Thomas J. Winebrenner will place a wreath at the grave of an unknown soldier. Mr. Winebrenner's father, the late Thomas J. Winebrenner, Sr., fought in the Battle of Gettysburg with Company G, of the 209th Pennsylvania infantry. The Rev. Mr. Gibson will close the ceremonies with the benediction.

William L. Meals, Esq., a member of the committee in charge of arrangements for the anniversary program, today estimated that there are probably "two dozen" people living in the county who heard Lincoln talk at Gettysburg.

Local Residents

He listed those in Gettysburg, as the following: William C. Storrick, well-known local historian and former superintendent of Battlefield guides; Mrs. Amanda Homan, 344 Baltimore street, who at 100 is the county's oldest resident; Jacob A. Stock, 91, North Washington street; Edward Trostle, West Middle street; William Bushman, Baltimore street, Mrs. William Zeigler, York street; and Charles W. Culp, York street.

The committee asked that the citizens of Gettysburg display the American flag on Sunday, the 81st anniversary of the famous address.

POSEA LEADS IN LEYTE ACTION

S. 2 c James Radford Cullison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Cullison, 227 South Washington street, took part in the battle with the Japanese fleet off Leyte in the Philippine Islands on October 25. Cullison is the member of an aircraft carrier crew.

A release by the Navy describes the action in these words:

"Our planes were our only means of defense and most of them were armed for other purposes. We'd come out here to support the troops landing on Leyte, not to fight warships.

"But our bomb handling crews worked miracles in breaking out torpedoes and heavier bombs and loading the planes with a Sunday punch.

"When the flight took off that turned the Japs away from us, their shells were already beginning to fall within our destroyer screen. It was truly just a matter of minutes until our ship would have been under fire from their heavy guns. But due to the unexcelled aggressiveness and bravery of our pilots a desperate situation was turned into a great victory."

ARENDTSVILLE PLAY TONIGHT

"The Sunshine Twins," a comedy in three acts by Dana Thomas, will be presented tonight and Saturday night in the Arendtsville high school auditorium by the senior class.

Members of the cast include Harold Keller, Margaret Lupp, Dorothy Barbour, William Guise, Sara Hall, Jean Taylor, George Fissel, Jean Wenk, Charles Lady, Bill Warren and Marvel Thomas. The comedy is one of the season's outstanding laugh hits.

Here And There

News Collected At Random

On May 2, 1865 Abraham Lincoln was buried in Springfield, Illinois. Today a beautiful memorial marks his final resting place. Thousands visit it every year.

On that memorable occasion Bishop Simpson, delivered the funeral oration. It follows in full:

* * *

"Fellow-citizens of Illinois, and of many parts of our entire Union: Near the capital of this large and growing State of Illinois, in the midst of this beautiful grove, and at the open mouth of the vault which has just received the remains of our fallen chieftain, we gather to pay a tribute of respect and drop the tears of sorrow around the ashes of the mighty dead. A little more than four years ago, he left his plain and quiet home in yonder city, receiving the parting words of the concourse of friends, who, in the midst of the dropping of the gentle shower, gathered around him.

"Such a scene as his return to you was never witnessed. Among the events of history there have been great processions of mourners. There was one for the patriarch Jacob, which went up from Egypt, and the Egyptians wondered at the evidences of reverence and filial affection which came from the hearts of the Israelites. There was mourning when Moses fell upon the heights of Pisgah and was hid from human view. There have been mournings in the

By HAL BOYLE

An American Air Base in Belgium, Nov. 9 (Delayed) (AP) — Flying through an exploding buzz bomb gave three airmen of this base the greatest scare of their wing-borne lives.

Lt. Philip (Skinny) Guba, 23, New York city, told of this amazing adventure with one leg drooped casually over a desk in "the spy shack" of this Black Widow night fighter base.

The flight began as a routine patrol mission. Guba flew as an extra observer with Capt. Tadas (Ted) J. Spelis, Hartford, Conn., pilot, and Lt. Eleutherios (Lefty) Eleftherion, Elmira, N. Y., regular Radar observer whose buddies say he has the longest name in the U. S. Ninth air force.

LOOKING FOR NAZIS

"We were stooging around that night looking for a German plane to take a crack at when all of a sudden this buzz bomb came hot-footing through the skies toward us," said Guba.

"It looked like a full moon steaming along about three times as fast as a crack express train. We were in a good position to intercept it, so Ted decided to try and shoot it down."

As the big, twin-engined fighter closed to within 1,500 feet of the bomb, Lefty called into the interphone:

"Shoot, Ted, shoot."

But the pilot didn't want to take any chances of this prize escaping. He sped nearer. At 1,000 feet Lefty called again:

"Give it the works, Ted, shoot!"

The plane and the buzz bomb hurtled toward each other as if on invisible rails until the target ahead appeared as a massive neon watermelon. At 400 feet Lefty screamed:

CANNON BLAST

"Ted had been sitting up there in front practically getting a sunburn from that buzz bomb's propulsion unit—so he was ready to let go," said Guba. "He gave it a long burst from his 20mm cannon and the shells streamed right into their target.

"There was a tremendous orange flash and that buzz bomb went up like a gasoline storage dump. It blew apart in a million pieces.

"We had no time to swerve and flew right through the center of the explosion. It blinded everybody in the plane for awhile."

BLINDED BY GLARE

"We thought for a moment Ted had got a piece of the buzz bomb right through him," continued Gaba. "We were diving groundward at a terrific speed and I began reaching toward the escape hatch.

"Ted was still so blinded from the glare of the explosion he couldn't see his instruments, but from the corner of his eyes he managed to see the horizon.

"That glimpse saved us. He managed to pull us out of that dive—how, I don't know.

NEVER AGAIN

"Lefty was so mad at Ted for not opening fire sooner that he would hardly talk to him for a week," said Guba.

"'I don't want anymore of that kind of stuff. The next time you decide you want to run over a buzz bomb just let me know. I'll get out and walk home.'"

Butt, Esq., attorney for the Kimes, and Eugene V. Bulleit, Esq., as attorney for the Commonwealth.

Two divorce decrees were signed by the court. Georgia Pittenturf Brady was awarded a divorce from Louis David Brady and Ruth Brothers Melhorn was awarded a divorce from John F. Melhorn. Costs were awarded to the libellants in both cases.

In a desertion and non-support hearing, Harvey Duncan, now of Baltimore, was ordered to pay up the arrearage in his support account. He is to report to the court January 19 if he has not paid up by that time. If he has paid, he need not report. His wife lives near Littlestown.

Women's Clubs Aid Library Project

Preliminary expenses of the group that have initiated the move for the organization of an Adams county library association are being paid out of the Adams County Rural School Library fund set up several years ago by the Woman's club of Gettysburg, the Trilogy club of upper Adams county and the Women's Community club of Littlestown.

Members of the committee in charge of the fund include: Mrs. Wilbur Plank, chairman; Mrs. R. S. Saby, Mrs. A. H. Barr and Mrs. Richard A. Brown, all of Gettysburg; Mrs. Chester Tyson and Mrs. G. W. Koser, of the Trilogy club, and Mrs. Emma Mehring and Mrs. J. R. Riden, of Littlestown.

GROWERS SEEK LABOR SUPPLY FOR CANNERIES

The seriousness of the labor shortage in the fruit processing plants in the county was emphasized at a meeting of the Adams County Fruit Growers' association Thursday evening in the Biglerville auditorium.

Following discussions by the members of the association present and representatives of several county canneries, the group adopted a resolution stating that "every effort would be made" to help out in the acute shortage of workers.

The growers agreed in discussion that they would be willing to do their part in making available to the canneries some of their farm and orchard help.

Those present from the canneries included M. E. Knouse, of the Knouse Corporation; Allen Stauffer, of the Musselman company, and Glenn Taylor, of the Adams Apple corporation. E. A. Crouse, manager of the local office of the United States Employment Service, also attended.

Pathologist Speaks

President Robert C. Lott presided at the meeting and introduced the speakers. Dr. Fred Lewis, research plant pathologist at the Arendtsville Fruit laboratory, gave the first address in which he explained some of the experimental work which has been done with sprays for control of leaf spot and brown rot on sour cherries.

He gave figures showing that many of the spray materials now in use reduce the normal size of the cherry. It is the special interest of the laboratory, he said, to find a spray material that will provide proper control of disease and still provide minimum injury to the fruit.

The laboratory work on cherries is checked by the number of leaves retained on the tree by October 1, the number of cherries per pound and the percentage of the solids in the fruit, he stated.

Reports On Insect Pests

Doctor Lewis also spoke of his work with the apple-cedar rust and showed a red cedar seedling he has secured in the vicinity of Arendtsville, with at least 50 cedar galls on its foliage. Considerable experimental work is being done with a material called "fermate" the research specialist declared, and it has so far proved helpful in checking

SOLDIER TELLS OF EXPERIENCE ON FOREIGN SOIL

Pfc. Charles Kerrigan, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kerrigan, 132 Chambersburg street, has completed his first "hitch" overseas. On his first anniversary in service on foreign soil, he wrote the following letter telling of his experiences:

PFC. CHARLES KERRIGAN

Netherlands East Indies

"Today marks my first hitch overseas and I felt it my duty to let The Gettysburg Times know of my experiences.

"We arrived in New Guinea a few months back, where we received our advanced jungle training. We were located in a swell area where we lived quite luxuriously. However, we had to leave the sweet and get a taste of the bitter. Eventually we were forwarded to Dutch New Guinea to oppose our foe.

"Our first encounter was quite a thrilling one. We hardly knew what it was like to have returned fire coming at us. But now realize what it is all about, and the picture isn't so bright. Contending with mud and malaria seemed to be our major obstacles, then came the atrocious Japs.

"Later we were called on to make a larger operation. We made an invasion to our present day location and were rather dominant in our task. We are now in our recuperation exercises from the constant prowling through rain, muddy jungles and high sloping hills. Soon, no doubt, we'll have another assignment given us.

"For participation in front line duty, we have been awarded the Combat Infantry badge of which the majority of our organization has earned.

"We understand that Gen. MacArthur has invaded the Philippine Islands and is making steady progress. Soon, no doubt, we will have the ruthless Japs in their own back yard and be able to draw this war to a quick termination for a better and peaceful world."

Dinner - Meeting Of Bond Group Tonight

Benjamin Ludlow, of Philadelphia, will be the principal speaker at tonight's dinner-meeting of the Adams County War Finance committee at the Hotel Gettysburg at 6 o'clock.

Edmund W. Thomas, chairman of the committee, announced today that he is hopeful of a large attendance. Every member of the committee has been invited.

Mr. Ludlow is on the speakers' bureau for the state committee. 2nd Lt. William L. Black, graduate of Gettysburg college, will sing several tenor solos accompanied by Robert Rau on the solovox. Miss Juanita Waters, a co-ed at the college, will also render several selections accompanied by Miss Nancy Pyle, also a co-ed.

PAUL SCHWARTZ NEW PRESIDENT OF BANK UNIT

Paul M. Schwartz, formerly of Gettysburg and now cashier of the People's State bank of East Berlin, was presented as the new president of the Adams County Bankers' association at the group's annual banquet meeting at the Hotel Gettysburg Thursday evening.

Other new officers elected at a brief business meeting which preceded the turkey dinner include: Vice president, Theron W. Spangler, assistant cashier and treasurer of the Littlestown National bank; secretary, Mrs. Dorothy Roomsburg, of the Peoples' State bank at East Berlin, and treasurer, Elmer W. Warren, trust officer at the First National bank of Gettysburg, re-elected.

These bankers were named to the association's council of administration: J. D. Miller, Biglerville, retiring president of the county bankers; W. M. Weidner, York Springs; H. B. Flaherty, New Oxford; Edmund W. Thomas, Gettysburg, and J. Preston Smith, McSherrystown.

Lauds Trial By Jury

Guest speaker for the evening was Judge Harvey A. Gross, York. He was introduced by Edmund W. Thomas who had been presented as toastmaster earlier in the evening by President Miller who presided during the early part of the program.

There was special music by the Wartime Harmony Aces of Harrisburg with solos by Cark Bair, baritone, and Harry M. Etter, tenor.

Addressing the group on the topic, "Romancing," Judge Gross, veteran of 41 years of legal experience at the bar and on the bench, stated his "growing regard for the system of trial by jury in the administration of justice." Pointing out the value of the human element in the jury system, he declared "human hearts render justice in trials by jury. Through their knowledge of human nature, they are able to exercise mercy, which is the only concept higher than justice on this earth."

He explained the "uncertainty" of law by pointing to the humanf element in the interpretation and administration of law but asserted that "substantial justice" is rendered in 95 per cent of the cases that go to court.

Cites Experiences

Admitting that there is ground for criticism of the cost of court litigation, Judge Gross predicted that the time is not far distant when "courts will be open and free to litigants." He added: "Justice is one of the highest attributes on this earth and it ought to be free."

Comparing the trial lawyer to the surgeon in the medical profession, Judge Gross cited cases in his own experience to confirm his statements that there is such a thing as "luck and good and bad breaks" in court trials and that psychology is an all-important element in court.

A roast Adams county turkey dinner was served to the 93 members and guests of the association.

Register Advances Up To 10 Miles In Important Conflict

By WILLIAM FRYE

London, Nov. 17 (AP)—Six Allied Armies, committed to what may be the last great battle in western Europe, advanced virtually shoulder to shoulder today against the battered German Army.

The U. S. First and Ninth Armies, driving from their five to 10-mile breach in the Siegfried line, punched out gains of one to two miles toward the Rhine.

The British Second Army reached the Maas river bend near the German border with the capture of Buggenum, three miles north of Roermond. British rearguards were only four and a half miles from the German frontier at the nearest point in the Venlo-Roermond sector. Wessem, on the Maas four and a half miles southwest of Roermond, also fell.

A field dispatch from the Ninth Army sector said possibly a dozen German towns were captured yesterday in the first day of its attack near Geilenkirchen, while the First Army surged eastward from Aachen in gains that averaged up to two miles in the initial thrust.

The bombs and guns of nearly 6,000 Allied planes, plus a thundering artillery barrage, began the assault which massed the force of two entire armies on a front hardly 15 miles wide.

On German Soil

Fighting on German soil, and aimed at the heart of Germany's industrial Rhineland with Cologne only 35 miles away, the two armies apparently caught the enemy off-balance while German divisions were preparing an attack on the First Army at Aachen.

While the tank-led troops of the First Army pushed their breach of the Siegfried line deeper, the Ninth rolled forward through the towns of Immendorf, Floverich, Euchen and, Beggendorf. All east of Geilenkirchen, and representing advances of about a mile.

For the Nazi high command the six-army attack meant that the Allied winter offensive it had hoped to throttle by blocking and ruining the Atlantic supply ports was under way.

A dispatch from Supreme headquarters said that the scant reserves available to the Nazi generals are believed insufficient to back up the long western front against simultaneous Allied assaults in sector after sector.

Metz Virtually Ringed

To the south the U.S. Third had virtually ringed Metz, the U.S. Seventh was fighting doggedly through the Vosges foothills, and the French First drove forward three more miles toward the Belfort gap near Switzerland.

In what First Army headquarters described officially as the greatest tactical air support of the war, more than 2,350 U.S. and RAF heavy bombers from Britain smashed at the enemy with deadening blows directly in front of the attack.

The Ninth Army lashed out north of Aachen on a nine-mile arc between Geilenkirchen and Eschweiler. It swept ahead 2,000 yards to within four miles of the Roer river.

Associated Press Correspondent Wes Gallagher, with the Ninth, said German resistance was lighter than expected in the initial stages. Many prisoners appeared too stunned by the deluge of bombs and shells to fight.

ASK THOSE WHO HEARD LINCOLN TO OBSERVANCE

A special invitation was issued today by the committee in charge of the annual observance of the delivery of Lincoln's Gettysburg address Saturday in the National cemetery, to all of the county residents who heard the Civil War President speak here on November 19, 1863.

Any persons who were present at the cemetery on November 19, 81 years ago, are requested to go to the GAR post room on East Middle street at 2:45 o'clock Saturday afternoon to ride to the National cemetery.

The public also was invited to attend the exercises. P. J. Kammerer, of Newville, a noted impersonator of President Lincoln, will be present. He is a veteran of the Spanish-American war and a member of Gettysburg Camp 112, Sons of Union Veterans and the Gettysburg post of the United Spanish War Veterans.

The exercises will begin at 3 o'clock at the Soldiers' National monument, the spot at which Lincoln delivered his address. Opening the program, the Rev. Charles K. Gibson, pastor of the Methodist church, will give the invocation. The Rev. Howard S. Fox, pastor of Trinity Evangelical Reformed church, will deliver the address. During the exercises Thomas J. Winebrenner will place a wreath at the grave of an unknown soldier. Mr. Winebrenner's father, the late Thomas J. Winebrenner, Sr., fought in the Battle of Gettysburg with Company G, of the 209th Pennsylvania infantry. The Rev. Mr. Gibson will close the ceremonies with the benediction.

William L. Meals, Esq., a member of the committee in charge of arrangements for the anniversary program, today estimated that there are probably "two dozen" people living in the county who heard Lincoln talk at Gettysburg.

Local Residents

He listed those in Gettysburg, as the following: William C. Storrick, well-known local historian and former superintendent of Battlefield guides; Mrs. Amanda Homan, 344 Baltimore street, who at 100 is the county's oldest resident; Jacob A. Stock, 91, North Washington street; Edward Trostle, West Middle street; William Bushman, Baltimore street, Mrs. William Zeigler, York street; and Charles W. Culp, York street.

The committee asked that the citizens of Gettysburg display the American flag on Sunday, the 81st anniversary of the famous address.

LOCAL LAD IN LEYTE ACTION

S. 2/c James Radford Cullison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Cullison, 227 South Washington street, took part in the battle with the Japanese fleet off Leyte in the Philippine Islands on October 25. Cullison is the member of an aircraft carrier crew.

A release by the Navy describes the action in these words:

"Our planes were our only means of defense and most of them were armed for other purposes. We'd come out here to support the troops landing on Leyte, not to fight warships.

"But our bomb handling crews worked miracles in breaking out torpedoes and heavier bombs and loading the planes with a Sunday punch.

"When the flight took off that turned the Japs away from us, their shells were already beginning to fall within our destroyer screen. It was truly just a matter of minutes until our ship would have been under fire from their heavy guns. But due to the unexcelled aggressiveness and bravery of our pilots a desperate situation was turned into a great victory."

Here And There

News Collected At Random

On May 2, 1865 Abraham Lincoln was buried in Springfield, Illinois. Today a beautiful memorial marks his final resting place. Thousands visit it every year.

On that memorable occasion Bishop Simpson, delivered the funeral oration. It follows in full:

"Fellow-citizens of Illinois, and of many parts of our entire Union: Near the capital of this large and growing State of Illinois, in the midst of this beautiful grove, and at the open mouth of the vault which has just received the remains of our fallen chieftain, we gather to pay a tribute of respect and drop the tears of sorrow around the ashes of the mighty dead. A little more than four years ago, he left his plain and quiet home in yonder city, receiving the parting words of the concourse of friends, who, in the midst of the dropping of the gentle shower, gathered around him.

"Such a scene as his return to you was never witnessed. Among the events of history there have been great processions of mourners. There was one for the patriarch Jacob, which went up from Egypt, and the Egyptians wondered at the evidences of reverence and filial affection which came from the hearts of the Israelites. There was mourning when Moses fell upon the heights of Pisgah and was hid from human view. There have been mournings in the

By HAL BOYLE

An American Air Base in Belgium, Nov. 9 (Delayed) (AP) — Flying through an exploding buzz bomb gave three airmen of this base the greatest scare of their wing-borne lives.

Lt. Philip (Skinny) Guba, 23, New York city, told of this amazing adventure with one leg drooped casually over a desk in "the spy shack" of this Black Widow night fighter base.

The flight began as a routine patrol mission. Guba flew as an extra observer with Capt. Tadas (Ted) J. Spelis, Hartford, Conn., pilot, and Lt. Eleutherios (Lefty) Eleftherion, Elmira, N. Y., regular Radar observer whose buddies say he has the longest name in the U. S. Ninth air force.

LOOKING FOR NAZIS

"We were stooging around that night looking for a German plane to take a crack at when all of a sudden this buzz bomb came hot-footing through the skies toward us," said Guba.

"It looked like a full moon steaming along about three times as fast as a crack express train. We were in a good position to intercept it, so Ted decided to try and shoot it down."

As the big, twin-engined fighter closed to within 1,500 feet of the bomb, Lefty called into the interphone:

"Shoot, Ted, shoot."

But the pilot didn't want to take any chances of this prize escaping. He sped nearer. At 1,000 feet Lefty called again:

The plane and the buzz bomb hurtled toward each other as if on invisible rails until the target ahead appeared as a massive neon watermelon. At 400 feet Lefty screamed:

CANNON BLAST

"Ted had been sitting up there in front practically getting a sunburn from that buzz bomb's propulsion unit—so he was ready to let go," said Guba. "He gave it a long burst from his 20mm cannon and the shells streamed right into their target.

"There was a tremendous orange flash and that buzz bomb went up like a gasoline storage dump. It blew apart in a million pieces.

"We had no time to swerve and flew right through the center of the explosion. It blinded everybody in the plane for awhile."

BLINDED BY GLARE

"We thought for a moment Ted had got a piece of the buzz bomb right through him," continued Gaba. "We were diving groundward at a terrific speed and I began reaching toward the escape hatch.

"Ted was still so blinded from the glare of the explosion he couldn't see his instruments, but from the corner of his eyes he managed to see the horizon.

"That glimpse saved us. He managed to pull us out of that dive—how, I don't know.

NEVER AGAIN

"Lefty was so mad at Ted for not opening fire sooner that he would hardly talk to him for a week," said Guba.

"'I don't want anymore of that kind of stuff. The next time you decide you want to run over a buzz bomb just let me know. I'll get out and walk home.'"

Preliminary expenses of the group that have initiated the move for the organization of an Adams county library association are being paid out of the Adams County Rural School Library fund set up several years ago by the Woman's club of Gettysburg, the Trilogy club of upper Adams county and the Women's Community club of Littlestown.

Members of the committee in charge of the fund include: Mrs. Wilbur Plank, chairman; Mrs. R. S. Saby, Mrs. A. H. Barr and Mrs. Richard A. Brown, all of Gettysburg; Mrs. Chester Tyson and Mrs. G. W. Koser, of the Trilogy club, and Mrs. Emma Mehring and Mrs. J. R. Riden, of Littlestown.

GROWERS SEEK LABOR SUPPLY FOR CANNERIES

The seriousness of the labor shortage in the fruit processing plants in the county was emphasized at a meeting of the Adams County Fruit Growers' association Thursday evening in the Biglerville auditorium.

Following discussions by the members of the association present and representatives of several county canneries, the group adopted a resolution stating that "every effort would be made" to help out in the acute shortage of workers.

The growers agreed in discussion that they would be willing to do their part in making available to the canneries some of their farm and orchard help.

Those present from the canneries included M. E. Knouse, of the Knouse Corporation; Allen Stauffer, of the Musselman company, and Glenn Taylor, of the Adams Apple corporation. E. A. Crouse, manager of the local office of the United States Employment Service, also attended.

Pathologist Speaks

President Robert C. Lott presided at the meeting and introduced the speakers. Dr. Fred Lewis, research plant pathologist at the Arendtsville Fruit laboratory, gave the first address in which he explained some of the experimental work which has been done with sprays for control of leaf spot and brown rot on sour cherries.

He gave figures showing that many of the spray materials now in use reduce the normal size of the cherry. It is the special interest of the laboratory, he said, to find a spray material that will provide proper control of disease and still provide minimum injury to the fruit.

The laboratory work on cherries is checked by the number of leaves retained on the tree by October 1, the number of cherries per pound and the percentage of the solids in the fruit, he stated.

Reports On Insect Pests

Doctor Lewis also spoke of his work with the apple-cedar rust and showed a red cedar seedling he has secured in the vicinity of Arendtsville, with at least 50 cedar galls on its foliage. Considerable experimental work is being done with a material called "fermate" the research specialist declared, and it has so far proved helpful in checking

SOLDIER TELLS OF EXPERIENCE ON FOREIGN SOIL

Pfc. Charles Kerrigan, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kerrigan, 132 Chambersburg street, has completed his first "hitch" overseas. On his first anniversary in service on foreign soil, he wrote the following letter telling of his experiences:

PFC. CHARLES KERRIGAN

Netherlands East Indies

"Today marks my first hitch overseas and I felt it my duty to let The Gettysburg Times know of my experiences.

"We arrived in New Guinea a few months back, where we received our advanced jungle training. We were located in a swell area where we lived quite luxuriously. However, we had to leave the sweet and get a taste of the bitter. Eventually we were forwarded to Dutch New Guinea to oppose our foe.

"Our first encounter was quite a thrilling one. We hardly knew what it was like to have returned fire coming at us. But now realize what it is all about, and the picture isn't so bright. Contending with mud and malaria seemed to be our major obstacles, then came the atrocious Japs.

"Later we were called on to make a larger operation. We made an invasion to our present day location and were rather dominant in our task. We are now in our recuperation exercises from the constant prowling through rain, muddy jungles and high sloping hills. Soon, no doubt, we'll have another assignment given us.

"For participation in front line duty, we have been awarded the Combat Infantry badge of which the majority of our organization has earned.

"We understand that Gen. MacArthur has invaded the Philippine Islands and is making steady progress. Soon, no doubt, we will have the ruthless Japs in their own back yard and be able to draw this war to a quick termination for a better and peaceful world."

Dinner - Meeting Of Bond Group Tonight

Benjamin Ludlow, of Philadelphia, will be the principal speaker at tonight's dinner-meeting of the Adams County War Finance committee at the Hotel Gettysburg at 6 o'clock.

Edmund W. Thomas, chairman of the committee, announced today that he is hopeful of a large attendance. Every member of the committee has been invited.

Mr. Ludlow is on the speakers' bureau for the state committee. 2nd Lt. William L. Black, graduate of Gettysburg college, will sing several tenor solos accompanied by Robert Rau on the solovox. Miss Juanita Waters, a co-ed at the college, will also render several selections accompanied by Miss Nancy Pyle, also a co-ed.

PAUL SCHWARTZ NEW PRESIDENT OF BANK UNIT

Paul M. Schwartz, formerly of Gettysburg and now cashier of the People's State bank of East Berlin, was presented as the new president of the Adams County Bankers' association at the group's annual banquet meeting at the Hotel Gettysburg Thursday evening.

Other new officers elected at a brief business meeting which preceded the turkey dinner include: Vice president, Theron W. Spangler, assistant cashier and treasurer of the Littlestown National bank; secretary, Mrs. Dorothy Roomsburg, of the Peoples' State bank at East Berlin, and treasurer, Elmer W. Warren, trust officer at the First National bank of Gettysburg, re-elected.

These bankers were named to the association's council of administration: J. D. Miller, Biglerville, retiring president of the county bankers; W. M. Weidner, York Springs; H. B. Flaherty, New Oxford; Edmund W. Thomas, Gettysburg, and J. Preston Smith, McSherrystown.

Lauds Trial By Jury

Guest speaker for the evening was Judge Harvey A. Gross, York. He was introduced by Edmund W. Thomas who had been presented as toastmaster earlier in the evening by President Miller who presided during the early part of the program.

There was special music by the Wartime Harmony Aces of Harrisburg with solos by Cark Bair, baritone, and Harry M. Etter, tenor.

Addressing the group on the topic, "Romancing," Judge Gross, veteran of 41 years of legal experience at the bar and on the bench, stated his "growing regard for the system of trial by jury in the administration of justice." Pointing out the value of the human element in the jury system, he declared "human hearts render justice in trials by jury. Through their knowledge of human nature, they are able to exercise mercy, which is the only concept higher than justice on this earth."

He explained the "uncertainty" of law by pointing to the human element in the interpretation and administration of law but asserted that "substantial justice" is rendered in 95 per cent of the cases that go to court.

Cites Experiences

Admitting that there is ground for criticism of the cost of court litigation, Judge Gross predicted that the time is not far distant when "courts will be open and free to litigants." He added: "Justice is one of the highest attributes on this earth and it ought to be free."

Comparing the trial lawyer to the surgeon in the medical profession, Judge Gross cited cases in his own experience to confirm his statements that there is such a thing as "luck and good and bad breaks" in court trials and that psychology is an all-important element in court.

A roast Adams county turkey dinner was served to the 93 members and guests of the association.

Register Advances Up To 10 Miles In Important Conflict

By WILLIAM FRYE

London, Nov. 17 (AP)—Six Allied Armies, committed to what may be the last great battle in western Europe, advanced virtually shoulder to shoulder today against the battered German Army.

The U. S. First and Ninth Armies, driving from their five to 10-mile breach in the Siegfried line, punched out gains of one to two miles toward the Rhine.

The British Second Army reached the Maas river bend near the German border with the capture of Buggenum, three miles north of Roermond. British rearguards were only four and a half miles from the German frontier at the nearest point in the Venlo-Roermond sector. Wessem, on the Maas four and a half miles southwest of Roermond, also fell.

A field dispatch from the Ninth Army sector said possibly a dozen German towns were captured yesterday in the first day of its attack near Geilenkirchen, while the First Army surged eastward from Aachen in gains that averaged up to two miles in the initial thrust.

The bombs and guns of nearly 6,000 Allied planes, plus a thundering artillery barrage, began the assault which massed the force of two entire armies on a front hardly 15 miles wide.

On German Soil

Fighting on German soil, and aimed at the heart of Germany's industrial Rhineland with Cologne only 35 miles away, the two armies apparently caught the enemy off-balance while German divisions were preparing an attack on the First Army at Aachen.

While the tank-led troops of the First Army pushed their breach of the Siegfried line deeper, the Ninth rolled forward through the towns of Immendorf, Floverich, Euchen and Beggendorf. All east of Geilenkirchen, and representing advances of about a mile.

For the Nazi high command the six-army attack meant that the Allied winter offensive it had hoped to throttle by blocking and ruining the Atlantic supply ports was under way.

A dispatch from Supreme headquarters said that the scant reserves available to the Nazi generals are believed insufficient to back up the long western front against simultaneous Allied assaults in sector after sector.

Metz Virtually Ringed

To the south the U.S. Third had virtually ringed Metz, the U.S. Seventh was fighting doggedly through the Vosges foothills, and the French First drove forward three more miles toward the Belfort gap near Switzerland.

In what First Army headquarters described officially as the greatest tactical air support of the war, more than 2,350 U.S. and RAF heavy bombers from Britain smashed at the enemy with deadening blows directly in front of the attack.

The Ninth Army lashed out north of Aachen on a nine-mile arc between Geilenkirchen and Eschweiler. It swept ahead 2,000 yards to within four miles of the Roer river.

Associated Press Correspondent Wes Gallagher, with the Ninth, said German resistance was lighter than expected in the initial stages. Many prisoners appeared too stunned by the deluge of bombs and shells to fight.

ASK THOSE WHO HEARD LINCOLN TO OBSERVANCE

A special invitation was issued today by the committee in charge of the annual observance of the delivery of Lincoln's Gettysburg address Saturday in the National cemetery, to all of the county residents who heard the Civil War President speak here on November 19, 1863.

Any persons who were present at the cemetery on November 19, 81 years ago, are requested to go to the GAR post room on East Middle street at 2:45 o'clock Saturday afternoon to ride to the National cemetery.

The public also was invited to attend the exercises. P. J. Kammerer, of Newville, a noted impersonator of President Lincoln, will be present. He is a veteran of the Spanish-American war and a member of Gettysburg Camp 112, Sons of Union Veterans and the Gettysburg post of the United Spanish War Veterans.

The exercises will begin at 3 o'clock at the Soldiers' National monument, the spot at which Lincoln delivered his address. Opening the program, the Rev. Charles K. Gibson, pastor of the Methodist church, will give the invocation. The Rev. Howard S. Fox, pastor of Trinity Evangelical Reformed church, will deliver the address. During the exercises Thomas J. Winebrenner will place a wreath at the grave of an unknown soldier. Mr. Winebrenner's father, the late Thomas J. Winebrenner, Sr., fought in the Battle of Gettysburg with Company G, of the 209th Pennsylvania infantry. The Rev. Mr. Gibson will close the ceremonies with the benediction.

William L. Meals, Esq., a member of the committee in charge of arrangements for the anniversary program, today estimated that there are probably "two dozen" people living in the county who heard Lincoln talk at Gettysburg.

Local Residents

He listed those in Gettysburg, as the following: William C. Storrick, well-known local historian and former superintendent of Battlefield guides; Mrs. Amanda Homan, 344 Baltimore street, who at 100 is the county's oldest resident; Jacob A. Stock, 91, North Washington street; Edward Trostle, West Middle street; William Bushman, Baltimore street, Mrs. William Zeigler, York street; and Charles W. Culp, York street.

The committee asked that the citizens of Gettysburg display the American flag on Sunday, the 81st anniversary of the famous address.

In case of bad weather the exercises will be held at the same time in the post rooms.

LOCAL LAD IN LEYTE ACTION

S. 2/c James Radford Cullison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Cullison, 227 South Washington street, took part in the battle with the Japanese fleet off Leyte in the Philippine Islands on October 25. Cullison is the member of an aircraft carrier crew.

A release by the Navy describes the action in these words:

"Our planes were our only means of defense and most of them were armed for other purposes. We'd come out here to support the troops landing on Leyte, not to fight warships.

"But our bomb handling crews worked miracles in breaking out torpedoes and heavier bombs and loading the planes with a Sunday punch.

"When the flight took off that turned the Japs away from us, their shells were already beginning to fall within our destroyer screen. It was truly just a matter of minutes until our ship would have been under fire from their heavy guns. But due to the unexcelled aggressiveness and bravery of our pilots a desperate situation was turned into a great victory."

Here And There

News Collected At Random

On May 2, 1865 Abraham Lincoln was buried in Springfield, Illinois. Today a beautiful memorial marks his final resting place. Thousands visit it every year.

On that memorable occasion Bishop Simpson, delivered the funeral oration. It follows in full:

"Fellow-citizens of Illinois, and of many parts of our entire Union: Near the capital of this large and growing State of Illinois, in the midst of this beautiful grove, and at the open mouth of the vault which has just received the remains of our fallen chieftain, we gather to pay a tribute of respect and drop the tears of sorrow around the ashes of the mighty dead. A little more than four years ago, he left his plain and quiet home in yonder city, receiving the parting words of the concourse of friends, who, in the midst of the dropping of the gentle shower, gathered around him.

"Such a scene as his return to you was never witnessed. Among the events of history there have been great processions of mourners. There was one for the patriarch Jacob, which went up from Egypt, and the Egyptians wondered at the evidences of reverence and filial affection which came from the hearts of the Israelites. There was mourning when Moses fell upon the heights of Pisgah and was hid from human view. There have been mournings in the

TROPICAL RAIN FAILS TO STOP YANKS ON LEYTE

By C. YATES McDANIEL

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Philippines, Nov. 17 (AP)—Slogging forward through tropical rains today, American troops on Leyte were within small arms range of the Ormoc road behind the Japanese forward line and were threatening momentarily to cut off the entire enemy spearhead.

With American long-range artillery hammering the 20-mile corridor which remains to the Japanese, and American air fighters ranging the skies overhead enemy ground mounted steadily.

Rains were slowing the action, though Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported in his daily communique that a Japanese sniper bullet wounded Brig Gen Claudius M. Easley, assistant commander of the 10th infantry.

Occupy Pegun

General Easley, a colorful Texan, was tramping through front line positions when he was struck. He was the first American general officer to be wounded in this campaign.

General MacArthur announced complete occupation of tiny Pegun island in the Mapia group just northwest of New Guinea, thus eliminating Japanese aerial watchers able to observe operations on the American bombing route to the Philippines. Bras island, also in the Mapia group, is being mopped up, MacArthur said.

American fighter planes, bombing and strafing the Ormoc Japanese supply area, sank 30 barges lying with their ramps touching, more apparently unloaded.

James Hutcheson, Associated Press correspondent with the First Cavalry division, reported that the Japanese were abandoning strong positions in rear areas instead of fighting to the death.

Pfc. Richard Huber In Jungle Skirmish

Pfc Richard C. Huber, son of Mr and Mrs. Coble Huber, Chambersburg, is a member of an infantry platoon that accounted for 17 Japs killed and seven pillboxes destroyed during a terrific nine-hour battle, deep in the jungles of a Southwest Pacific island.

It was the first battle for Huber, an automatic rifleman, who has been overseas eight months with the veteran jungle-fighting American division.

"Our squad," he explained, "was advancing up the center of a hill under some pretty heavy fire. Stuff was flying all around—I could even hear some of the bullets whizzing past my ear. A mortar shell burst about 15 yards away from where I was crawling, but, luckily, none of the shrapnel got me."

In civilian life, Huber was an interviewer for the United States Employment Service in Gettysburg. His wife, Mrs. Evelyn Huber, lives in Chambersburg.

SEEK PATH TO GOOD BUSINESS

By THOMAS HAGENBUCH

Rye, N. Y., Nov. 17 (AP)—The two topics that have been talked about more than any other at the International Business conference come up for final review today.

After a week of discussion behind closed doors, delegates who have been probing the various aspects of post war currency and credits will make their reports to the conference.

These are regarded as the key subjects of this meeting of businessmen and bankers from 52 nations, with the spotlight focused on the American delegation and its position on the granting of post war loans to other countries.

The report on private enterprise, which the conference approved at a plenary session yesterday, recommended the creation of an international organization for the "restoration" of private enterprise to be built around the International Chamber of Commerce.

Formation of an international clearing house to create standards for various commodities in world trade, together with statistics on crop and market conditions, was the chief recommendation of the conference panel on raw materials and foodstuffs.

The panel also suggested the adoption of a single standard of weights and measures for all nations, based preferably on the metric system.

Janitors, Operators Seek Pay Increases

Pittsburgh, Nov. 17 (AP) — The executive board of Local 29, AFL-Building Service Employes Union, gathered today to take what International Representative Charles C. Levey described as "such action as deemed necessary" in its demands for pay increases for janitors and elevator operators.

The union called a three-day strike among custodial workers in several large downtown office buildings last September in a wage dispute. The walkout ended after the Regional War Labor Board granted the union a hearing on its wage claims.

Levey's statement followed an order of the DWLB Wednesday in which wage increases were granted some custodial employes but refused others.

Levey said the RWLB order provides for no increases for janitors and elevator operators in class 1 buildings and that approximately 300 employes of the Union Trust, Frick and Frick annex buildings "have been completely left out of the board's order."

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Slaybaugh, Gettysburg R. D., celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary on Wednesday.

GROWERS SEEK

The second speaker was Dr. Harold Steiner, research entomologist at the Arendtsville laboratory. He discussed the various phases of the insect research program. A considerable amount of his time, Doctor Steiner said, is devoted to trying to find spray materials to control the codling moth, "the number one pest in the apple orchards in this part of the country."

He stated that the extreme weather conditions in this section during the past year had divergent effects on the different insects affecting the county's main fruit crops. While insect damage to the apple crops was unusually high this year, the peach growers has "one of the cleanest crops they have had in many years."

Seek Jamaicans For '45

The insect specialist presented figures showing that certain spray materials which have been used with arsenate of lead give much better control than the use of arsenate of lead alone. However, most of the work being done now is only in the experimental stage, Doctor Steiner said. As soon as sufficient observation has been made of their effects and uses they will be used more extensively on county farms in "try-outs" for the growers."

President Lott explained to the association members that the War Food Administration is seeking information on the probable needs for the Jamaicans farm labor next year. In the discussion that followed, the growers agreed generally that they would need the additional help and decided to communicate with the WFA through County Agricultural Extension Agent M. T. Hartman.

Importance of Canneries

In part of the general discussion of the evening, the growers talked of the processing situation in general in the county. They disclosed that the canning plants provide the growers with their largest cash market for the apple crops. They estimated that at least 90 per cent of the apple crop this year went to the various processing plants.

Also disclosed was the fact that the processors took the initiative in trying to establish higher price levels for apples—even above Office of Price Administration prices.

County Agent Hartman spoke on the importance of mice control in the orchards and recommended the use of poisoned bait to kill them. He reminded the growers that they may place their orders for the bait either through the county extension office at the court house or the county farm bureau cooperative.

This was the last meeting of the association for the year. The next meeting probably will be an all-day session to be held sometime in February, Lott said.

TROPICAL RAIN FAILS TO STOP YANKS ON LEYTE

By C. YATES McDANIEL

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Philippines, Nov. 17 (AP)—Slogging forward through tropical rains today, American troops on Leyte were within small arms range of the Ormoc road behind the Japanese forward line and were threatening momentarily to cut off the enemy spearhead.

With American long-range artillery hammering the 26-mile corridor which remains to the Japanese, and American air fighters ranging the skies overhead, enemy dead mounted steadily.

Rains were slowing the action, though, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported in his daily communique, that a Japanese sniper bullet wounded Brig. Gen. Claudius M. Easley, assistant commander of the 96th division.

Occupy Pegun

General Easley, a colorful Texan, was tramping through front line positions when he was struck. He was the first American general officer to be wounded in this campaign.

General MacArthur announced complete occupation of tiny Pegun island in the Mapia group just northwest of New Guinea, thus eliminating Japanese aerial watchers able to observe operations on the American bombing route to the Philippines. Bras island, also in the Mapia group, is being mopped up, MacArthur said.

American fighter planes, bombing and strafing the Ormoc Japanese supply area, sank 30 barges lying with their ramps touching shore, apparently unloaded.

James Hutcheson, Associated Press correspondent with the First Cavalry division, reported that the Japanese were abandoning strong positions in rear areas instead of fighting to the death.

Pfc. Richard Huber In Jungle Skirmish

Pfc. Richard C. Huber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Coble Huber, Chambersburg, is a member of an infantry platoon that accounted for 17 Japs killed and seven pillboxes destroyed during a terrific nine-hour battle, deep in the jungles of a Southwest Pacific island.

It was the first battle for Huber, an automatic rifleman, who has been overseas eight months with the veteran jungle-fighting American division.

"Our squad," he explained, "was advancing up the center of a hill under some pretty heavy fire. Stuff was flying all around—I could even hear some of the bullets whizzing past my ear. A mortar shell burst about 15 yards away from where I was crawling, but, luckily, none of the shrapnel got me."

In civilian life, Huber was an interviewer for the United States Employment Service in Gettysburg. His wife, Mrs. Evelyn Huber, lives in Chambersburg.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 17 (AP) — The executive board of Local 29, AFL-Building Service Employes Union, gathered today to take what International Representative Charles C. Levey described as "such action as deemed necessary" in its demands for pay increases for janitors and elevator operators.

The union called a three-day strike among custodial workers in several large downtown office buildings last September in a wage dispute. The walkout ended after the Regional War Labor Board granted the union a hearing on its wage claims.

Levey's statement followed an order of the DWLB Wednesday in which wage increases were granted some custodial employes but refused others.

Levey said the RWLB order provides for no increases for janitors and elevator operators in class 1 buildings and that approximately 300 employes of the Union Trust, Frick and Frick annex buildings "have been completely left out of the board's order."

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Slaybaugh, Gettysburg R. D., celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary on Wednesday.

The second speaker was Dr. Harold Steiner, research entomologist at the Arendtsville laboratory. He discussed the various phases of the insect research program. A considerable amount of his time, Doctor Steiner said, is devoted to trying to find spray materials to control the codling moth, "the number one pest in the apple orchards in this part of the country."

He stated that the extreme weather conditions in this section during the past year had divergent effects on the different insects affecting the county's main fruit crops. While insect damage to the apple crops was unusually high this year, the peach growers has "one of the cleanest crops they have had in many years."

Seek Jamaicans For '45

The insect specialist presented figures showing that certain spray materials which have been used with arsenate of lead give much better control than the use of arsenate of lead alone. However, most of the work being done now is only in the experimental stage, Doctor Steiner said. As soon as sufficient observation has been made of their effects and uses they will be used more extensively on county farms in "try-outs" for the growers."

President Lott explained to the association members that the War Food Administration is seeking information on the probable needs for the Jamaicans farm labor next year. In the discussion that followed, the growers agreed generally that they would need the additional help and decided to communicate with the WFA through County Agricultural Extension Agent M. T. Hartman.

Importance of Canneries

In part of the general discussion of the evening, the growers talked of the processing situation in general in the county. They disclosed that the canning plants provide the growers with their largest cash market for the apple crops. They estimated that at least 90 per cent of the apple crop this year went to the various processing plants.

Also disclosed was the fact that the processors took the initiative in trying to establish higher price levels for apples—even above Office of Price Administration prices.

County Agent Hartman spoke on the importance of mice control in the orchards and recommended the use of poisoned bait to kill them. He reminded the growers that they may place their orders for the bait either through the county extension office at the court house or the county farm bureau cooperative.

This was the last meeting of the association for the year. The next meeting probably will be an all-day session to be held sometime in February, Lott said.

TROPICAL RAIN FAILS TO STOP YANKS ON LEYTE

By C. YATES McDANIEL

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Philippines, Nov. 17 (AP)—Slogging forward through tropical rains today, American troops on Leyte were within small arms range of the Ormoc road behind the Japanese forward line and were threatening momentarily to cut off the enemy spearhead.

With American long-range artillery hammering the 26-mile corridor which remains to the Japanese, and American air fighters ranging the skies overhead, enemy dead mounted steadily.

Rains were slowing the action, though, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported in his daily communique, that a Japanese sniper bullet wounded Brig. Gen. Claudius M. Easley, assistant commander of the 96th division.

Occupy Pegun

General Easley, a colorful Texan, was tramping through front line positions when he was struck. He was the first American general officer to be wounded in this campaign.

General MacArthur announced complete occupation of tiny Pegun island in the Mapia group just northwest of New Guinea, thus eliminating Japanese aerial watchers able to observe operations on the American bombing route to the Philippines. Bras island, also in the Mapia group, is being mopped up, MacArthur said.

American fighter planes, bombing and strafing the Ormoc Japanese supply area, sank 30 barges lying with their ramps touching shore, apparently unloaded.

James Hutcheson, Associated Press correspondent with the First Cavalry division, reported that the Japanese were abandoning strong positions in rear areas instead of fighting to the death.

Pfc. Richard Huber In Jungle Skirmish

Pfc. Richard C. Huber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Coble Huber, Chambersburg, is a member of an infantry platoon that accounted for 17 Japs killed and seven pillboxes destroyed during a terrific nine-hour battle, deep in the jungles of a Southwest Pacific island.

It was the first battle for Huber, an automatic rifleman, who has been overseas eight months with the veteran jungle-fighting American division.

"Our squad," he explained, "was advancing up the center of a hill under some pretty heavy fire. Stuff was flying all around—I could even hear some of the bullets whizzing past my ear. A mortar shell burst about 15 yards away from where I was crawling, but, luckily, none of the shrapnel got me."

In civilian life, Huber was an interviewer for the United States Employment Service in Gettysburg. His wife, Mrs. Evelyn Huber, lives in Chambersburg.

SEEK PATH TO GOOD BUSINESS

By THOMAS HAGENBUCH

Rye, N. Y., Nov. 17 (AP)—The two topics that have been talked about more than any other at the International Business conference come up for final review today.

After a week of discussion behind closed doors, delegates who have been probing the various aspects of post war currency and credits will make their reports to the conference.

These are regarded as the key subjects of this meeting of businessmen and bankers from 52 nations, with the spotlight focused on the American delegation and its position on the granting of post war loans to other countries.

The report on private enterprise, which the conference approved at a plenary session yesterday, recommended the creation of an international organization for the "restoration" of private enterprise to be built around the International Chamber of Commerce.

Formation of an international clearing house to create standards for various commodities in world trade, together with statistics on crop and market conditions, was the chief recommendation of the conference panel on raw materials and foodstuffs.

The panel also suggested the adoption of a single standard of weights and measures for all nations, based preferably on the metric system.

In part of the general discussion of the evening, the growers talked of the processing situation in general in the county. They disclosed that the canning plants provide the growers with their largest cash market for the apple crops. They estimated that at least 90 per cent of the apple crop this year went to the various processing plants.

Also disclosed was the fact that the processors took the initiative in trying to establish higher price levels for apples—even above Office of Price Administration prices.

County Agent Hartman spoke on the importance of mice control in the orchards and recommended the use of poisoned bait to kill them. He reminded the growers that they may place their orders for the bait either through the county extension office at the court house or the county farm bureau cooperative.

This was the last meeting of the association for the year. The next meeting probably will be an all-day session to be held sometime in February, Lott said.

CPL. R. B. NAUGLE PARTY GUEST IN ENGLISH HOME

Corp. R. B. Naugle, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Naugle, East Middle street, wounded in August, was among a group of convalescent Yankee soldiers and airmen who were entertained early last month at a country house party at Ecton village, near Northhampton, England.

They were received at the stately country home of Col. and Mrs. H. G. Sotheby at Ecton, birthplace of Josiah Franklin, father of Benjamin Franklin. Franklin's ancestors are buried in Ecton churchyard.

The trip was arranged through the Northhampton Friendship committee whose chairman is W. Cowper Barrons, managing editor of the Chronicle Echo, Northhampton's evening newspaper. In a letter to The Gettysburg Times about the trip, Mr. Barrons reports that Corporal Naugle "is making fast progress toward recovery and is cheerful about everything."

Washington Link, Too

Most of the Americans who made the journey were men who had returned not long before from the continent. The group included casualties from the fighting in Belgium and France.

Ecton village in the English Midlands links its history with that of the Washington family, too, whose ancestral home is 20 miles away at Sulgrave Manor.

An account of the Americans' trip to Ecton as reported in the Chronicle Echo follows in part:

"Colonel and Mrs. H. G. Sotheby, owners of stately Ecton Hall, were hosts to the group, which was led by Lt. J. E. Kennedy, of Lincoln, Nebraska. Colonel and Mrs. Sotheby are notable war-time hosts for servicemen—British and Allied and American—and have done wonders with war-time supplies to entertain hundreds of U. S. Air Corps and Army personnel. To all a visit to "the Sothebys" is among the happiest of memories.

"There are lots to see at Ecton Hall. Fine pictures, fine period furniture and curios, rare books in the library, and lovely well-kept grounds. The boys certainly had a great time. They much appreciated the friendly welcome and two special features—a fine tea amid fine appointments, and the Franklin bochure which Colonel Sotheby had prepared for his American guests. Lt. Kennedy voiced their appreciation, and said that the autographed photographs of Ecton Hall, given them by Mrs. Sotheby, would be a cherished souvenir of a delightful visit.

"Lieut.-General Sir John and Lady Brown, friends and neighbors at Ecton Grange, joined Colonel and Mrs. Sotheby in entertaining the visitors. Sir John, two years retired from active service, has the distinction of being the first Territorial (or Militia) soldier in the British Army to rise to Lieut.-General.

Mr. and Mrs. Naugle have little information about their son's injuries. They never received a War department notification. They received a letter from Corporal Naugle, dated August 28, stating that he was in a hospital in England. Their last letter from him was dated November 1 and he remained in the hospital.

He was promoted to the rank of corporal while in the hospital. His only reference to his injury was to say he had been "hurt on the line." He is an armor-gunner in the Air Corps.

ADVERTISING TO SPARK BIG BUSINESS BOOM

Harrisburg, Nov. 17 (AP)—George P. Gable, Altoona department store executive, and president of the Pennsylvania Retailers' association, said today that "advertising will be the spark that will fire our economic engine when we turn to the pursuits of peace."

Gable made the statement in a letter to J. A. Krug, chairman of the War Production board, urging that the board "take every possible step to encourage greater production of newsprint so that present consumption restrictions may be relaxed upon the termination of the European phase of the war."

"To do the job most effectively, retailers must depend on newspaper advertising," Gable said in the letter released by the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers association. "By virtue of its great coverage and its flexibility for day-to-day purposes, newspaper advertising is the principal medium by which the retailer advertises his wares to the public.

"We do not believe it can be safely assumed that people will hasten to the stores, upon the defeat of Germany to buy long deferred wants, regardless of whether retailers advertise or not. On the contrary, during the early stages of the reconversion period, there will be a natural hesitancy to buy beyond daily needs because of employment uncertainties.

"This will indeed be a critical period unless bold and aggressive sales promotion measures are taken at the outset. A negative buying psychology might easily arise and rapidly gain strength. The adverse effect this would have on the production and consumption of civilian goods, and on employment generally is obvious."

American Industry Is Winning War

Pittsburgh, Nov. 17 (AP)—V. Peter Ahearn, industry member of the national War Labor Board, praised the gigantic war production of management and labor in an address to the industrial hygiene foundation at Mellon Institute yesterday.

"Even with the strikes you have been reading about," he declared, "the unions have done a swell job in general in honoring the 'no strike' pledge."

At Teheran, he added, "Stalin toasted American production—and American production is what is winning the war."

FINLAND GETS NEW MINISTER

Stockholm, Nov. 17 (AP)—J. K. Paasikivi was named prime minister of Finland today in a shakeup of the cabinet.

A veteran peace envoy and former (1918) premier who participated in the negotiations which led to the Moscow-Helsinki armistice, Paasikivi succeeds Erhu Castren as Baron Carl Gustaf Mannerheim's first minister.

(The Finnish radio announced Nov. 11 that Paasikivi had accepted the offer of the position. The Castren regime had been criticized by Soviet organs for its handling of the Russian-Finnish armistice problems.)

Ten new ministers were named in the 18-man cabinet, including one Communist, Y. Leino. He was appointed to the assistant communications post. C. J. A. Enckell remains foreign minister.

ASKS JEWS TO CRUSH TERROR IN PALESTINE

London, Nov. 17 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill called upon the Jews of Palestine today to cast out and crush the terrorist gang and warned that continuance of its activities would menace the future of Zionism.

Denouncing the assassination of Lord Moyne, British resident minister for the Middle East, as a shameful crime which has shocked the world," the Prime Minister told Commons:

"It has affected no one more strongly than those like myself who in the past have been the consistent friends of the Jews and constant architects of their future.

May Change Stand

"If our dreams for Zionism are to end in the smoke of the assassin's pistol and our labors for its future produce only a new set of gangsters worthy of Nazi Germany, many like myself will have to reconsider the position we have maintained so consistently and so long in the past."

Saying that the primary responsibility rested with the Palestine authorities, Churchill said the executive of the Jewish agency already had called upon the community to drive out the members of "this destructive band, to deprive them of all refuge and shelter and to resist their threats and to eradicate their terrorist organization."

"We must wait for those words to be translated into deeds," he said. "Every man, woman and child of the Jewish community must do his or her best to bring this terrorism to an end."

Rumor Wallace In Cabinet Post

Washington, Nov. 17 (AP)—Associates sizing up the future of Vice-President Henry A. Wallace suggested today that he might want to backtrack into the cabinet.

They are pretty well agreed that Wallace's political and Vice-Presidential careers won't terminate together next January 20 and that the former Agriculture Secretary will continue in public life instead of going back to his farm journal or Iowa cornfields.

But their opinions differ as to whether Wallace has an eye on 1948 and the political toga of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Some who have been closely identified with him say he may have hopes of growing into Presidential timber within the next four years. They reason that he might like to go back into the cabinet or take some other high post that would give him an opportunity to keep his name before the public.

CUT DEAD WOOD ORDERS MARTIN

Harrisburg, Nov. 17 (AP)—Governor Martin's cabinet was under orders today to "cut out all dead wood" in state government personnel under their jurisdiction.

The Chief Executive said "there won't be any reprisals from a political standpoint" and explained the move was designed "to increase efficiency of government."

"Dead wood in a public position," explained Martin to reporters yesterday, "is a man that's been in a job so long he feels he's indispensable and is discourteous to the public."

The Governor previously told the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women that the commonwealth's $170,000,000 treasury surplus "will not be used for the advantage of any political party or any section" of the state.

"The money of Pennsylvania is not going to be wasted," he said, "and we're not going to start bargaining as long as I am Governor." He also asked the council for its support of the administration after stating "we may have strong opposition" from what he called "our opposition party."

3,500 BOMBERS HIT RHINELAND FOR FIVE HOURS

By HENRY B. JAMESON

London, Nov. 17 (AP)—More than 3,500 bombers, the greatest air fleet ever to go into a single action in direct support of an army, blasted the approaches to the Rhine for five hours yesterday in opening Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's winter offensive.

German westwall troops and defenses in front of three Allied armies were bombarded with more than 13,000 tons of explosives and field dispatches said that before nightfall hundreds of stunned Nazi prisoners had been taken.

While the weather was not altogether favorable, the attack was described as more effective and better concentrated in places than at either Caen or Saint Lo, where similar carpet bombings touched off spectacular land offensives.

2 Mass Attacks

Approximately 2,400 American and British heavy bombers, in two separate mass attacks, laid more than 11,000 tons of fragmentation and anti-personnel bombs into an "L" shaped area 15 miles long and 10 miles deep northeast of Aachen.

The massive attacks went unchallenged by the German air force. Out of all th U. S. Eighth and Ninth air force planes participating five heavy bombers and 12 fighters were reported missing. RAF losses were not announced immediately.

U. S. 15th Air Force bombers from Italy, which gave an assist to the western drive yesterday with an attack on railway yards at Munich, were reported over the Lower Danube region again today.

PON MY SOLE

Camp Lee, Va. Nov. 17 (AP)—In a hurry Wac Pvt. Dortha Deveau, of the quartermaster school here, sent her shoes out for repair.

A short time later she received a note from Cpl. R. H. Williams of the Camp Lee repair unit, saying that "we are more than glad to repair your shoes, but feel that better cooperation on your part is necessary" because "after careful study we find that it is impossible for anybody to have two left feet."

SOLDIER TELLS EXPERIENCES ON ITALIAN FRONT

Emmitsburg—T-C Cletus E. Cool, son of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Cool, near Emmitsburg, relates some of his experiences during the heavy fighting in Italy, in a letter to his parents. He has been overseas two years, and has been in a number of battles in the Italian sector. He wrote as follows:

"I have not had much time to write, and when there is an opportunity to do so, writing material is not always at hand. I have a rest period at present and I'll try to tell you some of the things that I have seen and some of the fighting experiences.

"We are now in an advanced position, right in the middle of the country, and nearly all the towns have been destroyed. The Germans left yesterday. The people are returning to find their homes gone, many of them just sitting down on the ruins and crying. I pity the children. We soldiers divide our limited rations with them. You see, we are living on field rations as we advance.

Thanks for U. S. A.

"I learned that the people of this town have been living in caves for a long time, some to escape the Germans and others to keep free of the bombardments. There is a cave under the church which has no roof, one wall standing, and about half of the altar. The Stations of the Cross are on the wall, and the Crucifix remains intact on the part of the altar which was left undamaged. You people at home must give thanks for that country of ours, the mountains at our door, the fine foods, and the freedom of life to all. I know that I will know better how to live if I am spared to return home.

"There are quite a number of caves in this section of the country. The Germans have been using them for concealment as they retreat, but our soldiers sleep and remain in the open and in trenches as the stench in the caves is more than we can take. In one cave were a number of dead Germans on top of the ground, but as always their shoes and much of their clothing had been removed. It must be that Germany is short of leather for with few exceptions a dead German is shoeless.

In Slit Trenches

"The Germans are sure dug in the mountains, and the roads are terrible. Mules are being used to bring up ammunition and medical supplies. A mule went down over the bank with his pack, tumbling end over end, and brought up against a rock with a broken neck. We recovered the supplies but left the mule to his long sleep.

"When under direct fire from the Germans, we live in slit trenches, like the ground moles out in the fields back of the house, and when we hear a shell coming, we grab our helmets and flatten out in the bottom of the trench, hoping and praying that the shell will not make a direct hit on our trench. But, often some soldier gets hit, and then the call, 'medic,' when it is my duty to make a run for the place where the call comes from, and frequently I am compelled to drop down into a trench several times on my way to the injured man. If the man is badly wounded beyond my ability to give first aid a doctor is called—doctors are in first line trenches, too, to give aid almost at the moment. The injured man is then removed to the rear. Our wounded men are expertly cared for. I have seen men so badly wounded that life was gone as far as outward observation indicated, but were revived and saved.

Deep, Sticky Mud

"The mud is something to write home about, deep mud, sticky mud everywhere. I am coated from head to foot nearly all the time. When it dries on clothes, a soldier needs help to bend down to pick something from the ground. I stood my pants in a corner and they stood alone. I have gone days without a shave, without a bath, but please understand that such conditions exist only when we are on a drive to the front. We are taken back to rest camps at intervals, when other troops go on ahead to keep the Germans on the move. The winter will bring many changes in the method of fighting, I suppose. Anyway, it will be a swap of mud for snow and cold.

"We got the P.X. ration yesterday. It is the first we have had since landing. It consists of two Clark bars, and four cigars at a cost of thirty-five cents. Nothing like it is to be had in this country. Sure made one feel fine to have something from the candy stores at home, but who could eat the candy bars with a dozen little, round eyes looking at you. You should have seen those children divide those two Clark bars. All the children got a taste. If and when you have an opportunity to send something to the children of Italy don't hesitate to do all you can for them.

Visits Rome

"I was fortunate in seeing the greater part of Rome. I was present at the Vatican once when the Pope gave a talk to and blessed we soldiers who were present. I made other visits to the Holy City but I did not see the Pope at those times. I saw the city of Rome from the top of the church. Rome is a beautiful city and very little damage done by the Germans, if any. It seems strange that the city was spared when considering the most complete destruction of other cities by the Germans. If the German leaders talked with the Pope than I feel that I know the reason for sparing the city."

"HELLO GIRLS" IN DAYTON GO OUT ON STRIKE

Columbus, O., Nov. 17 (AP)—Telephone operators at Columbus struck today in sympathy with a walkout of operators at Dayton early this morning, and the long distance board said it was accepting emergency calls today.

Dayton, O., Nov. 17 (AP)—Union telephone operators in this war-busy city, who had threatened to strike Dec. 3 in protest against hiring of out-of-town switchboard workers, walked out unexpectedly about 6:10 a. m. (EWT) today and established picket lines at entrances to the Ohio Bell Telephone Company's downtown building.

Miss Jeanette Reedy, President of the Southwestern area council of the Ohio Federation of Telephone workers, an independent union, said about 600 operators were effected.

Unionists said dial telephones were not affected by the strike and that some operators remained on duty. Callers seeking information were informed by a supervisor that no company statement was available immediately.

Secret Meeting

Miss Reedy said the decision to strike today was reached at a secret meeting of union members Wednesday night. Union spokesmen previously had announced that members at the session merely affirmed a Nov. 3 decision to walk out Dec. 3.

Miss Reedy said Dayton workers received assurance yesterday of cooperation in event of a walkout from "the entire southwestern area council which has 2,500 members." The council covers all but the northeastern third of the state.

She said previously "sympathy" strikes "might be called" in other Ohio cities, including Cleveland.

The issue involved, Miss Reedy said, is opposition to employment of non-city workers plus living expenses.

O. N. Olsen, Ohio Bell commercial manager at Dayton, said there were insufficient operators in Dayton and that expense money had to be provided operators from out-of-town.

Soldier Votes To Decide Solon Seat

Pittsburgh, Nov. 17 (AP)—It will take the soldier vote to settle the fight for a seat in the State House of Representatives between Rep. Owen B. Hannon, Republican, seeking reelection, and the unpredictable William N. McNair, Democrat.

McNair, the former Mayor of Pittsburgh, is trailing by 583 votes on the basis of the official count in the fourth legislative district of Allegheny county.

Counting the soldier vote begins November 22.

Report Subs Now Fire Flying Bombs

London, Nov. 17 (AP)—Reports that the Germans have been fitting up submarines with launching devices capable of directing flying bombs against American cities have been current in London and Stockholm for the last 24 hours.

Walter Farr, London Daily Mail correspondent in Stockholm, "broke" the story, but the same report was current in London many hours before it could be published. Farr said both surface and underwater vessels were being fitted along the Norwegian coast as robot bomb launchers. The London report mentioned only submarines.

Farr said he was informed that both U-boats and surface craft were fitted to fire bombs from their decks "against such targets as New York, Philadelphia or towns farther inland in America."

17 SHIPS SUNK IN NOV. 12 RAID

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Nov. 17 (AP)—Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, revising previous figures upward, announced that Third fleet carrier planes sank a cruiser, four destroyers and 11 cargo vessels and oil tankers in their No. 12 raid on Manilla.

The light cruiser previously reported as damaged was known to have sunk, Nimitz said in a communique yesterday. Returning pilots also originally reported only two destroyers sunk and said the merchantmen were either destroyed or left blazing.

Four torpedoes also were sent into a floating drydock, believed to be the 500-foot Admiral Dewey, which the Americans scuttled before Manila's fall. The Japanese evidently raised it.

The Pacific commander reported a series of aerial strikes from Haha and Iwo Islands, in the Bonin and Volcano groups, to by-passed islands in the northern Palaus. A bomb hit was scored on a small cargo vessel at Iwo and a possible hit was made on a medium-sized merchantman at Haha. The later island is some 650 miles south of Tokyo.

Ground installations in the Palaus were attacked heavily by land-based Liberators which also sank several barges and other small craft.

TREATED FOR RABIES

Pittsburgh, Nov. 17 (AP) — Six persons, five of them children, were ordered to begin Pasture treatments today after a hunting dog which had bitten them was determined to be rabid.

Hope Abandoned For Trapped Men

Wilkes-Barre, Nov. 17 (AP)—No further hope is held for rescue of three men trapped in an abandoned water-filled vein at the Franklin operation of the Pagnotti interests although pumping continued at an accelerated pace last night.

Officials have had no communication with the men since the gangway was flooded Saturday morning. They believed all of the water will have to be pumped from the area before the men are reached.

DIES OF BURNS

Chester, Pa., Nov. 17 (AP)—William O'Neill, 33, of Chester, died yesterday in Chester hospital of burns suffered when his clothing ignited while he was cleaning the upholstery of his automobile with gasoline. Police said a spark from a cigarette O'Neill was smoking set the upholstery afire and the flames spread to his clothes.

EVEN DIVISION

Los Angeles, Nov. 18 (AP)—Miss Jane Gray has lived 33 years in Ireland, 33 years in the United States and 33 years in the Hollenbeck home for aged persons here, she disclosed as she celebrated her 99th birthday Wednesday.

ADVERTISING TO SPARK BIG BUSINESS BOOM

Harrisburg, Nov. 17 (AP)—George P. Gable, Altoona department store executive, and president of the Pennsylvania Retailers' association, said today that "advertising will be the spark that will fire our economic engine when we turn to the pursuits of peace."

Gable made the statement in a letter to J. A. Krug, chairman of the War Production board, urging that the board "take every possible step to encourage greater production of newsprint so that present consumption restrictions may be relaxed upon the termination of the European phase of the war."

"To do the job most effectively, retailers must depend on newspaper advertising," Gable said in the letter released by the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers association. "By virtue of its great coverage and its flexibility for day-to-day purposes, newspaper advertising is the principal medium by which the retailer advertises his wares to the public.

"We do not believe it can be safely assumed that people will hasten to the stores, upon the defeat of Germany to buy long deferred wants, regardless of whether retailers advertise or not . On the contrary, during the early stages of the reconversion period, there will be a natural hesitancy to buy beyond daily needs because of employment uncertainties.

"This will indeed be a critical period unless bold and aggressive sales promotion measures are taken at the outset. A negative buying psychology might easily arise and rapidly gain strength. The adverse effect this would have on the production and consumption of civilian goods, and on employment generally is obvious."

American Industry Is Winning War

Pittsburgh, Nov. 17 (AP)—V. Peter Ahearn, industry member of the national War Labor Board, praised the gigantic war production of management and labor in an address to the industrial hygiene foundation at Mellon Institute yesterday.

"Even with the strikes you have been reading about," he declared, "the unions have done a swell job in general in honoring the 'no strike' pledge."

At Teheran, he added, "Stalin toasted American production—and American production is what is winning the war."

FINLAND GETS NEW MINISTER

Stockholm, Nov. 17 (AP)—J. K. Paasikivi was named prime minister of Finland today in a shakeup of the cabinet.

A veteran peace envoy and former (1918) premier who participated in the negotiations which led to the Moscow-Helsinki armistice, Paasikivi succeeds Erhu Castren as Baron Carl Gustaf Mannerheim's first minister.

(The Finnish radio announced Nov. 11 that Paasikivi had accepted the offer of the position. The Castren regime had been criticized by Soviet organs for its handling of the Russian-Finnish armistice problems.)

Ten new ministers were named in the 18-man cabinet, including one Communist, Y. Leino. He was appointed to the assistant communications post. C. J. A. Enckell remains foreign minister.

ASKS JEWS TO CRUSH TERROR IN PALESTINE

London, Nov. 17 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill called upon the Jews of Palestine today to cast out and crush the terrorist gang and warned that continuance of its activities would menace the future of Zionism.

Denouncing the assassination of Lord Moyne, British resident minister for the Middle East, as a shameful crime which has shocked the world," the Prime Minister told Commons:

"It has affected no one more strongly than those like myself who in the past have been the consistent friends of the Jews and constant architects of their future.

May Change Stand

"If our dreams for Zionism are to end in the smoke of the assassin's postol and our labors for its future produce only a new set of gangsters worthy of Nazi Germany, many like myself will have to reconsider the position we have maintained so consistently and so long in the past."

Saying that the primary responsibility rested with the Palestine authorities, Churchill said the executive of the Jewish agency already had called upon the community to drive out the members of "this destructive band, to deprive them of all refuge and shelter and to resist their threats and to eradicate their terrorist organization."

"We must wait for those words to be translated into deeds," he said. "Every man, woman and child of the Jewish community must do his or her best to bring this terrorism to an end."

Rumor Wallace In Cabinet Post

Washington, Nov. 17 (AP)—Associates sizing up the future of Vice-President Henry A. Wallace suggested today that he might want to backtrack into the cabinet.

They are pretty well agreed that Wallace's political and Vice-Presidential careers won't terminate together next January 20 and that the former Agriculture Secretary will continue in public life instead of going back to his farm journal or Iowa cornfields.

But their opinions differ as to whether Wallace has an eye on 1948 and the political toga of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Some who have been closely identified with him say he may have hopes of growing into Presidential timber within the next four years. They reason that he might like to go back into the cabinet or take some other high post that would give him an opportunity to keep his name before the public.

CUT DEAD WOOD ORDERS MARTIN

Harrisburg, Nov. 17 (AP)—Governor Martin's cabinet was under orders today to "cut out all dead wood" in state government personnel under their jurisdiction.

The Chief Executive said "there won't be any reprisals from a political standpoint" and explained the move was designed "to increase efficiency of government."

"Dead wood in a public position," explained Martin to reporters yesterday, "is a man that's been in a job so long he feels he's indispensable and is discourteous to the public."

The Governor previously told the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women that the commonwealth's $170,000,000 treasury surplus "will not be used for the advantage of any political party or any section" of the state.

"The money of Pennsylvania is not going to be wasted," he said, "and we're not going to start bargaining as long as I am Governor." He also asked the council for its support of the administration after stating "we may have strong opposition" from what he called "our opposition party."

3,500 BOMBERS HIT RHINELAND FOR FIVE HOURS

By HENRY B. JAMESON

London, Nov. 17 (AP)—More than 3,500 bombers, the greatest air fleet ever to go into a single action in direct support of an army, blasted the approaches to the Rhine for five hours yesterday in opening Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's winter offensive.

German westwall troops and defenses in front of three Allied armies were bombarded with more than 13,000 tons of explosives and field dispatches said that before nightfall hundreds of stunned Nazi prisoners had been taken.

While the weather was not altogether favorable, the attack was described as more effective and better concentrated in places than at either Caen or Saint Lo, where similar carpet bombings touched off spectacular land offensives.

2 Mass Attacks

Approximately 2,400 American and British heavy bombers, in two separate mass attacks, laid more than 11,000 tons of fragmentation and anti-personnel bombs into an "L" shaped area 15 miles long and 10 miles deep northeast of Aachen.

The massive attacks went unchallenged by the German air force. Out of all th U. S. Eighth and Ninth air force planes participating five heavy bombers and 12 fighters were reported missing. RAF losses were not announced immediately.

U. S. 15th Air Force bombers from Italy, which gave an assist to the western drive yesterday with an attack on railway yards at Munich, were reported over the Lower Danube region again today.

SOLDIER TELLS EXPERIENCES ON ITALIAN FRONT

Emmitsburg—T-C Cletus E. Cool, son of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Cool, near Emmitsburg, relates some of his experiences during the heavy fighting in Italy, in a letter to his parents. He has been overseas two years, and has been in a number of battles in the Italian sector. He wrote as follows:

"I have not had much time to write, and when there is an opportunity to do so, writing material is not always at hand. I have a rest period at present and I'll try to tell you some of the things that I have seen and some of the fighting experiences.

"We are now in an advanced position, right in the middle of the country, and nearly all the towns have been destroyed. The Germans left yesterday. The people are returning to find their homes gone, many of them just sitting down on the ruins and crying. I pitty the children. We soldiers divide our limited rations with them. You see, we are living on field rations as we advance.

Thanks for U. S. A.

"I learned that the people of this town have been living in caves for a long time, some to escape the Germans and others to keep free of the bombardments. There is a cave under the church which has no roof, one wall standing, and about half of the altar. The Stations of the Cross are on the wall, and the Crucifix remains intact on the part of the altar which was left undamaged. You people at home must give thanks for that country of ours, the mountains at our door, the fine foods, and the freedom of life to all. I know that I will know better how to live if I am spared to return home.

"There are quite a number of caves in this section of the country. The Germans have been using them for concealment as they retreat, but our soldiers sleep and remain in the open and in trenches as the stench in the caves is more than we can take. In one cave were a number of dead Germans on top of the ground, but as always their shoes and much of their clothing had been removed. It must be that Germany is short of leather for with few exceptions a dead German is shoeless.

In Slit Trenches

"The Germans are sure dug in the mountains, and the roads are terrible. Mules afe being used to bring up ammunition and medical supplies. A mule went down over the bank with his pack, tumbling end over end, and brought up against a rock with a broken neck. We recovered the supplies but left the mule to his long sleep.

"When under direct fire from the Germans, we live in slit trenches, like the ground moles out in the fields back of the house, and when we hear a shell coming, we grab our helmets and flatten out in the bottom of the trench, hoping and praying that the shell will not make a direct hit on our trench. But, often some soldier gets hit, and then the call, 'medic,' when it is my duty to make a run for the place where the call comes from, and frequently I am compelled to drop down into a trench several times on my way to the injured man. If the man is badly wounded beyond my ability to give first aid a doctor is called—doctors are in first line trenches, too, to give aid almost at the moment. The injured man is then removed to the rear. Our wounded men are expertly cared for. I have seen men so badly wounded that life was gone as far as outward observation indicated, but were revived and saved.

Deep, Sticky Mud

"The mud is something to write home about, deep mud, sticky mud everywhere. I am coated from head to foot nearly all the time. When it dries on clothes, a soldier needs help to bend down to pick something from the ground. I stood my pants in a corner and they stood alone. I have gone days without a shave, without a bath, but please understand that such conditions exist only when we are on a drive to the front. We are taken back to rest camps at intervals, when other troops go on ahead to keep the Germans on the move. The winter will bring many changes in the method of fighting, I suppose. Anyway, it will be a swap of mud for snow and cold.

"We got the P.X. ration yesterday. It is the first we have had since landing. It consists of two Clark bars, and four cigars at a cost of thirty-five cents. Nothing like it is to be had in this country. Sure made one feel fine to have something from the candy stores at home, but who could eat the candy bars with a dozen little, round eyes looking at you. You should have seen those children divide those two Clark bars. All the children got a taste. If and when you have an opportunity to send something to the children of Italy don't hesitate to do all you can for them.

Visits Rome

"I was fortunate in seeing the greater part of Rome. I was present at the Vatican once when the Pope gave a talk to and blessed we soldiers who were present. I made other visits to the Holy City but I did not see the Pope at those times. I saw the city of Rome from the top of the church. Rome is a beautiful city and very little damage done by the Germans, if any. It seems strange that the city was spared when considering the most complete destruction of other cities by the Germans. If the German leaders talked with the Pope than I feel that I know the reason for sparing the city."

"HELLO GIRLS" IN DAYTON GO OUT ON STRIKE

Columbus, O., Nov. 17 (AP)—Telephone operators at Columbus struck today in sympathy with a walkout of operators at Dayton early this morning, and the long distance board said it was accepting emergency calls today.

Dayton, O., Nov. 17 (AP)—Union telephone operators in this war-busy city, who had threatened to strike Dec. 3 in protest against hiring of out-of-town switchboard workers, walked out unexpectedly about 6:10 a. m., (EWT) today and established picket lines at entrances to the Ohio Bell Telephone Company's downtown building.

Miss Jeanette Reedy, President of the Southwestern area council of the Ohio Federation of Telephone workers, an independent union, said about 600 operators were effected.

Unionists said dial telephones were not affected by the strike and that some operators remained on duty. Callers seeking information were informed by a supervisor that no company statement was available immediately.

Secret Meeting

Miss Reedy said the decision to strike today was reached at a secret meeting of union members Wednesday night. Union spokesmen previously had announced that members at the session merely affirmed a Nov. 3 decision to walk out Dec. 3.

Miss Reedy said Dayton workers received assurance yesterday of cooperation in event of a walkout from "the entire southwestern area council which has 2,500 members." The council covers all but the northeastern third of the state.

She said previously "sympathy" strikes "might be called" in other Ohio cities, including Cleveland.

The issue involved, Miss Reedy said, is opposition to employment of non-city workers plus living expenses.

O. N. Olsen, Ohio Bell commercial manager at Dayton, said there were insufficient operators in Dayton and that expense money had to be provided operators from out-of-town.

Soldier Votes To Decide Solon Seat

Pittsburgh, Nov. 17 (AP)—It will take the soldier vote to settle the fight for a seat in the State House of Representatives between Rep. Owen B. Hannon, Republican, seeking reelection, and the unpredictable William N. McNair, Democrat.

McNair, the former Mayor of Pittsburgh, is trailing by 589 votes on the basis of the official count in the fourth legislative district of Allegheny county.

Counting the soldier vote begins November 22.

Report Subs Now Fire Flying Bombs

London, Nov. 17 (AP)—Reports that the Germans have been fitting up submarines with launching devices capable of directing flying bombs against American cities have been current in London and Stockholm for the last 24 hours.

Walter Farr, London Daily Mail correspondent in Stockholm, "broke" the story, but the same report was current in London many hours before it could be published. Farr said both surface and underwater vessels were being fitted along the Norwegian coast as robot bomb launchers. The London report mentioned only submarines.

Farr said he was informed that both U-boats and surface craft were fitted to fire bombs from their decks "against such targets as New York, Philadelphia or towns farther inland in America."

17 SHIPS SUNK IN NOV. 12 RAID

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Nov. 17 (AP)—Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, revising previous figures upward, announced that Third fleet carrier planes sank a cruiser, four destroyers and 11 cargo vessels and oil tankers in their No. 12 raid on Manille.

The light cruiser previously reported as damaged was known to have sunk, Nimitz said in a communique yesterday. Returning pilots also originally reported only two destroyers sunk and said the merchantmen were either destroyed or left blazing.

Four torpedoes also were sent into a floating drydock, believed to be the 500-foot Admiral Dewey, which the Americans scuttled before Manila's fall. The Japanese evidently raised it.

The Pacific commander reported a series of aerial strikes from Haha and Iwo Islands, in the Bonin and Volcano groups, to by-passed islands in the northern Palaus. A bomb hit was scored on a small cargo vessel at Iwo and a possible hit was made on a medium-sized merchantman at Haha. The later island is some 650 miles south of Tokyo.

Ground installations in the Palaus were attacked heavily by land-based Liberators which also sank several barges and other small craft.

Wilkes-Barre, Nov. 17 (AP)—No further hope is held for rescue of three men trapped in an abandoned water-filled vein at the Franklin operation of the Pagnotti interests although pumping continued at an accelerated pace last night.

Officials have had no communication with the men since the gangway was flooded Saturday morning. They believed all of the water will have to be pumped from the area before the men are reached.

DIES OF BURNS

Chester, Pa., Nov. 17 (AP)—William O'Neill, 38, of Chester, died yesterday in Chester hospital of burns suffered when his clothing ignited while he was cleaning the upholstery of his automobile with gasoline. CPL. R. B. NAUGLE PARTY GUEST IN ENGLISH HOME

Corp. R. B. Naugle, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Naugle, East Middle street, wounded in August, was among a group of convalescent Yankee soldiers and airmen who were entertained early last month at a country house party at Ecton village, near Northhampton, England.

They were received at the stately country home of Col. and Mrs. H. G. Sotheby at Ecton, birthplace of Josiah Franklin, father of Benjamin Franklin. Franklin's ancestors are buried in Ecton churchyard.

The trip was arranged through the Northhampton Friendship committee whose chairman is W. Cowper Barrons, managing editor of the Chronicle Echo, Northhampton's evening newspaper. In a letter to The Gettysburg Times about the trip, Mr. Barrons reports that Corporal Naugle "is making fast progress toward recovery and is cheerful about everything."

Washington Link, Too

Most of the Americans who made the journey were men who had returned not long before from the continent. The group included casualties from the fighting in Belgium and France.

Ecton village in the English Midlands links its history with that of the Washington family, too, whose ancestral home is 20 miles away at Sulgrave Manor.

An account of the Americans' trip to Ecton as reported in the Chronicle Echo follows in part:

"Colonel and Mrs. H. G. Sotheby, owners of stately Ecton Hall, were hosts to the group, which was led by Lt. J. E. Kennedy, of Lincoln, Nebraska. Colonel and Mrs. Sotheby are notable war-time hosts for servicemen—British and Allied and American—and have done wonders with war-time supplies to entertain hundreds of U. S. Air Corps and Army personnel. To all a visit to "the Sothebys" is among the happiest of memories.

"There are lots to see at Ecton Hall. Fine pictures, fine period furniture and curios, rare books in the library, and lovely well-kept grounds. The boys certainly had a great time. They much appreciated the friendly welcome and two special features—a fine tea amid fine appointments, and the Franklin bochure which Colonel Sotheby had prepared for his American guests. Lt. Kennedy voiced their appreciation, and said that the autographed photographs of Ecton Hall, given them by Mrs. Sotheby, would be a cherished souvenir of a delightful visit.

"Lieut.-General Sir John and Lady Brown, friends and neighbors at Ecton Grange, joined Colonel and Mrs. Sotheby in entertaining the visitors. Sir John, two years retired from active service, has the distinction of being the first Territorial (or Militia) soldier in the British Army to rise to Lieut.-General.

Mr. and Mrs. Naugle have little information about their son's injuries. They never received a War department notification. They received a letter from Corporal Naugle, dated August 28, stating that he was in a hospital in England. Their last letter from him was dated November 1 and he remained in the hospital.

He was promoted to the rank of corporal while in the hospital. His only reference to his injury was to say he had been "hurt on the line." He is an armor-gunner in the Air Corps.

The Governor previously told the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women that the commonwealth's $170,000,000 treasury surplus "will not be used for the advantage of any political party or any section" of the state.

"The money of Pennsylvania is not going to be wasted," he said, "and we're not going to start bargaining as long as I am Governor." He also asked the council for its support of the administration after stating "we may have strong opposition" from what he called "our opposition party."

3,500 BOMBERS HIT RHINELAND FOR FIVE HOURS

By HENRY B. JAMESON

London, Nov. 17 (AP)—More than 3,500 bombers, the greatest air fleet ever to go into a single action in direct support of an army, blasted the approaches to the Rhine for five hours yesterday in opening Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's winter offensive.

German westwall troops and defenses in front of three Allied armies were bombarded with more than 13,000 tons of explosives and field dispatches said that before nightfall hundreds of stunned Nazi prisoners had been taken.

While the weather was not altogether favorable, the attack was described as more effective and better concentrated in places than at either Caen or Saint Lo, where similar carpet bombings touched off spectacular land offensives.

2 Mass Attacks

Approximately 2,400 American and British heavy bombers, in two separate mass attacks, laid more than 11,000 tons of fragmentation and anti-personnel bombs into an "L" shaped area 15 miles long and 10 miles deep northeast of Aachen.

The massive attacks went unchallenged by the German air force. Out of all th U. S. Eighth and Ninth air force planes participating five heavy bombers and 12 fighters were reported missing. RAF losses were not announced immediately.

U. S. 15th Air Force bombers from Italy, which gave an assist to the western drive yesterday with an attack on railway yards at Munich, were reported over the Lower Danube region again today.

'PON MY SOLE

Camp Lee, Va. Nov. 17 (AP)—In a hurry Wac Pvt. Dortha Deveau, of tthe quartermaster school here, sent her shoes out for repair.

A short time later she received a note from Cpl. R. H. Williams of the Camp Lee repair unit, saying that "we are more than glad to repair your shoes, but feel that better cooperation on your part is necessary" because "after careful study we find that it is impossible for anybody to have two left feet."

SOLDIER TELLS EXPERIENCES ON ITALIAN FRONT

Emmitsburg—T-C Cletus E. Cool, son of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Cool, near Emmitsburg, relates some of his experiences during the heavy fighting in Italy, in a letter to his parents. He has been overseas two years, and has been in a number of battles in the Italian sector. He wrote as follows:

"I have not had much time to write, and when there is an opportunity to do so, writing material is not always at hand. I have a rest period at present and I'll try to tell you some of the things that I have seen and some of the fighting experiences.

"We are now in an advanced position, right in the middle of the country, and nearly all the towns have been destroyed. The Germans left yesterday. The people are returning to find their homes gone, many of them just sitting down on the ruins and crying. I pitty the children. We soldiers divide our limited rations with them. You see, we are living on field rations as we advance.

Thanks for U. S. A.

"I learned that the people of this town have been living in caves for a long time, some to escape the Germans and others to keep free of the bombardments. There is a cave under the church which has no roof, one wall standing, and about half of the altar. The Stations of the Cross are on the wall, and the Crucifix remains intact on the part of the altar which was left undamaged. You people at home must give thanks for that country of ours, the mountains at our door, the fine foods, and the freedom of life to all. I know that I will know better how to live if I am spared to return home.

"There are quite a number of caves in this section of the country. The Germans have been using them for concealment as they retreat, but our soldiers sleep and remain in the open and in trenches as the stench in the caves is more than we can take. In one cave were a number of dead Germans on top of the ground, but as always their shoes and much of their clothing had been removed. It must be that Germany is short of leather for with few exceptions a dead German is shoeless.

In Slit Trenches

"The Germans are sure dug in the mountains, and the roads are terrible. Mules are being used to bring up ammunition and medical supplies. A mule went down over the bank with his pack, tumbling end over end, and brought up against a rock with a broken neck. We recovered the supplies but left the mule to his long sleep.

"When under direct fire from the Germans, we live in slit trenches, like the ground moles out in the fields back of the house, and when we hear a shell coming, we grab our helmets and flatten out in the bottom of the trench, hoping and praying that the shell will not make a direct hit on our trench. But, often some soldier gets hit, and then the call, 'medic,' when it is my duty to make a run for the place where the call comes from, and frequently I am compelled to drop down into a trench several times on my way to the injured man. If the man is badly wounded beyond my ability to give first aid a doctor is called—doctors are in first line trenches, too, to give aid almost at the moment. The injured man is then removed to the rear. Our wounded men are expertly cared for. I have seen men so badly wounded that life was gone as far as outward observation indicated, but were revived and saved.

Deep, Sticky Mud

"The mud is something to write home about, deep mud, sticky mud everywhere. I am coated from head to foot nearly all the time. When it dries on clothes, a soldier needs help to bend down to pick something from the ground. I stood my pants in a corner and they stood alone. I have gone days without a shave, without a bath, but please understand that such conditions exist only when we are on a drive to the front. We are taken back to rest camps at intervals, when other troops go on ahead to keep the Germans on the move. The winter will bring many changes in the method of fighting, I suppose. Anyway, it will be a swap of mud for snow and cold.

"We got the P.X. ration yesterday. It is the first we have had since landing. It consists of two Clark bars, and four cigars at a cost of thirty-five cents. Nothing like it is to be had in this country. Sure made one feel fine to have something from the candy stores at home, but who could eat the candy bars with a dozen little, round eyes looking at you. You should have seen those children divide those two Clark bars. All the children got a taste. If and when you have an opportunity to send something to the children of Italy don't hesitate to do all you can for them.

Visits Rome

"I was fortunate in seeing the greater part of Rome. I was present at the Vatican once when the Pope gave a talk to and blessed we soldiers who were present. I made other visits to the Holy City but I did not see the Pope at those times. I saw the city of Rome from the top of the church. Rome is a beautiful city and very little damage done by the Germans, if any. It seems strange that the city was spared when considering the most complete destruction of other cities by the Germans. If the German leaders talked with the Pope than I feel that I know the reason for sparing the city."

"HELLO GIRLS" IN DAYTON GO OUT ON STRIKE

Columbus, O., Nov. 17 (AP)—Telephone operators at Columbus struck today in sympathy with a walkout of operators at Dayton early this morning, and the long distance board said it was accepting emergency calls today.

Dayton, O., Nov. 17 (AP)—Union telephone operators in this war-busy city, who had threatened to strike Dec. 3 in protest against hiring of out-of-town switchboard workers, walked out unexpectedly about 6:10 a. m., (EWT) today and established picket lines at entrances to the Ohio Bell Telephone Company's downtown building.

Miss Jeanette Reedy, President of the Southwestern area council of the Ohio Federation of Telephone workers, an independent union, said about 600 operators were effected.

Unionists said dial telephones were not affected by the strike and that some operators remained on duty. Callers seeking information were informed by a supervisor that no company statement was available immediately.

Secret Meeting

Miss Reedy said the decision to strike today was reached at a secret meeting of union members Wednesday night. Union spokesmen previously had announced that members at the session merely affirmed a Nov. 3 decision to walk out Dec. 3.

Miss Reedy said Dayton workers received assurance yesterday of cooperation in event of a walkout from "the entire southwestern area council which has 2,500 members." The council covers all but the northeastern third of the state.

She said previously "sympathy" strikes "might be called" in other Ohio cities, including Cleveland.

The issue involved, Miss Reedy said, is opposition to employment of non-city workers plus living expenses.

O. N. Olsen, Ohio Bell commercial manager at Dayton, said there were insufficient operators in Dayton and that expense money had to be provided operators from out-of-town.

Soldier Votes To Decide Solon Seat

Pittsburgh, Nov. 17 (AP)—It will take the soldier vote to settle the fight for a seat in the State House of Representatives between Rep. Owen B. Hannon, Republican, seeking reelection, and the unpredictable William N. McNair, Democrat.

McNair, the former Mayor of Pittsburgh, is trailing by 589 votes on the basis of the official count in the fourth legislative district of Allegheny county.

Counting the soldier vote begins November 22.

Report Subs Now Fire Flying Bombs

London, Nov. 17 (AP)—Reports that the Germans have been fitting up submarines with launching devices capable of directing flying bombs against American cities have been current in London and Stockholm for the last 24 hours.

Walter Farr, London Daily Mail correspondent in Stockholm, "broke" the story, but the same report was current in London many hours before it could be published. Farr said both surface and underwater vessels were being fitted along the Norwegian coast as robot bomb launchers. The London report mentioned only submarines.

Farr said he was informed that both U-boats and surface craft were fitted to fire bombs from their decks "against such targets as New York, Philadelphia or towns farther inland in America."

17 SHIPS SUNK IN NOV. 12 RAID

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Nov. 17 (AP)—Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, revising previous figures upward, announced that Third fleet carrier planes sank a cruiser, four destroyers and 11 cargo vessels and oil tankers in their No. 12 raid on Manilla.

The light cruiser previously reported as damaged was known to have sunk, Nimitz said in a communique yesterday. Returning pilots also originally reported only two destroyers sunk and said the merchantmen were either destroyed or left blazing.

Four torpedoes also were sent into a floating drydock, believed to be the 500-foot Admiral Dewey, which the Americans scuttled before Manila's fall. The Japanese evidently raised it.

The Pacific commander reported a series of aerial strikes from Haha and Iwo Islands, in the Bonin and Volcano groups, to by-passed islands in the northern Palaus. A bomb hit was scored on a small cargo vessel at Iwo and a possible hit was made on a medium-sized merchantman at Haha. The later island is some 650 miles south of Tokyo.

Ground installations in the Palaus were attacked heavily by land-based Liberators which also sank several barges and other small craft.

Hope Abandoned For Trapped Men

Wilkes-Barre, Nov. 17 (AP)—No further hope is held for rescue of three men trapped in an abandoned water-filled vein at the Franklin operation of the Pagnotti interests although pumping continued at an accelerated pace last night.

Officials have had no communication with the men since the gangway was flooded Saturday morning. They believed all of the water will have to be pumped from the area before the men are reached.

DIES OF BURNS

Chester, Pa., Nov. 17 (AP)—William O'Neill, 38, of Chester, died yesterday in Chester hospital of burns suffered when his clothing ignited while he was cleaning the upholstery of his automobile with gasoline. Police said a spark from a cigarette O'Neill was smoking set the upholstery afire and the flames spread to his clothes.

Just Folks

G.I. JOE

He's the youngster that you knew,
Racing up and down the street,
Tousled hair and freckled, too;
One you daily used to meet,
One who raced the summer through,
Bare of head and bare of feet.

He is several millions strong.
From the city, town and plain.
Now you'll find him in a throng
Braving tropic heat and rain,
Driving jeeps and tanks along
Many a muddy German lane.

He has gone the world around,
North and south and east and west.
He has burrowed in the ground
On the islands Japs infest;
On the streets of Rome he's found,
And of Paris and of Brest.

Oh, we knew him, you and I.
In the not so long ago;
Saw him often passing by,
And his family we know;
Now, the brave, stout-hearted guy
We have christened G.I. Joe.

Today's Talk

NATURE'S BENEFACTORS

We are often prone to condemn many of the things that we find in nature as pests and disturbers, wondering why they were ever created—but a wise Creator didn't create them for naught.

Much of the distribution of flowers, shrubs and trees that flourish on this earth has been the direct work of some living, moving insect, bird or beast. Squirrels gather nuts and bury them, forgetting often where they have put them—and trees, of their kind, result. The pollen from flowers fertilizes through the agency of flying insects. Birds spread seeds far and wide, and the winds, as well, become carriers of seeds, dropping them to the far ends of the earth.

In the ground, upon the bark of trees, and upon vines and leaves, gathers many a destructive insect. Birds hunt them out and discover them as food for nourishment, and we listen to their happy songs as a result. No home can have too many birds about it, and to show our gratitude we should feed them Summer and Winter. It is a wise investment, outside the pleasure given to us in their presence.

I have been feeding great numbers of starlings of late, about my home, after hearing the story of a man who did the same thing and who discovered, later, that they took care to rid his place of a destructive beetle.

These outdoor friends of ours are very grateful for the attention given to them, and amply repay in numberless ways.

Take the common toad, for example. He is an unobtrusive little fellow, harmless in every way, but he is one of the best policemen that a garden can have! He is ever on the watch for the enemies of the garden, and hides himself, like a good detective, until the right time for action. He is a friendly chap, as well, as has been proved time and again.

Nature is inhabited by thousands of man's benefactors, and we ought to learn their names, get acquainted with them—and encourage and support them in every possible way.

TIME TO MULCH

Bozeman, Mont., Nov. 18 (AP)—Montana State College horticulturists send out this SOS: It's time for victory gardeners to mulch those strawberry plants.

Mulching is best done with straw, often obtainable at homes of nearby milch cows, or old potato vines. The experts frown on leaves raked from lawns—they smother wintering plants.

CIVILIANS TO WAIT COLLAPSE OF NAZI RULE

By STERLING F. GREEN

Washington, Nov. 17 (AP)—The laying down of plans for making all those things civilians miss probably will be held back until German collapse is assured.

This became apparent today, following James F. Byrnes' threat to halt completely the resumption of civilian goods manufacture if growing war needs require it.

War Mobilizer Byrnes, joining an official campaign against what officialdom regards as a lack of public war-consciousness, declared shortages of material and weapons might "prolong the war" unless quickly remedied.

General Dwight D. Eisenhower, even while directing the "big push" on Germany, will take time Sunday to broadcast home a plea for more big guns and artillery ammunition (NBC 3:30 p. m., EWT.)

Can Break Bottleneck

Stressing manpower troubles, Byrnes last night ascribed failure to meet some munitions goals to "the mistaken belief on the part of some people that the war is about over." Two hundred thousand able bodied men could break the bottleneck, he said.

If it is not broken, the mobilization chief asserted he would "not hesitate to take more drastic action," in these forms:

First, suspend the "spot" authorization procedure for civilian goods manufacture in the two classes of cities having labor shortages; and second, "completely suspend resumption of the production of civilian supplies."

This chill on hopes of "easing into" peacetime production was followed by disclosure that the detailed "V-E Day" plan of the war production board is due to be kept mum for psychological reasons.

The lagging programs, Byrnes said, include heavy bombers, heavy artillery, heavy ammunition, heavy trucks and tires, assault transports and cargo ships, cotton duck and radar equipment.

YANKS SEIZE ITALIAN TOWN

Rome, Nov. 17 (AP)—Fifth Army troops have occupied Modigliana, important road junction nine miles south of the Bologna-Rimini highway town of Faenza, in the wake of a surprise German withdrawal after a week-long vigorous defense, Allied headquarters announced today.

Six miles north of captured Forli, Eighth Army units, moving cautiously toward the Montone river, cleared Coccolia and reached a point within 2,000 yards of San Pancrazio.

Light Resistance

Other troops pushed about two and a half miles west of Forli against comparatively light resistance from German rear guards.

In the Adriatic coastal sector the Germans blew a gap in the banks of the Fiumi Uniti, flooding large tracts of land east of highway 16 and making maneuvers there virtually impossible.

British troops yesterday were reported within five miles of Faenza in the region of San Martino Di Villafranca, north of the Bologna-Rimini road, while to the south they captured the town of Petrignone.

Intermittent rain and hail interfered with operations on the Fifth Army sector below Bologna in the area adjacent to the Bologna-Florence highway.

Hope For Pact In Air Traffic Meet

Chicago, Nov. 17 (AP) — Hopes that three proposals for regulating future air traffic between nations could be merged for a successful conclusion to the International civil aviation conference held firm today despite reports of new delays in drafting a document to reconcile British, Canadian and American views.

The British and Canadians, determined to have some sort of economic controls—regulation of the business itself — faced a United States delegation convinced there should be no such controls at this time, and willing to grant a world agency powers only in the administration of technical standards and procedures.

YANKS SEIZE ITALIAN TOWN

Rome, Nov. 17 (AP)—Fifth Army troops have occupied Modigliana, important road junction nine miles south of the Bologna-Rimini highway town of Faenza, in the wake of a surprise German withdrawal after a week-long vigorous defense, Allied headquarters announced today.

Six miles north of captured Forli, Eighth Army units, moving cautiously toward the Montone river, cleared Coccolia and reached a point within 2,000 yards of San Pancrazio.

NUBBINS HAS XMAS, SUNDAY

Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 17 (AP)—Santa Claus' pack bulged to overflowing today for a special visit to Cheyenne Sunday to the bedside of a little boy.

St. Nick is making this trip early because three-year-old Forest (Nubbins) Hoffman is so ill of an incurable bladder malady he may not live until December 25. That's why Sunday will be Nubbins' Christmas.

Nubbins' mother said the youngster has been given periodic doses of penicillin by his physician to keep down fever.

W. M. Jeffers, president of the Union Pacific railroad, for which Hoffman works in the baggage department, notified Mrs. Hoffman that the railroad was sending presents.

From North Beach, New York, singer Frank Sinatra wired Nubbins: "I know Santa Claus will be good to you 'cause you've been a good boy. Have fun and merry Xmas." To Nubbins' parents Sinatra added: "* * * keep him happy. Keep your chin up."

CLOSE VOTE ON SENATE OFFICE

Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 17 (AP)—Nobody thought it was possible, but Gov. Forrest C. Donnell has got himself elected U. S. Senator by even a smaller margin than the one by which he won the governorship four years ago.

Donnell, a Republican, survived a Democratic landslide to squeeze into the Governor's chair by 3,613 votes in 1940. Close? Sure, but his margin over State Attorney General Roy McKittrick in the race for the Senate job now held by Bennett Clark, beaten by McKittrick in the primary, is still narrower.

Donnell leads, 776,316 votes to 774,550, giving Donnell an edge of only 1,766 votes. As in 1940, he's the only Republican to get a passing grade in a try for a major statewide office.

There still are about 5,000 absentee votes to be counted, but these are mostly in Republican St. Louis county. Donnell was assured of the election yesterday when the vote in Democratic St. Louis city was completed, a vote that cut into his lead but failed to wipe it out.

Just Folks

G.I. JOE

He's the youngster that you knew,
Racing up and down the street,
Tousled hair and freckled, too;
One you daily used to meet,
One who raced the summer through,
Bare of head and bare of feet.

He is several millions strong.
From the city, town and plain.
Now you'll find him in a throng
Braving tropic heat and rain,
Driving jeeps and tanks along
Many a muddy German lane.

He has gone the world around,
North and south and east and west.
He has burrowed in the ground
On the islands Japs infest;
On the streets of Rome he's found,
And of Paris and of Brest.

Oh, we knew him, you and I,
In the not so long ago;
Saw him often passing by,
And his family we know;
Now, the brave, stout-hearted guy
We have christened G.I. Joe.

Today's Talk

NATURE'S BENEFACTORS

We are often prone to condemn many of the things that we find in nature as pests and disturbers, wondering why they were ever created—but a wise Creator didn't create them for naught.

Much of the distribution of flowers, shrubs and trees that flourish on this earth has been the direct work of some living, moving insect, bird or beast. Squirrels gather nuts and bury them—forgetting often where they have put them—and trees, of their kind, result. The pollen from flowers fertilizes through the agency of flying insects. Birds spread seeds far and wide, and the winds, as well, become carriers of seeds, dropping them to the far ends of the earth.

In the ground, upon the bark of trees, and upon vines and leaves, gathers many a destructive insect. Birds hunt them out and discover them as food for nourishment, and we listen to their happy songs as a result. No home can have too many birds about it, and to show our gratitude we should feed them Summer and Winter. It is a wise investment, outside the pleasure given to us in their presence.

I have been feeding great numbers of starlings of late, about my home, after hearing the story of a man who did the same thing and who discovered, later, that they took care to rid his place of a destructive beetle.

These outdoor friends of ours are very grateful for the attention given to them, and amply repay in numberless ways.

Take the common toad, for example. He is an unobtrusive little fellow, harmless in every way, but he is one of the best policemen that a garden can have! He is ever on the watch for the enemies of the garden, and hides himself, like a good detective, until the right time for action. He is a friendly chap, as well, as has been proved time and again.

Nature is inhabited by thousands of man's benefactors, and we ought to learn their names, get acquainted with them—and encourage and support them in every possible way.

TIME TO MULCH

Bozeman, Mont., Nov. 18 (AP)—Montana State College horticulturists send out this SOS: It's time for victory gardeners to mulch those strawberry plants.

Mulching is best done with straw, often obtainable at homes of nearby milch cows, or old potato vines. The experts frown on leaves raked from lawns—they smother wintering plants.

By STERLING F. GREEN

Washington, Nov. 17 (AP)—The laying down of plans for making all those things civilians miss probably will be held back until German collapse is assured.

This became apparent today, following James F. Byrnes' threat to halt completely the resumption of civilian goods manufacture if growing war needs require it.

War Mobilizer Byrnes, joining an official campaign against what officialdom regards as a lack of public war-consciousness, declared shortages of material and weapons might "prolong the war" unless quickly remedied.

General Dwight D. Eisenhower, even while directing the "big push" on Germany, will take time Sunday to broadcast home a plea for more big guns and artillery ammunition (NBC 3:30 p. m., EWT.)

Can Break Bottleneck

Stressing manpower troubles, Byrnes last night ascribed failure to meet some munitions goals to "the mistaken belief on the part of some people that the war is about over." Two hundred thousand able bodied men could break the bottleneck, he said.

If it is not broken, the mobilization chief asserted he would "not hesitate to take more drastic action," in these forms:

First, suspend the "spot" authorization procedure for civilian goods manufacture in the two classes of cities having labor shortages; and second, "completely suspend resumption of the production of civilian supplies."

This chill on hopes of "easing into" peacetime production was followed by disclosure that the detailed "V-E Day" plan of the war production board is due to be kept mum for psychological reasons.

The lagging programs, Byrnes said, include heavy bombers, heavy artillery, heavy ammunition, heavy trucks and tires, assault transports and cargo ships, cotton duck and radar equipment.

Hope For Pact In Air Traffic Meet

Chicago, Nov. 17 (AP) — Hopes that three proposals for regulating future air traffic between nations could be merged for a successful conclusion to the International civil aviation conference held firm today despite reports of new delays in drafting a document to reconcile British, Canadian and American views.

The British and Canadians, determined to have some sort of economic controls—regulation of the business itself — faced a United States delegation convinced there should be no such controls at this time, and willing to grant a world agency powers only in the administration of technical standards and procedures.

YANKS SEIZE ITALIAN TOWN

Rome, Nov. 17 (AP)—Fifth Army troops have occupied Modigliana, important road junction nine miles south of the Bologna-Rimini highway town of Faenza, in the wake of a surprise German withdrawal after a week-long vigorous defense, Allied headquarters announced today.

Six miles north of captured Forli, Eighth Army units, moving cautiously toward the Montone river, cleared Coccolia and reached a point within 2,000 yards of San Pancrazio.

Light Resistance

Other troops pushed about two and a half miles west of Forli against comparatively light resistance from German rear guards.

In the Adriatic coastal sector the Germans blew a gap in the banks of the Fiumi Uniti, flooding large tracts of land east of highway 16 and making maneuvers there virtually impossible.

British troops yesterday were reported within five miles of Faenza in the region of San Martino Di Villafranca, north of the Bologna-Rimini road, while to the south they captured the town of Petrignone.

Intermittent rain and hail interfered with operations on the Fifth Army sector below Bologna in the area adjacent to the Bologna-Florence highway.

NUBBINS HAS XMAS, SUNDAY

Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 17 (AP)—Santa Claus' pack bulged to overflowing today for a special visit to Cheyenne Sunday to the bedside of a little boy.

St. Nick is making this trip early because three-year-old Forest (Nubbins) Hoffman is so ill of an incurable bladder malady he may not live until December 25. That's why Sunday will be Nubbins' Christmas.

Nubbins' mother said the youngster has been given periodic doses of penicillin by his physician to keep down fever.

W. M. Jeffers, president of the Union Pacific railroad, for which Hoffman works in the baggage department, notified Mrs. Hoffman that the railroad was sending presents.

From North Beach, New York, singer Frank Sinatra wired Nubbins: "I know Santa Claus will be good to you 'cause you've been a good boy. Have fun and merry Xmas." To Nubbins' parents Sinatra added: "* * * keep him happy. Keep your chin up."

EACH U.S. ARMY SUPPORTED BY OWN AIR GROUP

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Paris, Nov. 17 (AP)—Each of four American armies driving toward Berlin on the western front has its own supporting air unit, headquarters announced today.

The newest of these is the 29th Tactical Air Command which flies in support of the Ninth Army, now participating in the Allies' all-out winter offensive.

It was formed chiefly from a part of the Ninth USAAF, with fighter-bomber groups drawn from the Ninth's other two tactical air commands. Although it has been flying as an independent command for weeks, its work had to remain anonymous until the whereabouts of the Ninth Army was revealed.

Tactical Air Lineup

Twelfth Tactical Air Command, under Brig. Gen. Gordon P. Saville, of Winter Park, Fla., supporting Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's Seventh Army.

Nugent was deputy chief of staff for operations in the Ninth Air Force until he took over the 29th TAC. He previously had been chief of operations for the Allied Expeditionary Air Force.

CLOSE VOTE ON SENATE OFFICE

Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 17 (AP)—Nobody thought it was possible, but Gov. Forrest C. Donnell has got himself elected U. S. Senator by even a smaller margin than the one by which he won the governorship four years ago.

Donnell, a Republican, survived a Democratic landslide to squeeze into the Governor's chair by 3,613 votes in 1940. Close? Sure, but his margin over State Attorney General Roy McKittrick in the race for the Senate job now held by Bennett Clark, beaten by McKittrick in the primary, is still narrower.

Donnell leads, 776,316 votes to 774,550, giving Donnell an edge of only 1,766 votes. As in 1940, he's the only Republican to get a passing grade in a try for a major statewide office.

There still are about 5,000 absentee votes to be counted, but these are mostly in Republican St. Louis county. Donnell was assured of the election yesterday when the vote in Democratic St. Louis city was completed, a vote that cut into his lead but failed to wipe it out.

Just Folks

G.I. JOE

He's the youngster that you knew,
Racing up and down the street,
Tousled hair and freckled, too;
One you daily used to meet,
One who raced the summer through,
Bare of head and bare of feet.

He is several millions strong.
From the city, town and plain.
Now you'll find him in a throng
Braving tropic heat and rain,
Driving jeeps and tanks along
Many a muddy German lane.

He has gone the world around,
North and south and east and west.
He has burrowed in the ground
On the islands Japs infest;
On the streets of Rome he's found,
And of Paris and of Brest.

Oh, we knew him, you and I,
In the not so long ago;
Saw him often passing by,
And his family we know;
Now, the brave, stout-hearted guy
We have christened G.I. Joe.

Today's Talk

NATURE'S BENEFACTORS

We are often prone to condemn many of the things that we find in nature as pests and disturbers, wondering why they were ever created—but a wise Creator didn't create them for naught.

Much of the distribution of flowers, shrubs and trees that flourish on this earth has been the direct work of some living, moving insect, bird or beast. Squirrels gather nuts and bury them—forgetting often where they have put them—and trees, of their kind, result. The pollen from flowers fertilizes through the agency of flying insects. Birds spread seeds far and wide, and the winds, as well, become carriers of seeds, dropping them to the far ends of the earth.

In the ground, upon the bark of trees, and upon vines and leaves, gathers many a destructive insect. Birds hunt them out and discover them as food for nourishment, and we listen to their happy songs as a result. No home can have too many birds about it, and to show our gratitude we should feed them Summer and Winter. It is a wise investment, outside the pleasure given to us in their presence.

I have been feeding great numbers of starlings of late, about my home, after hearing the story of a man who did the same thing and who discovered, later, that they took care to rid his place of a destructive beetle.

These outdoor friends of ours are very grateful for the attention given to them, and amply repay in numberless ways.

Take the common toad, for example. He is an unobtrusive little fellow, harmless in every way, but he is one of the best policemen that a garden can have! He is ever on the watch for the enemies of the garden, and hides himself, like a good detective, until the right time for action. He is a friendly chap, as well, as has been proved time and again.

Nature is inhabited by thousands of man's benefactors, and we ought to learn their names, get acquainted with them—and encourage and support them in every possible way.

TIME TO MULCH

Bozeman, Mont., Nov. 18 (AP)—Montana State College horticulturists send out this SOS: It's time for victory gardeners to mulch those strawberry plants.

Mulching is best done with straw, often obtainable at homes of nearby milch cows, or old potato vines. The experts frown on leaves raked from lawns—they smother wintering plants.

By STERLING F. GREEN

Washington, Nov. 17 (AP)—The laying down of plans for making all those things civilians miss probably will be held back until German collapse is assured.

This became apparent today, following James F. Byrnes' threat to halt completely the resumption of civilian goods manufacture if growing war needs require it.

War Mobilizer Byrnes, joining an official campaign against what officialdom regards as a lack of public war-consciousness, declared shortages of material and weapons might "prolong the war" unless quickly remedied.

General Dwight D. Eisenhower, even while directing the "big push" on Germany, will take time Sunday to broadcast home a plea for more big guns and artillery ammunition (NBC 3:30 p. m., EWT.)

Can Break Bottleneck

Stressing manpower troubles, Byrnes last night ascribed failure to meet some munitions goals to "the mistaken belief on the part of some people that the war is about over." Two hundred thousand able bodied men could break the bottleneck, he said.

If it is not broken, the mobilization chief asserted he would "not hesitate to take more drastic action," in these forms:

First, suspend the "spot" authorization procedure for civilian goods manufacture in the two classes of cities having labor shortages; and second, "completely suspend resumption of the production of civilian supplies."

This chill on hopes of "easing into" peacetime production was followed by disclosure that the detailed "V-E Day" plan of the war production board is due to be kept mum for psychological reasons.

The lagging programs, Byrnes said, include heavy bombers, heavy artillery, heavy ammunition, heavy trucks and tires, assault transports and cargo ships, cotton duck and radar equipment.

Hope For Pact In Air Traffic Meet

Chicago, Nov. 17 (AP) — Hopes that three proposals for regulating future air traffic between nations could be merged for a successful conclusion to the International civil aviation conference held firm today despite reports of new delays in drafting a document to reconcile British, Canadian and American views.

The British and Canadians, determined to have some sort of economic controls—regulation of the business itself — faced a United States delegation convinced there should be no such controls at this time, and willing to grant a world agency powers only in the administration of technical standards and procedures.

YANKS SEIZE ITALIAN TOWN

Rome, Nov. 17 (AP)—Fifth Army troops have occupied Modigliana, important road junction nine miles south of the Bologna-Rimini highway town of Faenza, in the wake of a surprise German withdrawal after a week-long vigorous defense, Allied headquarters announced today.

Six miles north of captured Forli, Eighth Army units, moving cautiously toward the Montone river, cleared Coccolia and reached a point within 2,000 yards of San Pancrazio.

Light Resistance

Other troops pushed about two and a half miles west of Forli against comparatively light resistance from German rear guards.

In the Adriatic coastal sector the Germans blew a gap in the banks of the Fiumi Uniti, flooding large tracts of land east of highway 16 and making maneuvers there virtually impossible.

British troops yesterday were reported within five miles of Faenza in the region of San Martino Di Villafranca, north of the Bologna-Rimini road, while to the south they captured the town of Petrignone.

Intermittent rain and hail interfered with operations on the Fifth Army sector below Bologna in the area adjacent to the Bologna-Florence highway.

NUBBINS HAS XMAS, SUNDAY

Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 17 (AP)—Santa Claus' pack bulged to overflowing today for a special visit to Cheyenne Sunday to the bedside of a little boy.

St. Nick is making this trip early because three-year-old Forest (Nubbins) Hoffman is so ill of an incurable bladder malady he may not live until December 25. That's why Sunday will be Nubbins' Christmas.

Nubbins' mother said the youngster has been given periodic doses of penicillin by his physician to keep down fever.

W. M. Jeffers, president of the Union Pacific railroad, for which Hoffman works in the baggage department, notified Mrs. Hoffman that the railroad was sending presents.

From North Beach, New York, singer Frank Sinatra wired Nubbins: "I know Santa Claus will be good to you 'cause you've been a good boy. Have fun and merry Xmas." To Nubbins' parents Sinatra added: "* * * keep him happy. Keep your chin up."

EACH U.S. ARMY SUPPORTED BY OWN AIR GROUP

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Paris, Nov. 17 (AP)—Each of four American armies driving toward Berlin on the western front has its own supporting air unit, headquarters announced today.

The newest of these is the 29th Tactical Air Command which flies in support of the Ninth Army, now participating in the Allies' all-out winter offensive.

It was formed chiefly from a part of the Ninth USAAF, with fighter-bomber groups drawn from the Ninth's other two tactical air commands. Although it has been flying as an independent command for weeks, its work had to remain anonymous until the whereabouts of the Ninth Army was revealed.

Tactical Air Lineup

Nugent was deputy chief of staff for operations in the Ninth Air Force until he took over the 29th TAC. He previously had been chief of operations for the Allied Expeditionary Air Force.

CLOSE VOTE ON SENATE OFFICE

Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 17 (AP)—Nobody thought it was possible, but Gov. Forrest C. Donnell has got himself elected U. S. Senator by even a smaller margin than the one by which he won the governorship four years ago.

Donnell, a Republican, survived a Democratic landslide to squeeze into the Governor's chair by 3,613 votes in 1940. Close? Sure, but his margin over State Attorney General Roy McKittrick in the race for the Senate job now held by Bennett Clark, beaten by McKittrick in the primary, is still narrower.

Donnell leads, 776,316 votes to 774,550, giving Donnell an edge of only 1,766 votes. As in 1940, he's the only Republican to get a passing grade in a try for a major statewide office.

There still are about 5,000 absentee votes to be counted, but these are mostly in Republican St. Louis county. Donnell was assured of the election yesterday when the vote in Democratic St. Louis city was completed, a vote that cut into his lead but failed to wipe it out.

kingdoms of the earth when kings and warriors have fallen. But never was there in the history of man such mourning as that which has accompanied this funeral procession, and has gathered around the mortal remains of him who was our loved one, and who now sleeps among us. If we glance at the procession which followed him, we see how the nation stood aghast.

* * *

"Men left their ploughs in the fields, and asked what the end should be. The hum of manufactories ceased, and the sound of the hammer was not heard. Busy merchants closed their doors; and in the exchange gold passed no more from hand to hand. Though three weeks have elapsed, the nation has scarcely breathed easily yet. A mournful silence is abroad upon the land; nor is this mourning confined to any class or to any district of country. Men of all political parties, and of all religious creeds, have united in paying this mournful tribute. The archbishop of the Roman Catholic Church in New York and a Protestant minister walked side by side in the sad procession, and a Jewish rabbi performed a part of the solemn services.

"More persons have gazed on the face of the departed than ever looked upon the face of any other departed man. More have looked on the procession for 1600 miles or more—by night and by day—by sunlight, dawn, twilight, and by torchlight, than ever before watched the progress of a procession.

"We ask why this wonderful mourning—this great procession?

* * *

"The great cause of this mourning is to be found in the man himself. Mr. Lincoln was no ordinary man. I believe the conviction has been growing on the nation's mind, as it certainly has been on my own, especially in the last years of his administration, that, by the hand of God, he was especially singled out to guide our government in these troublesome times, and it seems to me that the hand of God may be traced in many of the events connected with his history.

"If you ask me on what mental characteristic his greatness rested, I answer, on a quick and ready perception of facts; on a memory usually tenacious and retentive; and on a logical turn of mind, which followed sternly and unwaveringly every link in the chain of thought on every subject which he was called to investigate. I think there have been minds more broad in their character, more comprehensive in their scope, but I doubt if there ever has been a man who could follow step by step, with more logical power, the points which he desired to illustrate. He gained this power by the close study of geometry, and by a determination to perceive the truth in all its relations, and simplicity, and, when found, to utter it.

"It was not, however, chiefly by his mental faculties that he gained such control over mankind. His moral power gave him preeminence. The convictions of men, that Abraham Lincoln was an honest man, led them to yield to his guidance. As has been said of Cobden, whom he greatly resembled, he made all men feel a sense of himself—a recognition of individuality—a selfreliving power. They saw in him a man who they believed would do what is right, regardless of all consequences. It was this moral feeling which gave him the greatest hold on the people, and made his utterances almost oracular.

"But the great act of the mighty chieftain, on which his fame shall rest long after his frame shall moulder away, is that of giving freedom to a race . . . Such a power, or such an opportunity, God has seldom given to man. When other events shall have been forgotten; when this world shall have become a network of republics; when every throne shall be swept from the face of the earth; when literature shall enlighten all minds; when the claims of humanity shall be recognized everywhere — this act shall still be conspicuous on the pages of history. We are thankful that God gave to Abraham Lincoln the decision and wisdom and grace to issue that proclamation, which stands high above all other papers which have been penned by uninspired men.

"His career teaches young men that every position of eminence is open before the diligent and the worthy. To the active men of the country, his example is an incentive to trust in God and do right.

"The time will come when, in the beautiful words of him whose lips are now forever sealed, 'The mystic cords of memory, stretching from every battle-field and patriot grave to every living heart and hearthstone all over this broad land, will yet swell the chorus of the Union, when again touched, as surely they will be, by the better angels of our nature.'

"Chieftain! farewell. The nation mourns thee. Mothers shall teach thy name to their lisping children. The youth of our land shall emulate thy virtues. Statesmen shall study thy record, and learn lessons of wisdom. Mute though thy lips be, yet they will speak. Hushed is thy voice, but its echoes of liberty are ringing through the world, and the sons of bondage listen with joy. Prisoned thou art in death, and yet thou art marching abroad, and chains and manacles are bursting at thy touch. Thou didst not fall for thyself. The assassin had no hate for thee. Our hearts were aimed at, our national life was sought. We crown thee as our martyr—and humanity enthrones thee as her triumphant son. Hero, Martyr, Friend, Farewell."

30 Defendants Are Seeking Freedom

Philadelphia, Nov. 17 (AP)—A demurrer and motion to quash charges was filed in District court Wednesday by 30 Philadelphia Transportation company operators who were indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of violating the Smith-Connally act during the transportation strike here in August.

Counsel for the operators contend that the PTC is not engaged in interstate commerce and is not a "plant, mine or facility" engaged in war production or in the movement of troops and that the government had no right to take it over.

TRANSFUSION FOR CABINET IS ADVOCATED

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Nov. 17 (AP)—Men of good will and men with harpoons suggest a little fresh—and younger—blood toward the top in government.

Hull (State), 73; Simison (War), 77; Ickes (Interior), 70; Jones (Commerce), 70; Morgenthau (Treasury), 53; Biddle (Attorney General), 58; Walker (Postmaster), 58; Forrestal (Navy), 52; Wickard (Agriculture), 51; and Perkins (Labor), 62.

3 Serve 12 Years

Hull, Ickes and Miss Perkins have been in the cabinet since the President took office 12 years ago. Morgenthau has been a cabinet member 11 years.

The service of the others is as follows: Stimson, 4 years; Biddle, 3; Walker, 4; Forrestal, 1; Wickard, 4; and Jones, 4.

Outside the cabinet and government departments and wartime agencies the key jobs in directing the government are held by congressmen.

The top 11 Senate committee chairmen's average is 70. With a couple of changes in the new Congress in January, their average age will be about 69.

The top 11 House committee chairmen's average is 69. These chairmen all have been re-elected and probably will keep their same posts in the new Congress.

House Chairmen

All the chairmen in both houses are Democrats.

The oldest major committee chairman in the Senate is Glass (Va). He's 81, has been in Congress 33 years, and heads the Appropriations committee.

The youngest of the 11 top Senate committee chairmen is Reynolds (NC). He's 60. He didn't seek re-election. Senator Thomas (Utah) is in line to succeed him. He's 61.

Trapped Miners Are Not Reached

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Nov. 17 (AP)—Rescue workers reached the deepest section of flooded Franklin mine Thursday in their search for bodies of three men trapped by an explosion last Saturday.

Pagnotti Enterprises, Inc., operator of the colliery, said rescuers hoped to reach the bodies shortly.

The men—William Kohansky, John Draus and Michael Ceron—were lost when a blast in an adjoining mine flooded the Franklin colliery. Three others in the section escaped and two were brought out alive.

The company said there was "little or no hope" for Kohansky, Draus and Ceron because, in the remote possibility that they escaped drowning, the water would have cut off their air supply.

BOAKE CARTER DIES SUDDENLY

Hollywood, Nov. 17 (AP)—Sudden death has claimed Boake Carter, 46-year-old radio commentator, whose frequently provocative programs won him thousands of friends and opponents.

He appeared to be in good health but complained of feeling ill after his daily program for Mutual Broadcasting system yesterday. Taken to a doctor's office, he suffered a stroke and died shortly after he was admitted to Hollywood hospital.

Dr. Elmer Belt said that Carter came into his office complaining he had been suffering from a kidney ailment and that he had the first such attack eight days ago in Kansas City.

He was born in the British consulate at South Baku, Russia, of Irish-English parents, came to the United States in 1920, and for a time served as city editor of the Philadelphia Daily News.

He began his career on the air-waves in Philadelphia but kept his job as a rewrite man on his newspaper until he became a full time news commentator. In 1924 he married Beatrice Olive Richter, assistant society editor of the Philadelphia Bulletin. They had two children but were divorced in 1941 and he married Paula Nicoll, a traffic manager for Mutual Broadcasting system.

kingdoms of the earth when kings and warriors have fallen. But never was there in the history of man such mourning as that which has accompanied this funeral procession, and has gathered around the mortal remains of him who was our loved one, and who now sleeps among us. If we glance at the procession which followed him, we see how the nation stood aghast.

* * *

"Men left their ploughs in the fields, and asked what the end should be. The hum of manufactories ceased, and the sound of the hammer was not heard. Busy merchants closed their doors; and in the exchange gold passed no more from hand to hand. Though three weeks have elapsed, the nation has scarcely breathed easily yet. A mournful silence is abroad upon the land; nor is this mourning confined to any class or to any district of country. Men of all political parties, and of all religious creeds, have united in paying this mournful tribute. The archbishop of the Roman Catholic Church in New York and a Protestant minister walked side by side in the sad procession, and a Jewish rabbi performed a part of the solemn services.

"More persons have gazed on the face of the departed than ever looked upon the face of any other departed man. More have looked on the procession for 1600 miles or more—by night and by day—by sunlight, dawn, twilight, and by torchlight, than ever before watched the progress of a procession.

"We ask why this wonderful mourning—this great procession?

* * *

"The great cause of this mourning is to be found in the man himself. Mr. Lincoln was no ordinary man. I believe the conviction has been growing on the nation's mind, as it certainly has been on my own, especially in the last years of his administration, that, by the hand of God, he was especially singled out to guide our government in these troublesome times, and it seems to me that the hand of God may be traced in many of the events connected with his history.

"If you ask me on what mental characteristic his greatness rested, I answer, on a quick and ready perception of facts; on a memory usually tenacious and retentive; and on a logical turn of mind, which followed sternly and unwaveringly every link in the chain of thought on every subject which he was called to investigate. I think there have been minds more broad in their character, more comprehensive in their scope, bnut I doubt if there ever has been a man who could follow step by step, with more logical power, the points which he desired to illustrate. He gained this power by the close study of geometry, and by a determination to perceive the truth in all its relations, and simplicity, and, when found, to utter it.

"It was not, however, chiefly by his mental faculties that he gained such control over mankind. His moral power gave him preeminence. The convictions of men, that Abraham Lincoln was an honest man, led them to yield to his guidance. As has been said of Cobden, whom he greatly resembled, he made all men feel a sense of himself—a recognition of individuality—a selfrelying power. They saw in him a man who they believed would do what is right, regardless of all consequences. It was this moral feeling which gave him the greatest hold on the people, and made his utterances almost oracular.

"But the great act of the mighty chieftain, on which his fame shall rest long after his frame shall moulder away, is that of giving freedom to a race . . . Such a power, or such an opportunity, God has seldom given to man. When other events shall have been forgotten; when this world shall have become a network of republics; when every throne shall be swept from the face of the earth; when literature shall enlighten all minds; when the claims of humanity shall be recognized everywhere — this act shall still be conspicuous on the pages of history. We are thankful that God gave to Abraham Lincoln the decision and wisdom and grace to issue that proclamation, which stands high above all other papers which have been penned by uninspired men.

"His career teaches young men that every position of eminence is open before the diligent and the worthy. To the active men of the country, his example is an incentive to trust in God and do right.

"The time will come when, in the beautiful words of him whose lipe are now forever sealed, 'The mystic cords of memory, stretching from every battle-field and patriot grave to every living heart and hearthstone all over this broad land, will yet swell the chorus of the Union, when again touched, as surely thay will be, by the better angels of our nature.'

"Chieftain! farewell. The nation mourns thee. Mothers shall teach thy name to their lisping children. The youth of our land shall emulate thy virtues. Statesmen shall study thy record, and learn lessons of wisdom. Mute though thy lips be, yet they will speak. Hushed is thy voice, but its echoes of liberty are ringing through the world, and the sons of bondage listen with joy. Prisoned thou art in death, and yet thou art marching abroad, and chains and manacles are bursting at thy touch. Thou didst not fall for thyself. The assassin had no hate for thee. Our hearts were aimed at, our national life was sought. We crown thee as our martyr—and humanity enthrones thee as her triumphant son. Hero, Martyr, Friend, Farewell."

30 Defendants Are Seeking Freedom

Philadelphia, Nov. 17 (AP)—A demurrer and motion to quash charges was filed in District court Wednesday by 30 Philadelphia Transportation company operators who were indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of violating the Smith-Connally act during the transportation strike here in August.

Counsel for the operators contend that the PTC is not engaged in interstate commerce and is not a "plant, mine or facility" engaged in war production or in the movement of troops and that the government had no right to take it over.

TRANSFUSION FOR CABINET IS ADVOCATED

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Nov. 17 (AP)—Men of good will and men with harpoons suggest a little fresh—and younger—blood toward the top in government.

Hull (State), 73; Stmison (War), 77; Ickes (Interior), 70; Jones (Commerce), 70; Morgenthau (Treasury), 53; Biddle (Attorney General), 58; Walker (Postmaster), 58; Forrestal (Navy), 52; Wickard (Agriculture), 51; and Perkins (Labor), 62.

3 Serve 12 Years

Hull, Ickes and Miss Perkins have been in the cabinet since the President took office 12 years ago. Morgenthau has been a cabinet member 11 years.

The service of the others is as follows: Stimson, 4 years; Biddle, 3; Walker, 4; Forrestal, 1; Wickard, 4; and Jones, 4.

Outside the cabinet and government departments and wartime agencies the key jobs in directing the government are held by congressmen.

The top 11 Senate committee chairmen's average is 70. With a couple of changes in the new Congress in January, their average age will be about 69.

The top 11 House committee chairmen's average is 69. These chairmen all have been re-elected and probably will keep their same posts in the new Congress.

House Chairmen

All the chairmen in both houses are Democrats.

The oldest major committee chairman in the Senate is Glass (Va). He's 81, has been in Congress 33 years, and heads the Appropriations committee.

The youngest of the 11 top Senate committee chairmen is Reynolds (NC). He's 60. He didn't seek re-election. Senator Thomas (Utah) is in line to succeed him. He's 61.

Trapped Miners Are Not Reached

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Nov. 17 (AP)—Rescue workers reached the deepest section of flooded Franklin mine Thursday in their search for bodies of three men trapped by an explosion last Saturday.

Pagnotti Enterprises, Inc., operator of the colliery, said rescuers hoped to reach the bodies shortly.

The men—William Kohansky, John Draus and Michael Ceron—were lost when a blast in an adjoining mine flooded the Franklin colliery. Three others in the section escaped and two were brought out alive.

The company said there was "little or no hope" for Kohansky, Draus and Ceron because, in the remote possibility that they escaped drowning, the water would have cut off their air supply.

BOAKE CARTER DIES SUDDENLY

Hollywood, Nov. 17 (AP)—Sudden death has claimed Boake Carter, 46-year-old radio commentator, whose frequently provocative programs won him thousands of friends and opponents.

He appeared to be in good health but complained of feeling ill after his daily program for Mutual Broadcasting system yesterday. Taken to a doctor's office, he suffered a stroke and died shortly after he was admitted to Hollywood hospital.

Dr. Elmer Belt said that Carter came into his office complaining he had been suffering from a kidney ailment and that he had the first such attack eight days ago in Kansas City.

He was born in the British consulate at South Baku, Russia, of Irish-English parents, came to the United States in 1920, and for a time served as city editor of the Philadelphia Daily News.

He began his career on the airwaves in Philadelphia but kept his job as a rewrite man on his newspaper until he became a full time news commentator. In 1924 he married Beatrice Olive Richter, assistant society editor of the Philadelphia Bulletin. They had two children but were divorced in 1941 and he married Paula Nicoll, a traffic manager for Mutual Broadcasting system.

kingdoms of the earth when kings and warriors have fallen. But never was there in the history of man such mourning as that which has accompanied this funeral procession, and has gathered around the mortal remains of him who was our loved one, and who now sleeps among us. If we glance at the procession which followed him, we see how the nation stood aghast.

* * *

"Men left their ploughs in the fields, and asked what the end should be. The hum of manufactories ceased, and the sound of the hammer was not heard. Busy merchants closed their doors; and in the exchange gold passed no more from hand to hand. Though three weeks have elapsed, the nation has scarcely breathed easily yet. A mournful silence is abroad upon the land; nor is this mourning confined to any class or to any district of country. Men of all political parties, and of all religious creeds, have united in paying this mournful tribute. The archbishop of the Roman Catholic Church in New York and a Protestant minister walked side by side in the sad procession, and a Jewish rabbi performed a part of the solemn services.

"More persons have gazed on the face of the departed than ever looked upon the face of any other departed man. More have looked on the procession for 1600 miles or more—by night and by day—by sunlight, dawn, twilight, and by torchlight, than ever before watched the progress of a procession.

"We ask why this wonderful mourning—this great procession?

* * *

"The great cause of this mourning is to be found in the man himself. Mr. Lincoln was no ordinary man. I believe the conviction has been growing on the nation's mind, as it certainly has been on my own, especially in the last years of his administration, that, by the hand of God, he was especially singled out to guide our government in these troublesome times, and it seems to me that the hand of God may be traced in many of the events connected with his history.

"If you ask me on what mental characteristic his greatness rested, I answer, on a quick and ready perception of facts; on a memory usually tenacious and retentive; and on a logical turn of mind, which followed sternly and unwaveringly every link in the chain of thought on every subject which he was called to investigate. I think there have been minds more broad in their character, more comprehensive in their scope, bnut I doubt if there ever has been a man who could follow step by step, with more logical power, the points which he desired to illustrate. He gained this power by the close study of geometry, and by a determination to perceive the truth in all its relations, and simplicity, and, when found, to utter it.

"It was not, however, chiefly by his mental faculties that he gained such control over mankind. His moral power gave him preeminence. The convictions of men, that Abraham Lincoln was an honest man, led them to yield to his guidance. As has been said of Cobden, whom he greatly resembled, he made all men feel a sense of himself—a recognition of individuality—a selfrelying power. They saw in him a man who they believed would do what is right, regardless of all consequences. It was this moral feeling which gave him the greatest hold on the people, and made his utterances almost oracular.

"But the great act of the mighty chieftain, on which his fame shall rest long after his frame shall moulder away, is that of giving freedom to a race . . . Such a power, or such an opportunity, God has seldom given to man. When other events shall have been forgotten; when this world shall have become a network of republics; when every throne shall be swept from the face of the earth; when literature shall enlighten all minds; when the claims of humanity shall be recognized everywhere — this act shall still be conspicuous on the pages of history. We are thankful that God gave to Abraham Lincoln the decision and wisdom and grace to issue that proclamation, which stands high above all other papers which have been penned by uninspired men.

"His career teaches young men that every position of eminence is open before the diligent and the worthy. To the active men of the country, his example is an incentive to trust in God and do right.

"The time will come when, in the beautiful words of him whose lipe are now forever sealed, "The mystic cords of memory, stretching from every battle-field and patriot grave to every living heart and hearthstone all over this broad land, will yet swell the chorus of the Union, when again touched, as surely thay will be, by the better angels of our nature.'

"Chieftain! farewell. The nation mourns thee. Mothers shall teach thy name to their lisping children. The youth of our land shall emulate thy virtues. Statesmen shall study thy record, and learn lessons of wisdom. Mute though thy lips be, yet they will speak. Hushed is thy voice, but its echoes of liberty are ringing through the world, and the sons of bondage listen with joy. Prisoned thou art in death, and yet thou art marching abroad, and chains and manacles are bursting at thy touch. Thou didst not fall for thyself. The assassin had no hate for thee. Our hearts were aimed at, our national life was sought. We crown thee as our martyr—and humanity enthrones thee as her triumphant son. Hero, Martyr, Friend, Farewell."

30 Defendants Are Seeking Freedom

Philadelphia, Nov. 17 (AP)—A demurrer and motion to quash charges was filed in District court Wednesday by 30 Philadelphia Transportation company operators who were indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of violating the Smith-Connally act during the transportation strike here in August.

Counsel for the operators contend that the PTC is not engaged in interstate commerce and is not a "plant, mine or facility" engaged in war production or in the movement of troops and that the government had no right to take it over.

TRANSFUSION FOR CABINET IS ADVOCATED

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Nov. 17 (AP)—Men of good will and men with harpoons suggest a little fresh—and younger—blood toward the top in government.

Hull (State), 73; Stmison (War), 77; Ickes (Interior), 70; Jones (Commerce), 70; Morgenthau (Treasury), 53; Biddle (Attorney General), 58; Walker (Postmaster), 58; Forrestal (Navy), 52; Wickard (Agriculture), 51; and Perkins (Labor), 62.

3 Serve 12 Years

Hull, Ickes and Miss Perkins have been in the cabinet since the President took office 12 years ago. Morgenthau has been a cabinet member 11 years.

The service of the others is as follows: Stimson, 4 years; Biddle, 3; Walker, 4; Forrestal, 1; Wickard, 4; and Jones, 4.

Outside the cabinet and government departments and wartime agencies the key jobs in directing the government are held by congressmen.

The top 11 Senate committee chairmen's average is 70. With a couple of changes in the new Congress in January, their average age will be about 69.

The top 11 House committee chairmen's average is 69. These chairmen all have been re-elected and probably will keep their same posts in the new Congress.

House Chairmen

All the chairmen in both houses are Democrats.

The oldest major committee chairman in the Senate is Glass (Va). He's 81, has been in Congress 33 years, and heads the Appropriations committee.

The youngest of the 11 top Senate committee chairmen is Reynolds (NC). He's 60. He didn't seek re-election. Senator Thomas (Utah) is in line to succeed him. He's 61.

Trapped Miners Are Not Reached

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Nov. 17 (AP)—Rescue workers reached the deepest section of flooded Franklin mine Thursday in their search for bodies of three men trapped by an explosion last Saturday.

Pagnotti Enterprises, Inc., operator of the colliery, said rescuers hoped to reach the bodies shortly.

The men—William Kohansky, John Draus and Michael Ceron—were lost when a blast in an adjoining mine flooded the Franklin colliery. Three others in the section escaped and two were brought out alive.

The company said there was "little or no hope" for Kohansky, Draus and Ceron because, in the remote possibility that they escaped drowning, the water would have cut off their air supply.

BOAKE CARTER DIES SUDDENLY

Hollywood, Nov. 17 (AP)—Sudden death has claimed Boake Carter, 46-year-old radio commentator, whose frequently provocative programs won him thousands of friends and opponents.

He appeared to be in good health but complained of feeling ill after his daily program for Mutual Broadcasting system yesterday. Taken to a doctor's office, he suffered a stroke and died shortly after he was admitted to Hollywood hospital.

Dr. Elmer Belt said that Carter came into his office complaining he had been suffering from a kidney ailment and that he had the first such attack eight days ago in Kansas City.

He was born in the British consulate at South Baku, Russia, of Irish-English parents, came to the United States in 1920, and for a time served as city editor of the Philadelphia Daily News.

He began his career on the airwaves in Philadelphia but kept his job as a rewrite man on his newspaper until he became a full time news commentator. In 1924 he married Beatrice Olive Richter, assistant society editor of the Philadelphia Bulletin. They had two children but were divorced in 1941 and he married Paula Nicoll, a traffic manager for Mutual Broadcasting system.

Welcome him when he knocks at your door

THE 6th WAR LOAN STARTS NEXT WEEK

Within the next few weeks in every city, town and hamlet, men and women will be knocking on the doors of American homes. They come in the name of your fighting men, giving their time to take your subscriptions for extra War Bonds.

Welcome them as though they were actual soldiers from the foxholes of the Pacific. Your boys know what cooperation means during a battle—with them, it's a matter of life or death, victory or defeat. Think of this when a volunteer worker knocks on your door. Double your Bond buying during this drive. Buy at least one extra $100 Bond. Then buy another and another. It's going to take a lot of Bonds to meet the goal of $14,000,000,000.

Remember that the Japs are firmly united against us. They have 73 million people at home plus many of the 400 million enslaved people in conquered territories working to prolong this war. Japanese industry is strong and modern, and they have the supplies to carry on a long war unless we stop them.

And remember, when you buy a Bond during this drive, you're backing the boys fighting into the heart of the Nipponese strongholds. Buy Bonds with a grateful heart out of an open pocketbook.

TAKE YOUR CHOICE!

The "basket" of securities to be sold under the direction of the State War Finance Committee is especially designed to fit individual investment needs. It consists of eight issues:

- Series E, F and G Savings Bonds.
- Series C Savings Notes.
- 2½% Bonds of 1966-71.
- 2% Bonds of 1952-54.
- 1¼% Notes of 1947.
- ⅞% Certificates of Indebtedness.

By MARTIN H. BRACKBILL

Harrisburg, Nov. 17 (AP)—Republicans have "the responsibility to fight every inch of the way so that America will be kept the kind of America our boys want to come back to," Ohio Governor John W. Bricker declared last night.

In his first public address since the Nov. 7 election the defeated GOP Vice Presidential nominee told the closing session of the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women that outside the south "almost half of the popular vote" was for Governor Thomas E. Dewey and himself.

This has placed, he asserted, "on the Republican party, on Republican governors, and on Republican members of Congress the responsibility of expressing the aims, the will and the ambitions of that 21 million people."

Retain Two Parties

"What we want," he stated, "is the maintenance of the two-party system, the recapture of the spirit of private enterprise and readjustment of our tax laws," adding "we must take government out of competition with private business."

He said "the New Deal has destroyed, to a great extent, the creative ability of our people" and added "edicts out of Washington have caused a loss of confidence in ourselves to govern."

Declaring returning war veterans will change that, he added "the boys from the battle fronts will take care of the Sidney Hillmans and the Earl Browders when they get back."

Governor Martin said in another address the Republican party "must have a program of political action" and not "simply be an opposition party and live by criticism."

The council earlier re-elected Mrs. John V. Huber, Jr., of Haverford, for a third term as president and renamed all other officers and directors. They included:

Recording secretary, Mrs. Alvin W. Evans, Ebensburg; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Edward R. Miller, Bellefonte; and treasurer, Mrs. Meade D. Detweiler, Jr., Harrisburg.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 17 (AP)—Certificates of naturalization of 14 foreign-born men serving in United States armed forces overseas whose homes are in western Pennsylvania, were received today at the office of the clerk of the federal district court. Proceedings were conducted by representatives of the United States Naturalization Bureau sent abroad to hold hearings.

Ottawa, Nov. 18 (AP)—The Canadian Army announced that Corp George Lichtenberger, son of Mrs. Jennie Lichtenberger, Warren, Pa., has been killed in action.

Soldier, Home On Furlough, Killed

Newport, Pa., Nov. 17 (AP)—Staff Sgt. Donald Miller, of Newport, home on furlough from Ft. Lewis, Washington, was killed Wednesday when struck by a Pennsylvania railroad train at the scene of a freight wreck on Tuesday night.

Coroner John Wilt, in reporting his death, said that Sgt. Miller had taken four-year-old Thomas Kauffman, a neighbor's child, to see the wreckage and had the child in his arms when hit by the train. The child was thrown clear by the impact, receiving only minor cuts as he rolled down an embankment.

BRUNO ASKS COMMUTATION

Harrisburg, Nov. 17 (AP) — A second plea by Philip Bruno, of Schuylkill county, for commutation of his life sentence for murder rested with the state pardon board today.

Bruno was convicted in the slaying of five marchers in a Democratic parade at Kelayres on election eve in 1934. His brother, Joseph J. Bruno, also is serving a life sentence in the same case. The pardon board has previously rejected appeals of both men to make them eligible for parole.

Frank P. Tucker, senior parole officer at the Eastern State Penitentiary told board Wednesday Philip Bruno had made "an outstanding adjustment" while in prison.

The board also rejected the appeal of Thomas Hays Elliott, 23, Harrisburg negro, sentenced to be executed early Monday morning, November 27 for the slaying of Lucius Baker here in an attempted robbery in 1943.

In refusing commutation of the death sentence to life imprisonment, the board recommended that Governor Martin grant no further respites. The governor, in September, issued a 60-day respite to permit a second hearing before the pardon board which was held this week.

Believe Murderer Sought 3rd Victim

Los Angeles, Nov. 17 (AP)—A woman will be questioned by police today in an effort to determine if Otto Steve Wilson, 31-year-old janitor, was attempting to lure her to the same death which he has stated in a signed confession was the previous fate at his hands of two other women—slaying and mutilation.

Wilson was chatting at a bar with the third woman Wednesday when a patrolman handcuffed and arrested him. This was shortly after the bodies of two other women were discovered in separate hotels.

Capt. Thad Brown, head of the police homicide bureau, said Wilson, discharged Navy pharmacist's mate, told him he "didn't know what I might have done to her." Her name was not disclosed.

Island Song

by Owen Atkinson — AP Newsfeatures

YESTERDAY: When the Salem clipper, Vanity, loaded with iron pipe consigned to the Hawaiian premier, Dr. Webb, dropped anchor in Honolulu harbor, Captain Jason Blake made ready to go ashore to pay his respects to the premier. He was taking him as a gift, twelve of the finest bottles of Jamaica rum. Before shoving off, however, his puritanical brother, Caleb, warned him, "This is an ungodly, heathenish place, Jason . . . you know your weakness for a pretty face. Let there be no tales carried home of your taking from grace . . ."

Chapter 3

Doctor Webb appeared, a tall, gaunt man with lines of responsibility carved deep into his face. His hair was gray and his hands long and bony and very white and clean, for he was a physician as well as Premier. His voice, when he greeted Jason, was low-pitched and carried the rasp of one accustomed to instant obedience. He wore steel-rimmed spectacles which he removed often and wiped nervously. Without the spectacles, his eyes appeared gray and icy cold. Occasionally he blinked as if his eyes troubled him.

"Well, Captain," Doctor Webb rumbled, "and how is my cargo of pipe?"

"Safe enough," Jason told him. "You'll find a bit of rust here and there, but that's only natural. Pumice stone and a little rubbing will soon remove that. And now, I have a present for you, sir." He stooped and opened the trunk, exposing the bottles to view. "A dozen choice Jamaica rum."

Doctor Webb gave him a one-sided smile. "That's the way of you trading captains. Wherever you go, your damnable rum goes with you."

"But, doctor," Mrs. Webb protested, crossing swiftly to her husband's side, "Captain Blake is offering the spirits as a gift. The rum will be a welcome addition to your medicine chest."

"Suppose so," grunted the doctor, tilting back in his chair. "You've made a fast voyage, Captain. For ten years I've been dreaming of the water works. I'm truly grateful. The king will thank you personally. He will receive you tomorrow morning at court."

Jason noticed that the doctor spoke without considering the convenience of the king. "My brother is with me, sir," he reminded the Premier.

"Bring him along," rumbled Doctor Webb. "But don't bring any rum for the king. Sorry I must hurry away." The doctor stood up and grasped Jason's hand. "Should like to have heard something about Boston. Been eighteen years since I was there."

Mrs. Webb smiled up at Jason. "But we're islanders now," she said softly. She accompanied Jason to the door. He felt a sudden sympathy for her, wanted to stop and talk. Some day he would call on the Premier's wife—get to know her. He was certain that he and this slender, quiet, understanding woman were to become friends.

When Jason returned to his ship and reported to Caleb that they were to pay a formal visit at court the next morning, the younger man did not seem pleased. "What good," he objected vigorously, "is all this dressing up in uncomfortable clothes and kowtowing in front of a kanaka king? There's the cargo to be unloaded, and a new cargo for the return voyage to be brought on. I'll stay aboard and get the work started."

"It's the return cargo I'm thinking of," Jason told him. "Sandalwood if we can get it, and I think we can."

"Very well," groaned Caleb, "but you know how I feel about these natives."

The next morning, Jason and his brother, both in tall hats and long skirted coats and shirts with ruffled bosoms, presented themselves at the palace. They were met by Doctor Webb and escorted into the presence of the king. The court had a stately and dignified air. It was held in a long, high-ceilinged room, the walls decorated with figured tapestry of brilliant silk. The ceiling was paneled in polished koa wood; and the floor, inlaid with koa, kui-hui and hau woods, glistened underfoot. At one end, raised on a dias, stood a great golden arm chair with its red satin upholstery, the throne. Similar chairs, all gold and red, ranged on both sides. Above the throne hung a great shield emblazoned with the royal Hawaiian coat of arms.

The king, at thirty-six, already inclined toward the hereditary stoutness of the royal family, was wearing the uniform of a full English admiral, a high-collared long-tailed coat with gold buttons, gold epaulets, belt and sword. On his broad chest gleamed several foreign decorations. The king's face was round, a short mustache darkened his upper lip. His skin was the color of old leather. He held himself erect, one hand resting on the hilt of his sword. His eyes were far apart and slightly slanting. He smiled seldom, but was good-natured, self-indulgent, temperamental, lavish and greedy at the same time. His Majesty, Kamehameha III, a brown-skinned king ruling a brown-skinned people in an island paradise!

By the king's side sat his sister, Queen Lilea, her enormous body overflowing from a tight-fitting purple silk dress with long sleeves. The queen was twenty years older than her brother, had been premier and regent during the king's youth. She was a jolly old lady, bubbling with laughter at the slightest provocation. But she could also frown and curse when things didn't go to suit her. She was un-moral, irreligious, sensitive, generous, kindly to her friends, cruel to her enemies.

Grouped around the king were the high chiefs, members of the House of Nobles, with their wives. The throne on which the king sat was draped with the yellow feathered war cloak of the great Kamehameha I.

All this Jason took in at a glance. And then he saw a girl in a dark red velvet dress cut low about the smooth golden curve of her shoulders. She was slender and graceful and, to Jason's eyes, bewitchingly beautiful. He gazed at her in astonishment. So fascinated was he by this loveliness that he did not hear the words of the Premier who was standing at his elbow. "Sir?" he stammered.

By MARTIN H. BRACKBILL

Harrisburg, Nov. 17 (AP)—Republicans have "the responsibility to fight every inch of the way so that America will be kept the kind of America our boys want to come back to," Ohio Governor John W. Bricker declared last night.

In his first public address since the Nov. 7 election the defeated GOP Vice Presidential nominee told the closing session of the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women that outside the south "almost half of the popular vote" was for Governor Thomas E. Dewey and himself.

This has placed, he asserted, "on the Republican party, on Republican governors, and on Republican members of Congress the responsibility of expressing the aims, the will and the ambitions of that 21 million people."

Retain Two Parties

"What we want," he stated, "is the maintenance of the two-party system, the recapture of the spirit of private enterprise and readjustment of our tax laws," adding "we must take government out of competition with private business."

He said "the New Deal has destroyed, to a great extent, the creative ability of our people" and added "edicts out of Washington have caused a loss of confidence in ourselves to govern."

Declaring returning war veterans will change that, he added "the boys from the battle fronts will take care of the Sidney Hillmans and the Earl Browders when they get back."

Governor Martin said in another address the Republican party "must have a program of political action" and not "simply be an opposition party and live by criticism."

The council earlier re-elected Mrs. John Y. Huber, Jr., of Haverford, for a third term as president and renamed all other officers and directors. They included:

TO BE NATURALIZED

Pittsburgh, Nov. 17 (AP)—Certificates of naturalization of 14 foreign-born men serving in United States armed forces overseas whose homes are in western Pennsylvania, were received today at the office of the clerk of the federal district court. Proceedings were conducted by representatives of the United States Naturalization Bureau sent abroad to hold hearings.

York, Pa., Nov. 18 (AP)—A charge of involuntary manslaughter was brought against Herman Dallmyer, 29, Columbia, Pa., Wednesday after an inquest into the death of William A. Mumper, also of Columbia, in a highway accident.

Ottawa, Nov. 18 (AP)—The Canadian Army announced that Corp. George Lichtenberger, son of Mrs. Jennie Lichtenberger, Warren, Pa., has been killed in action.

Soldier, Home On Furlough, Killed

Newport, Pa., Nov. 17 (AP)—Staff Sgt. Donald Miller, of Newport, home on furlough from Ft. Lewis, Washington, was killed Wednesday when struck by a Pennsylvania railroad train at the scene of a freight wreck on Tuesday night.

Coroner John Wilt, in reporting his death, said that Sgt. Miller had taken four-year-old Thomas Kauffman, a neighbor's child, to see the wreckage and had the child in his arms when hit by the train. The child was thrown clear by the impact, receiving only mmor cuts as he rolled down an embankment.

BRUNO ASKS COMMUTATION

Harrisburg, Nov. 17 (AP) — A second plea by Philip Bruno, of Schuylkill county, for commutation of his life sentence for murder rested with the state pardon board today.

Bruno was convicted in the slaying of five marchers in a Democratic parade at Kelayres on election eve in 1934. His brother, Joseph J. Bruno, also is serving a life sentence in the same case. The pardon board has previously rejected appeals of both men to make them eligible for parole.

Frank P. Tucker, senior parole officer at the Eastern State Penitentiary told board Wednesday Philip Bruno had made "an outstanding adjustment" while in prison.

The board also rejected the appeal of Thomas Hays Elliott, 23, Harrisburg negro, sentenced to be executed early Monday morning, November 27 for the slaying of Lucius Baker here in an attempted robbery in 1943.

In refusing commutation of the death sentence to life imprisonment, the board recommended that Governor Martin grant no further respites. The governor, in September, issued a 60-day respite to permit a second hearing before the pardon board which was held this week.

Believe Murderer Sought 3rd Victim

Los Angeles, Nov. 17 (AP)—A woman will be questioned by police today in an effort to determine if Otto Steve Wilson, 31-year-old janitor, was attempting to lure her to the same death which he has stated in a signed confession was the previous fate at his hands of two other women—slaying and mutilation.

Wilson was chatting at a bar with the third woman Wednesday when a patrolman handcuffed and arrested him. This was shortly after the bodies of two other women were discovered in separate hotels.

Capt. Thad Brown, head of the police homicide bureau, said Wilson, discharged Navy pharmacist's mate, told him he "didn't know what I might have done to her." Her name was not disclosed.

Island Song

by Owen Atkinson — AP Newsfeatures

YESTERDAY: When the Salem clipper, Vanity, loaded with iron pipe consigned to the Hawaiian premier, Dr. Webb, dropped anchor in Honolulu harbor, Captain Jason Blake made ready to go ashore to pay his respects to the premier. He was taking him as a gift, twelve of the finest bottles of Jamaica rum. Before shoving off, however, his puritanical brother, Caleb, warned him, "This is an ungodly, heathenish place, Jason . . . you know your weakness for a pretty face. Let there be no tales carried home of your falling from grace. . . ."

Chapter 3

Doctor Webb appeared, a tall, gaunt man with lines of responsibility carved deep into his face. His hair was gray and his hands long and bony and very white and clean, for he was a physician as well as Premier. His voice, when he greeted Jason, was low-pitched and carried the rasp of one accustomed to instant obedience. He wore steel-rimmed spectacles which he removed often and wiped nervously. Without the spectacles, his eyes appeared gray and icy cold. Occasionally he blinked as if his eyes troubled him.

"Well, Captain," Doctor Webb rumbled, "and how is my cargo of pipe?"

"Safe enough," Jason told him. "You'll find a bit of rust here and there, but that's only natural. Pumice stone and a little rubbing will soon remove that. And now, I have a present for you, sir." He stooped and opened the trunk, exposing the bottles to view. "A dozen choice Jamaica rum."

Doctor Webb gave him a one-sided smile. "That's the way of you trading captains. Wherever you go, your damnable rum goes with you."

"But, doctor," Mrs. Webb protested, crossing swiftly to her husband's side, "Captain Blake is offering the spirits as a gift. The rum will be a welcome addition to your medicine chest."

"Suppose so," grunted the doctor, tilting back in his chair. "You've made a fast voyage, Captain. For ten years I've been dreaming of the water works. I'm truly grateful. The king will thank you personally. He will receive you tomorrow morning at court."

Jason noticed that the doctor spoke without considering the convenience of the king. "My brother is with me, sir," he reminded the Premier.

"Bring him along," rumbled Doctor Webb. "But don't bring any rum for the king. Sorry I must hurry away." The doctor stood up and grasped Jason's hand. "Should like to have heard something about Boston. Been eighteen years since I was there."

Mrs. Webb smiled up at Jason. "But we're islanders now," she said softly. She accompanied Jason to the door. He felt a sudden sympathy for her, wanted to stop and talk. Some day he would call on the Premier's wife—get to know her. He was certain that he and this slender, quiet, understanding woman were to become friends.

When Jason returned to his ship and reported to Caleb that they were to pay a formal visit at court the next morning, the younger man did not seem pleased. "What good," he objected vigorously, "is all this dressing up in uncomfortable clothes and kowtowing in front of a kanaka king? There's the cargo to be unloaded, and a new cargo for the return voyage to be thought of. I'll stay aboard and get the work started."

"It's the return cargo I'm thinking of," Jason told him. "Sandalwood if we can get it, and I think we can."

"Very well," groaned Caleb, "but you know how I feel about these natives."

The next morning, Jason and his brother, both in tall hats and long skirted coats and shirts with ruffled bosoms, presented themselves at the palace. They were met by Doctor Webb and escorted into the presence of the king. The court had a stately and dignified air. It was held in a long, high-ceilinged room, the walls decorated with figured tapestry of brilliant silk. The ceiling was paneled in polished koa wood; and the floor, inlaid with koa, kui-kui and hau woods, glistened underfoot. At one end, raised on a dias, stood a great golden arm chair with its red satin upholstery, the throne. Similar chairs, all gold and red, ranged on both sides. Above the throne hung a great shield emblazoned with the royal Hawaiian coat of arms.

The king, at thirty-six, already inclined toward the hereditary stoutness of the royal family, was wearing the uniform of a full English admiral, a high-collared long-tailed coat with gold buttons, gold epaulets, belt and sword. On his broad chest gleamed several foreign decorations. The king's face was round, a short mustache darkened his upper lip. His skin was the color of old leather. He held himself erect, one hand resting on the hilt of his sword. His eyes were far apart and slightly slanting. He smiled seldom, but was good-natured, self-indulgent, temperamental, lavish and greedy at the same time. His Majesty, Kamehameha III, a brown-skinned king ruling a brown-skinned people in an island paradise!

By the king's side sat his sister, Queen Lilca, her enormous body overflowing from a tight-fitting purple silk dress with long sleeves. The queen was twenty years older than her brother, had been premier and regent during the king's youth. She was a jolly old lady, bubbling with laughter at the slightest provocation. But she could also frown and curse when things didn't go to suit her. She was un-moral, irreligicus, sensitive, generous, kindly to her friends, cruel to her enemies.

Grouped around the king were the high chiefs, members of the House of Nobles, with their wives. The throne on which the king sat was draped with the yellow feathered war cloak of the great Kamehameha I.

All this Jason took in at a glance. And then he saw a girl in a dark red velvet dress cut low about the smooth golden curve of her shoulders. She was slender and graceful and, to Jason's eyes, bewitchingly beautiful. He gazed at her in astonishment. So fascinated was he by this loviness that he did not hear the words of the Premier who was standing at his elbow. "Sir?" he stammered.

By MARTIN H. BRACKBILL

Harrisburg, Nov. 17 (AP)—Republicans have "the responsibility to fight every inch of the way so that America will be kept the kind of America our boys want to come back to," Ohio Governor John W. Bricker declared last night.

In his first public address since the Nov. 7 election the defeated GOP Vice Presidential nominee told the closing session of the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women that outside the south "almost half of the popular vote" was for Governor Thomas E. Dewey and himself.

This has placed, he asserted, "on the Republican party, on Republican governors, and on Republican members of Congress the responsibility of expressing the aims, the will and the ambitions of that 21 million people."

Retain Two Parties

"What we want," he stated, "is the maintenance of the two-party system, the recapture of the spirit of private enterprise and readjustment of our tax laws," adding "we must take government out of competition with private business."

He said "the New Deal has destroyed, to a great extent, the creative ability of our people" and added "edicts out of Washington have caused a loss of confidence in ourselves to govern."

Declaring returning war veterans will change that, he added "the boys from the battle fronts will take care of the Sidney Hillmans and the Earl Browders when they get back."

Governor Martin said in another address the Republican party "must have a program of political action" and not "simply be an opposition party and live by criticism."

The council earlier re-elected Mrs. John Y. Huber, Jr., of Haverford, for a third term as president and renamed all other officers and directors. They included:

TO BE NATURALIZED

Pittsburgh, Nov. 17 (AP)—Certificates of naturalization of 14 foreign-born men serving in United States armed forces overseas whose homes are in western Pennsylvania, were received today at the office of the clerk of the federal district court. Proceedings were conducted by representatives of the United States Naturalization Bureau sent abroad to hold hearings.

York, Pa., Nov. 18 (AP)—A charge of involuntary manslaughter was brought against Herman Dallmyer, 29, Columbia, Pa., Wednesday after an inquest into the death of William A. Mumper, also of Columbia, in a highway accident.

Ottawa, Nov. 18 (AP)—The Canadian Army announced that Corp George Lichtenberger, son of Mrs. Jennie Lichtenberger, Warren, Pa., has been killed in action.

Soldier, Home On Furlough, Killed

Newport, Pa., Nov. 17 (AP)—Staff Sgt. Donald Miller, of Newport, home on furlough from Ft. Lewis, Washington, was killed Wednesday when struck by a Pennsylvania railroad train at the scene of a freight wreck on Tuesday night.

Coroner John Wilt, in reporting his death, said that Sgt. Miller had taken four-year-old Thomas Kauffman, a neighbor's child, to see the wreckage and had the child in his arms when hit by the train. The child was thrown clear by the impact, receiving only minor cuts as he rolled down an embankment.

BRUNO ASKS COMMUTATION

Harrisburg, Nov. 17 (AP) — A second plea by Philip Bruno, of Schuylkill county, for commutation of his life sentence for murder rested with the state pardon board today.

Bruno was convicted in the slaying of five marchers in a Democratic parade at Kelayres on election eve in 1934. His brother, Joseph J. Bruno, also is serving a life sentence in the same case. The pardon board has previously rejected appeals of both men to make them eligible for parole.

Frank P. Tucker, senior parole officer at the Eastern State Penitentiary told board Wednesday Philip Bruno had made "an outstanding adjustment" while in prison.

The board also rejected the appeal of Thomas Hays Elliott, 23, Harrisburg negro, sentenced to be executed early Monday morning, November 27 for the slaying of Lucius Baker here in an attempted robbery in 1943.

In refusing commutation of the death sentence to life imprisonment, the board recommended that Governor Martin grant no further respites. The governor, in September, issued a 60-day respite to permit a second hearing before the pardon board which was held this week.

Believe Murderer Sought 3rd Victim

Los Angeles, Nov. 17 (AP)—A woman will be questioned by police today in an effort to determine if Otto Steve Wilson, 31-year-old janitor, was attempting to lure her to the same death which he has stated in a signed confession was the previous fate at his hands of two other women—slaying and mutilation.

Wilson was chatting at a bar with the third woman Wednesday when a patrolman handcuffed and arrested him. This was shortly after the bodies of two other women were discovered in separate hotels.

Capt. Thad Brown, head of the police homicide bureau, said Wilson, discharged Navy pharmacist's mate, told him he "didn't know what I might have done to her." Her name was not disclosed.

Island Song

by Owen Atkinson — AP Newsfeatures

YESTERDAY: When the Salem clipper, Vanity, loaded with iron pipe consigned to the Hawaiian premier, Dr. Webb, dropped anchor in Honolulu harbor, Captain Jason Blake made ready to go ashore to pay his respects to the premier. He was taking him as a gift, twelve of the finest bottles of Jamaica rum. Before shoving off, however, his puritanical brother, Caleb, warned him, "This is an ungodly, heathenish place, Jason . . . you know your weakness for a pretty face. Let there be no tales carried home of your falling from grace. . . ."

Chapter 3

Doctor Webb appeared, a tall, gaunt man with lines of responsibility carved deep into his face. His hair was gray and his hands long and bony and very white and clean, for he was a physician as well as Premier. His voice, when he greeted Jason, was low-pitched and carried the rasp of one accustomed to instant obedience. He wore steel-rimmed spectacles which he removed often and wiped nervously. Without the spectacles, his eyes appeared gray and icy cold. Occasionally he blinked as if his eyes troubled him.

"Well, Captain," Doctor Webb rumbled, "and how is my cargo of pipe?"

"Safe enough," Jason told him. "You'll find a bit of rust here and there, but that's only natural. Pumice stone and a little rubbing will soon remove that. And now, I have a present for you, sir." He stooped and opened the trunk, exposing the bottles to view. "A dozen choice Jamaica rum."

Doctor Webb gave him a one-sided smile. "That's the way of you trading captains. Wherever you go, your damnable rum goes with you."

"But, doctor," Mrs. Webb protested, crossing swiftly to her husband's side, "Captain Blake is offering the spirits as a gift. The rum will be a welcome addition to your medicine chest."

"Suppose so," grunted the doctor, tilting back in his chair. "You've made a fast voyage, Captain. For ten years I've been dreaming of the water works. I'm truly grateful. The king will thank you personally. He will receive you tomorrow morning at court."

Jason noticed that the doctor spoke without considering the convenience of the king. "My brother is with me, sir," he reminded the Premier.

"Bring him along," rumbled Doctor Webb. "But don't bring any rum for the king. Sorry I must hurry away." The doctor stood up and grasped Jason's hand. "Should like to have heard something about Boston. Been eighteen years since I was there."

Mrs. Webb smiled up at Jason. "But we're islanders now," she said softly. She accompanied Jason to the door. He felt a sudden sympathy for her, wanted to stop and talk. Some day he would call on the Premier's wife—get to know her. He was certain that he and this slender, quiet, understanding woman were to become friends.

When Jason returned to his ship and reported to Caleb that they were to pay a formal visit at court the next morning, the younger man did not seem pleased. "What good," he objected vigorously, "is all this dressing up in uncomfortable clothes and kowtowing in front of a kanaka king? There's the cargo to be unloaded, and a new cargo for the return voyage to be thought of. I'll stay aboard and get the work started."

"It's the return cargo I'm thinking of," Jason told him. "Sandalwood if we can get it, and I think we can."

"Very well," groaned Caleb, "but you know how I feel about these natives."

The next morning, Jason and his brother, both in tail hats and long skirted coats and shirts with ruffled bosoms, presented themselves at the palace. They were met by Doctor Webb and escorted into the presence of the king. The court had a stately and dignified air. It was held in a long, high-ceilinged room, the walls decorated with figured tapestry of brilliant silk. The ceiling was paneled in polished koa wood; and the floor, inlaid with koa, kui-kui and hau woods, glistened underfoot. At one end, raised on a dias, stood a great golden arm chair with its red satin upholstery, the throne. Similar chairs, all gold and red, ranged on both sides. Above the throne hung a great shield emblazoned with the royal Hawaiian coat of arms.

The king, at thirty-six, already inclined toward the hereditary stoutness of the royal family, was wearing the uniform of a full English admiral, a high-collared long-tailed coat with gold buttons, gold epaulets, belt and sword. On his broad chest gleamed several foreign decorations. The king's face was round, a short mustache darkened his upper lip. His skin was the color of old leather. He held himself erect, one hand resting on the hilt of his sword. His eyes were far apart and slightly slanting. He smiled seldom, but was good-natured, self-indulgent, temperamental, lavish and greedy at the same time. His Majesty, Kamehameha III, a brown-skinned king ruling a brown-skinned people in an island paradise!

By the king's side sat his sister, Queen Lilca, her enormous body overflowing from a tight-fitting purple silk dress with long sleeves. The queen was twenty years older than her brother, had been premier and regent during the king's youth. She was a jolly old lady, bubbling with laughter at the slightest provocation. But she could also frown and curse when things didn't go to suit her. She was un-moral, irreligious, sensitive, generous, kindly to her friends, cruel to her enemies.

Grouped around the king were the high chiefs, members of the House of Nobles, with their wives. The throne on which the king sat was draped with the yellow feathered war cloak of the great Kamehameha I.

All this Jason took in at a glance. And then he saw a girl in a dark red velvet dress cut low about the smooth golden curve of her shoulders. She was slender and graceful and, to Jason's eyes, bewitchingly beautiful. He gazed at her in astonishment. So fascinated was he by this lovliness that he did not hear the words of the Premier who was standing at his elbow. "Sir?" he stammered.

SCHOOLBOYS TO RISK PERFECT GRID RECORDS

Harrisburg, Nov. 17 (AP)—The fag end of Pennsylvania's 1944 scholastic football season finds a championship battle between two unbeaten elevens in the west, while in the east a number of squads risk perfect records in crucial contests.

For some schools, the games this week-end close the 1944 campaign books. Other squads, however, are pointing for traditional Thanksgiving day contests.

The sole survivors in class AA competition of the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic league, Ellwood City tangles with Donora in Pitt stadium tomorrow afternoon. The match between these two unbeaten elevens was specially arranged to settle the championship

In the hard coal region, undefeated Hanover Township invades Dunmore, last year's northern division champion in the 38-team eastern conference. The 1944 crown may be at stake, although Blakely can stay in the thick of the fight with a win over Oylphant in another week-end tilt.

Final Game

The "big" games in the southern division of this loop are booked for Turkey day, but Kulpmont, winner of 10 straight, closes its campaign against Scranton Tech. Unbeaten Lansford holds the pinnacle in the circuit.

John Harris high, pace-setter in the big 15 circuit, faces Steelton this week-end in a traditional match; unbeaten Bethlehem is host to Shamokin, and Allentown, defending champion, meets Kingston in a non-conference scrap.

Other big 15 games send Reading to Easton, Hazleton to Pottsville, and Lebanon to William Penn, of Harrisburg.

With State College clinching the western conference race last week, only five games are scheduled in this circuit this week-end. Mt. Union goes to Bellwood-Antis, Claysburg plays at Cresson, Conemaugh Township journeys to Windber, Hollidaysburg travels to Lewistown, and Lock Haven visits Tyrone.

FISHING CODE FOR 1945 SET

Harrisburg, Nov. 17 (AP)—Fishing regulations for Pennsylvania during 1945 remain virtually the same as this year with the exception of a revision in the size of muskellunge which can be taken from state streams.

Fish Commissioner Charles A. French, in announcing the code for the coming year said that an increase from 22 to 24 inches in size for muskies was made "so this fine fish which furnishes so much sport in the lakes and streams of northwestern Pennsylvania will be further protected.

The commission fixed the following seasons:

Trout—Any species except lake or salmon. April 15 to July 31; not less than six inches; 10 daily.

Trout—Lake or salmon. July 1 to September 29; no size, eight daily.

Bass—July 1 to November 30; not less than nine inches; six daily.

Pike Perch—July 1 to November 30; not less than 12 inches; six daily.

Pickerel—July 1 to November 30; not less than 12 inches; six daily.

Too Many Orders Swamps Business

Philadelphia, Nov. 17 (AP)—Earl B. Keller sales manager for the American Stores company, told U. S. District court yesterday that the multiplicity of governmental regulations and the manpower shortage make it "almost impossible" for a business man "to do everything the government wants it to."

The company presented nearly a dozen witnesses to answer OPA charges that meats were upgraded and sold above ceiling prices in its stores. The case was to resume today.

Keller and a half-dozen store managers told Judge J. Cullen Ganey that every effort was made to adhere to the OPA regulations.

Missing Youth Is Found Dead

Allentown, Pa., Nov. 17 (AP)—Searchers found the body of 9-year-old Wayne David, Jr., object of a 12-day hunt late yesterday beside a corn shock on the farm of Henry R. Jacobs, Ardmore automobile dealer, at Siesholtzville.

Superficial brush burns and bruises were on the body, but Assistant District Attorney Warren K. Hess of Berks county, said, "they were marks any boy might carry."

Hess said a preliminary examination indicated no foul play and that the boy probably died of exposure. An autopsy was set for today.

NAVY TO FACE TOUGH PURDUE

Baltimore, Nov. 16 (AP)—With a devastating Army eleven just over the horizon, the Navy sails into what Midshipman Coach Cmdr. Oscar Hagberg believes will be its maddest game to date Saturday at the Baltimore stadium against Purdue.

Alex Hagberg may be right, for the powerful Boilermakers have exhibited one of the nation's better ground games. Led by fullback Boris (Babe) Dimancheff, Big Ten conference High Point scorer and ground gainer de luxe, Purdue has rolled up impressive yardage with its distinctive type of modified T formation.

Navy is counting upon its rock-like forward wall to halt the Purdue ground game, but the question is how the Annapolis eleven plans to get the ball into payoff territory.

Football fans are wondering whether the Navy's passing game—here little in its victories of the last three weeks over Pennsylvania, Notre Dame and Cornell—will be needed again Saturday or whether the Tar team will continue to rely on the running of Bob Jenkins, Clyde Scott and the numerous other overland gainers of its backfield.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Nov. 17 (AP)—From a bomber squadron in France, Cpl. Doug Gary reports: "The world series was thicker than snow in the Rockies here. Everybody pulled for the Browns and when they won the camp went wild and they all stayed up to listen to the remaining games (they started at 7:30 our time). . . . Several Frenchmen asked me about the outcome of the world series." . . . Seems that world series is correct. . . . Vivian Morrow of Utica, N. Y., broke a finger on her right hand playing softball but that doesn't keep her from bowling in three different leagues. She merely switched to left-handed bowling. Last word on the Army-Notre Dame game (from scout Jack Lavelle): "They couldn't hit me. I was in the upper stands."

PIGSKIN PICKINS

Army vs. Pennsylvania:
Upsets happen now and then
But they won't put Army in the Penn.

Southwestern vs. Randolph Field:
They'll keep their hands off
The backs from Randolph

Mississippi State vs. Alabama:
I won't put the whammy

Illinois vs. Ohio State:
If Buddy Young outruns the Buckeye
He'll be not only fas but luckeye.

SHORTS AND SHELLS

The Honolulu pro football club, which wants to get into one of the U. S. leagues, will include as many Hawaiian players as possible and Prexy Ralph Olson promises a troupe of hula gals and Hawaiian entertainers will accompany the team on its travels. . . Larry Grill, the Phoenix, Ariz., Gazette sports editor who has been ill for a couple of years, has resumed his column writing. . . . If you're looking for a good football back, try Mississippi: How about Doug Kenna (Jackson), Doc Blanchard (Pascagoula) of Army, Shorty McWilliams (Meridian) of Miss. State, Dinkey Bowen (Greenville) of Georgia Tech and Lowell Tew (Waynesboro) of Alabama?

ANOTHER GOOD PLAN

Military authorities in Bermuda have been trying to drum up an Army-Navy series (not just one game) during January, but when Coach Joe Maniaci of the Bainbride naval training center was invited to contribute himself and eight players to the Navy squad, the word went back that Joe couldn't be spared from his duties in the Provost Marshal's division for a month nor could the players get away for so long without replacements. . . . It would be swell for Bermuda's service men but tough on Bainbridge.

DOTS ALL, BROTHERS

Since 1932, when Virginia's footballers sent word ahead that they were ready to "shoot the works" against Ohio State—and then lost, 75-0—that expression hasn't been popular with the Cavaliers until this year. . . . So far three rivals, Hampden-Sydney, West Virginia and Richmond, have announced that they were gunning for Virginia. Scores: 37-0, 24-7 and 39-0. . . . Coach Frank Murray now is hoping for some kindly expressions of no ill feeling from Yale

Hint Judge Landis May Resign Office

Chicago, Nov. 17 (AP)—Rumors that Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis was ready to retire were rife today as a group of major league officials met to consider the big league agreement which, among other things, provides for procedure to be taken in event of a vacancy in the office.

The condition of Landis, who will be 78 years old on Nov. 20, was reported last night as "not as satisfactory as it was a day or so ago." The commissioner entered the hospital on Oct. 2 for a physical checkup, and for the first time since he took over his baseball job he was unable to attend a world series.

CADETS, NAVY OHIO STATE ARE DOPED TO WIN

By ORLO ROBERTSON

New York, Nov. 17 (AP)—Pardon us please if, before plunging into this week's football selections, we point out that we had only three defeats last week as compared to 35 victories and two ties. Rice, Indiana and Muhlenberg failed to cooperate.

Army-Penn—Penn, with two good tackles in Savitsky and Stickel, may put up an argument for the first half but Army's power will wear the Quakers down for another one-sided score for the Cadets.

Purdue-Navy—The Middies definitely aren't fooling these days but they may find a tough nut to crack in the Boilermakers before winning by two or three touchdowns

Illinois-Ohio State — The line probably will be the difference in which case it'll be Ohio State to remain unbeaten.

Others:
Mississippi State over Alabama.
Notre Dame over Northwestern.
Michigan over Wisconsin.
Syracuse over Colgate.
Duke over South Carolina.
Yale over North Carolina.

ARMY FACES PENN

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 17 (AP)—Army will continue to use its two-team system against Penn Saturday as the Cadets go after their eighth straight victory. Actually Coach Earl Blaik has merged his two teams in practice and can do it again on a moment's notice. He did it in the Notre Dame game when, for a time, Doug Kenna, Glenn Davis, Dale Hall and Doc Blanchard performed as a unit.

State Milk, Egg Production Rises

Harrisburg, Nov. 17 (AP)—Milk and egg production both increased in Pennsylvania during October, the Federal-State Crop Reporting service of the Department of Agriculture said today.

Production for October was 172 million eggs, or 16 million more than in the same month last year. Due largely to rains that kept pastures green dairymen were able to produce 399 million pounds of milk, a jump of 9 per cent over the same month of 1943.

SCHOOLBOYS TO RISK PERFECT GRID RECORDS

Harrisburg, Nov. 17 (AP)—The fag end of Pennsylvania's 1944 scholastic football season finds a championship battle between two unbeaten elevens in the west, while in the east a number of squads risk perfect records in crucial contests.

For some schools, the games this week-end close the 1944 campaign books. Other squads, however, are pointing for traditional Thanksgiving day contests.

The sole survivors in class AA competition of the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic league, Ellwood City tangles with Donora in Pitt stadium tomorrow afternoon. The match between these two unbeaten elevens was specially arranged to settle the championship.

In the hard coal region, undefeated Hanover Township invades Dunmore, last year's northern division champion in the 38-team eastern conference. The 1944 crown may be at stake, although Blakely can stay in the thick of the fight with a win over Oylphant in another week-end tilt.

Final Game

The "big" games in the southern division of this loop are booked for Turkey day, but Kulpmont, winner of 10 straight, closes its campaign against Scranton Tech. Unbeaten Lansford holds the pinnacle in the circuit.

John Harris high, pace-setter in the big 15 circuit, faces Steelton this week-end in a traditional match; unbeaten Bethlehem is host to Shamokin, and Allentown, defending champion, meets Kingston in a non-conference scrap.

Other big 15 games send Reading to Easton, Hazleton to Pottsville, and Lebanon to William Penn, of Harrisburg.

With State College clinching the western conference race last week, only five games are scheduled in this circuit this week-end. Mt. Union goes to Bellwood-Antis, Claysburg plays at Cresson, Conemaugh Township journeys to Windber, Hollidaysburg travels to Lewistown, and Lock Haven visits Tyrone.

FISHING CODE FOR 1945 SET

Harrisburg, Nov. 17 (AP)—Fishing regulations for Pennsylvania during 1945 remain virtually the same as this year with the exception of a revision in the size of muskellunge which can be taken from state streams.

Fish Commissioner Charles A. French, in announcing the code for the coming year said that an increase from 22 to 24 inches in size for muskies was made "so this fine fish which furnishes so much sport in the lakes and streams of northwestern Pennsylvania will be further protected.

The commission fixed the following seasons:

Trout—Any species except lake or salmon, April 15 to July 31; not less than six inches; 10 daily.

Trout—Lake or salmon, July 1 to September 29; no size, eight daily.

Bass—July 1 to November 30; not less than nine inches; six daily.

Pike Perch—July 1 to November 30; not less than 12 inches; six daily.

Pickerel—July 1 to November 30; not less than 12 inches; six daily.

Too Many Orders Swamps Business

Philadelphia, Nov. 17 (AP)—Earl B. Keller, sales manager for the American Stores company, told U. S. District court yesterday that the multiplicity of governmental regulations and the manpower shortage make it "almost impossible" for a business man "to do everything the government wants it to."

The company presented nearly a dozen witnesses to answer OPA charges that meats were upgraded and sold above ceiling prices in its stores. The case was to resume today.

Keller and a half-dozen store managers told Judge J. Cullen Ganey that every effort was made to adhere to the OPA regulations.

Missing Youth Is Found Dead

Allentown, Pa., Nov. 17 (AP)—Searchers found the body of 9-year-old Wayne David, Jr., object of a 12-day hunt late yesterday beside a corn shock on the farm of Henry R. Jacobs, Ardmore automobile dealer, at Seisholtzville.

Superficial brush burns and bruises were on the body, but Assistant District Attorney Warren K. Hess of Berks county, said, "they were marks any boy might carry."

Hess said a preliminary examination indicated no foul play and that the boy probably died of exposure. An autopsy was set for today.

NAVY TO FACE TOUGH PURDUE

Baltimore, Nov. 16 (AP)—With a devastating Army eleven just over the horizon, the Navy sails into what Midshipman Coach Cmdr. Oscar Hagberg believes will be its hardest game to date Saturday at the Baltimore stadium against Purdue.

And Hagberg may be right, for the powerful Boilermakers have exhibited one of the season's better ground games. Led by fullback Boris (Babe) Dimancheff, Big Ten conference High Point scorer and ground gainer de luxe, Purdue has rolled up impressive yardage with its distinctive type of modified "T" formation.

Navy is counting upon its rock-like forward wall to halt the Purdue ground game, but the question is how the Annapolis eleven plans to get the ball into payoff territory.

Football fans are wondering whether the Navy's passing game—used little in its victories of the last three weeks over Pennsylvania, Notre Dame and Cornell—will be needed again Saturday or whether the Tar team will continue to rely on the running of Bob Jenkins, Clyde Scott and the numerous other overland gainers of its backfield.

Rose hips—the fleshy fruits which form on rose bushes after the flowers have gone, are one of the richest known sources of vitamin C.

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Nov. 17 (AP)—From a bomber squadron in France, Cpl. Doug Gary reports: "The world series was thicker than snow in the Rockies here. Everybody pulled for the Browns and when they won the camp went wild and they all stayed up to listen to the remaining games (they started at 7:30 our time). . . . Several Frenchmen asked me about the outcome of the world series." . . . Seems that world series is correct. . . . Vivian Morrow of Utica, N. Y., broke a finger on her right hand playing softball but that doesn't keep her from bowling in three different leagues. She mererly switched to left-handed bowling. Last word on the Army-Notre Dame game (from scout Jack Lavelle): "They couldn't hit me; I was in the upper stands."

PIGSKIN PICKINS

Mississippi State vs. Alabama:

SHORTS AND SHELLS

The Honolulu pro football club, which wants to get into one of the U. S. leagues, will include as many Hawaiian players as possible and Prexy Ralph Olson promises a troupe of hula gals and Hawaiian entertainers will accompany the team on its travels. . . Larry Grill, the Phoenix, Ariz., Gazette sports editor who has been ill for a couple of years, has resumed his column writing. . . . If you're looking for a good football back, try Mississippi: How about Doug Kenna (Jackson), Doc Blanchard (Pascagoula) of Army, Shorty McWilliams (Meridian) of Miss. State, Dinkey Bowen (Greenville) of Georgia Tech and Lowell Tew (Waynesboro) of Alabama?

ANOTHER GOOD PLAN

Military authorities in Bermuda have been trying to drum up an Army-Navy series (not just one game) during January, but when Coach Joe Maniaci of the Bainbride naval training center was invited to contribute himself and eight players to the Navy squad, the word went back that Joe couldn't be spared from his duties in the Provost Marshal's division for a month nor could the players get away for so long without replacements. . . . State Milk, Egg Production Rises

Harrisburg, Nov. 17 (AP)—Milk and egg production both increased in Pennsylvania during October, the Federal-State Crop Reporting service of the Department of Agriculture said today.

Production for October was 172 million eggs, or 16 million more than in the same month last year. Due largely to rains that kept pastures green dairymen were able to produce 399 million pounds of milk, a jump of 9 per cent over the same month of 1943.

If the wife of a Turkoman asks his permission to go out, and he says "go" without adding "come back again," they are divorced.

SCHOOLBOYS TO RISK PERFECT GRID RECORDS

Harrisburg, Nov. 17 (AP)—The fag end of Pennsylvania's 1944 scholastic football season finds a championship battle between two unbeaten elevens in the west, while in the east a number of squads risk perfect records in crucial contests.

For some schools, the games this week-end close the 1944 campaign books. Other squads, however, are pointing for traditional Thanksgiving day contests.

The sole survivors in class AA competition of the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic league, Ellwood City tangles with Donora in Pitt stadium tomorrow afternoon. The match between these two unbeaten elevens was specially arranged to settle the championship.

In the hard coal region, undefeated Hanover Township invades Dunmore, last year's northern division champion in the 38-team eastern conference. The 1944 crown may be at stake, although Blakely can stay in the thick of the fight with a win over Oylphant in another week-end tilt.

Final Game

The "big" games in the southern division of this loop are booked for Turkey day, but Kulpmont, winner of 10 straight, closes its campaign against Scranton Tech. Unbeaten Lansford holds the pinnacle in the circuit.

John Harris high, pace-setter in the big 15 circuit, faces Steelton this week-end in a traditional match; unbeaten Bethlehem is host to Shamokin, and Allentown, defending champion, meets Kingston in a non-conference scrap.

Other big 15 games send Reading to Easton, Hazleton to Pottsville, and Lebanon to William Penn, of Harrisburg.

With State College clinching the western conference race last week, only five games are scheduled in this circuit this week-end. Mt. Union goes to Bellwood - Antis, Claysburg plays at Cresson, Conemaugh Township journeys to Windber, Hollidaysburg travels to Lewistown, and Lock Haven visits Tyrone.

FISHING CODE FOR 1945 SET

Harrisburg, Nov. 17 (AP)—Fishing regulations for Pennsylvania during 1945 remain virtually the same as this year with the exception of a revision in the size of muskellunge which can be taken from state streams.

Fish Commissioner Charles A. French, in announcing the code for the coming year said that an increase from 22 to 24 inches in size for muskies was made "so this fine fish which furnishes so much sport in the lakes and streams of northwestern Pennsylvania will be further protected.

The commission fixed the following seasons:

Trout—Any species except lake or salmon, April 15 to July 31; not less than six inches; 10 daily.

Trout—Lake or salmon, July 1 to September 29; no size, eight daily.

Bass—July 1 to November 30; not less than nine inches; six daily.

Pike Perch—July 1 to November 30; not less than 12 inches; six daily.

Pickerel—July 1 to November 30; not less than 12 inches; six daily.

Too Many Orders Swamps Business

Philadelphia, Nov. 17 (AP)—Earl B. Keller, sales manager for the American Stores company, told U. S. District court yesterday that the multiplicity of governmental regulations and the manpower shortage make it "almost impossible" for a business man "to do everything the government wants it to."

The company presented nearly a dozen witnesses to answer OPA charges that meats were upgraded and sold above ceiling prices in its stores. The case was to resume today.

Keller and a half-dozen store managers told Judge J. Cullen Ganey that every effort was made to adhere to the OPA regulations.

Missing Youth Is Found Dead

Allentown, Pa., Nov. 17 (AP)—Searchers found the body of 9-year-old Wayne David, Jr., object of a 12-day hunt late yesterday beside a corn shock on the farm of Henry R. Jacobs, Ardmore automobile dealer, at Seisholtzville.

Superficial brush burns and bruises were on the body, but Assistant District Attorney Warren K. Hess of Berks county, said, "they were marks any boy might carry."

Hess said a preliminary examination indicated no foul play and that the boy probably died of exposure. An autopsy was set for today.

NAVY TO FACE TOUGH PURDUE

Baltimore, Nov. 16 (AP)—With a devastating Army eleven just over the horizon, the Navy sails into what Midshipman Coach Cmdr. Oscar Hagberg believes will be its hardest game to date Saturday at the Baltimore stadium against Purdue.

And Hagberg may be right, for the powerful Boilermakers have exhibited one of the season's better ground games. Led by fullback Boris (Babe) Dimancheff, Big Ten conference High Point scorer and ground gainer de luxe, Purdue has rolled up impressive yardage with its distinctive type of modified "T" formation.

Navy is counting upon its rock-like forward wall to halt the Purdue ground game, but the question is how the Annapolis eleven plans to get the ball into payoff territory.

Football fans are wondering whether the Navy's passing game—used little in its victories of the last three weeks over Pennsylvania, Notre Dame and Cornell—will be needed again Saturday or whether the Tar team will continue to rely on the running of Bob Jenkins, Clyde Scott and the numerous other overland gainers of its backfield.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Nov. 17 (AP)—From a bomber squadron in France, Cpl. Doug Gary reports: "The world series was thicker than snow in the Rockies here. Everybody pulled for the Browns and when they won the camp went wild and they all stayed up to listen to the remaining games (they started at 7:30 our time). . . . Several Frenchmen asked me about the outcome of the world series." . . . Seems that world series is correct. . . . Vivian Morrow of Utica, N. Y., broke a finger on her right hand playing softball but that doesn't keep her from bowling in three different leagues. She merely switched to left-handed bowling. Last word on the Army-Notre Dame game (from scout Jack Lavelle): "They couldn't hit me; I was in the upper stands."

PIGSKIN PICKINS

Army vs. Pennsylvania:
Upsets happen now and then
But they won't put Army in the Penn.
Southwestern vs. Randolph Field:
They'll keep their hands off
The backs from Randolph
Mississippi State vs. Alabama:
I won't put the whammy
On old Alabamy.
Illinois vs. Ohio State:
If Buddy Young outruns the Buckeye
He'll be not only fas but luckeye.

SHORTS AND SHELLS

The Honolulu pro football club, which wants to get into one of the U. S. leagues, will include as many Hawaiian players as possible and Prexy Ralph Olson promises a troupe of hula gals and Hawaiian entertainers will accompany the team on its travels. . . Larry Grill, the Phoenix, Ariz., Gazette sports editor who has been ill for a couple of years, has resumed his column writing. . . . If you're looking for a good football back, try Mississippi: How about Doug Kenna (Jackson), Doc Blanchard (Pascagoula) of Army, Shorty McWilliams (Meridian) of Miss. State, Dinkey Bowen (Greenville) of Georgia Tech and Lowell Tew (Waynesboro) of Alabama?

ANOTHER GOOD PLAN

Military authorities in Bermuda have been trying to drum up an Army-Navy series (not just one game) during January, but when Coach Joe Maniaci of the Bainbride naval training center was invited to contribute himself and eight players to the Navy squad, the word went back that Joe couldn't be spared from his duties in the Provost Marshal's division for a month nor could the players get away for so long without replacements. . . . It would be swell for Bermuda's service men but tough on Bainbridge.

DOTS ALL, BROTHERS

Since 1933, when Virginia's footballers sent word ahead that they were ready to "shoot the works" against Ohio State—and then lost, 75-0—that expression hasn't been popular with the Cavaliers until this year. . . . So far three rivals, Hampden-Sydney, West Virginia and Richmond, have announced that they were gunning for Virginia. Scores: 37-0, 24-7 and 39-0. . . . Coach Frank Murray now is hoping for some kindly expressions of no ill feeling from Yale.

Hint Judge Landis May Resign Office

Chicago, Nov. 17 (AP)—Rumors that Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis was ready to retire were rife today as a group of major league officials met to consider the big league agreement which, among other things, provides for procedure to be taken in event of a vacancy in the office.

The condition of Landis, who will be 78 years old on Nov. 20, was reported last night as "not as satisfactory as it was a day or so ago." The commissioner entered the hospital on Oct. 2 for a physical checkup, and for the first time since he took over his baseball job he was unable to attend a world series.

By ORLO ROBERTSON

New York, Nov. 17 (AP)—Pardon us please if, before plunging into this week's football selections, we point out that we had only three defeats last week as compared to 35 victories and two ties. Rice, Indiana and Muhlenberg failed to cooperate.

Army-Penn—Penn, with two good tackles in Savitsky and Stickel, may put up an argument for the first half but Army's power will wear the Quakers down for another one-sided score for the Cadets.

Purdue-Navy—The Middies definitely aren't fooling these days but they may find a tough nut to crack in the Boilermakers before winning by two or three touchdowns.

Illinois-Ohio State — The line probably will be the difference in which case it'll be Ohio State to remain unbeaten.

Others:
Mississippi State over Alabama.
Notre Dame over Northwestern.
Michigan over Wisconsin.
Syracuse over Colgate.
Duke over South Carolina.
Yale over North Carolina.

Fights Last Night

(By The Associated Press)

ARMY FACES PENN

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 17 (AP)—Army will continue to use its two-team system against Penn Saturday as the Cadets go after their eighth straight victory. Actually Coach Earl Blaik has merged his two teams in practice and can do it again on a moment's notice. He did it in the Notre Dame game when, for a time, Doug Kenna, Glenn Davis, Dale Hall and Doc Blanchard performed as a unit.

AIR MEDAL AWARDED TO LT. TROXELL

Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Troxell, 429 Baltimore street, have been notified by the War department that the Air Medal has been awarded to their son, Second Lieutenant Fred R. Troxell, for a flight he made against the enemy in Italy on February 2, four days before he was reported missing in aerial action north of Rome.

The citation accompanying the medal which has been sent to the Third Service Command and later will be presented to the parents of the missing flyer, follows:

"For meritorious achievement while participating in aerial flight as pilot of an A-36 (Invader light bomber) type aircraft. On February 2, 1944, Lt. Troxell flew in an attack upon Bittbro airdrome, Italy. Skillfully maneuvering through a heavy overcast and intense anti-aircraft fire upon the approach to the target area, Lt. Troxell damaged one aircraft and four trucks and his comrades damaged two aircraft, a locomotive, two radio towers and 12 trucks heavily laden with supplies.

"His proficiency in combat reflects great credit upon himself and the armed forces of the United States."

Dropped Out of Formation

The War department letter disclosed that young Troxell was sent on a strafing mission over Italy in a light bomber on February 6.

During this mission north of Rome, Troxell's bomber dropped behind the formation and the accompanying planes lost sight of him about 4:15 p. m., approximately two miles north of Capranica, Italy. The report of the other flyers stated that Troxell was in no apparent difficulty when last seen. Other circumstances surrounding the disappearance of the plane are unknown.

Enroute to Base

Troxell was alone in his plane at the time. The other flyers in the formation reported the flight was returning toward its home base and that they lost sight of Troxell's ship "just before we turned left onto the last leg of our mission and out to sea."

The parents have been assured that a continuing search for missing personnel is being made by land, sea and air and that as our armies advance into territory previously occupied by the enemy, special troops are assigned to the search for missing flyers.

DRIVER HURT IN TRUCK ACCIDENT AT NOON TODAY

The driver, Ray L. Oswalt, Mansfield, Ohio, said the steering gear failed to work when he attempted to make a turn and the truck ran into a ditch by the road, knocked over a tree and finally came to rest in a field. He was dazed by the accident and was taken to the Warner hospital by Harry DeGroft, Littlestown R. D., a passing motorist.

Oswalt said he had stopped outside of Gettysburg before the accident occurred to investigate the apparent failure of the steering apparatus, but had continued on his way after he thought he had corrected the trouble. The accident took place about two miles from the first stop, he stated. State police from the local substation were investigating this afternoon.

IN NORFOLK MONDAY

District Attorney J. Francis Yake, Jr., and Richard A. Brown, Esq., were in Norfolk, Va., Monday for a hearing in a divorce action brought by G. Weldon Plank, of Gettysburg, now in the Navy, against Sara Jane (McKeown) Plank. Yake is master in the case and Brown is attorney for Plank. The two attorneys returned to Gettysburg Tuesday.

VETERAN OF 5 YEARS IS HOME

Pfc. Floyd E. Lawrence, 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Lawrence, residing in Gettysburg, has returned home for a 21-day furlough for the first time in five years, much of which time was spent in the Pacific.

Pfc. Lawrence was at Pearl Harbor when the Jap attack came three years ago. Since that time he has served in many parts of the Pacific theatre of warfare and was in the Gilbert Islands and several other major campaigns.

He is one of four sons of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence in the Army. The others are Pvt. John H. Lawrence, 23, who saw service in Africa and now is stationed at Fort Myer, Virginia; Sgt. Donald A. Lawrence, 20, a gunner in the Air Corps, now in England; and Pvt. Raymond C. Lawrence, 31, who is stationed in Italy.

9 BOND PRIZES FOR WOMEN AND CO. CHILDREN

One war bond to the woman or child who sells the most number of bonds to the largest number of individuals.

One war bond to the woman selling the largest number of E bonds to the largest number of individuals.

One war bond to the woman selling the second largest number of E bonds to the largest number of individuals.

One war bond to the county high school student selling the largest number of bonds to the most number of individuals.

Other Awards

One war bond to be presented to the baby (under five years of age) whose name is drawn from the list of names of babies for whom war bonds have been purchased.

One war bond to the woman selling the largest number of baby bonds over and above fifteen bonds.

Sgt. Bringman To Wed English Girl

A copy of The London Gazette just received here discloses the announcement of the engagement of T. Sgt. Hugh Donald Bringman, 23 son of Jay W. Bringman, York street, and the late Mrs. Bringman, and Miss Daphne, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Williams, of Lydda, 15, Boldmere road, Eastcote, Pinner, Middlesex, England.

The wedding is expected to take place sometime in December.

Sergeant Bringman enlisted in the Army Air Force in 1939 and served first in the Canal Zone and then was sent to a camp in Colorado before going to England about two years ago. He is a bombardier and has taken part in a number of bombing missions over the continent.

He is a graduate of Biglerville high school and a grandson of John H. Deatrick of Biglerville.

ARTILLERY FIRE IS WORSE THAN BOMBS SAYS VET

A veteran of the invasions of Sicily, southern France and of action with the Seventh Army in Italy, Pvt. Donald L. Trostle arrived Thursday, his twenty-first birthday, to spend a 21-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Trostle, Gettysburg R. 3.

Trostle, who wears the good Conduct ribbon and ribbons for service in the European and American theaters, has two major engagement stars—for the Sicily and Southern France invasions.

At Sicily he was on a transport when the heaviest Axis air raid of the invasion was made on Allied forces but that wasn't as bad as the hail of German 88's his outfit met on the coast of Southern France, he said Saturday.

Trostle went into France in the third wave on D-Day, accompanying the engineer outfit to which Harry Oyler of Gettysburg is attached. Trostle saw Oyler both before and after the invasion.

The young man served with an MP outfit assigned to handling war prisoners. He said Saturday morning that the young German prisoners are "rabid Nazis" but that the older men in the prison compounds know the war is lost.

Brought Prisoners Over

Trostle entered service February 8, 1943, leaving a job as inspector in a General Motors plant at Meriden, Conn. He attended Gettysburg high school for three years as a member of the class of 1942. Without getting a furlough, he went overseas late in June of last year and served in North Africa before going to Sicily and Italy.

His current furlough is a result of a trip to the United States with a contingent of Nazi prisoners. He will report for duty at Camp Patrick Henry, Va.

Private Trostle's father is a veteran of World War I. Twenty-six years ago Saturday he was on a transport at Norfolk ready to leave for France. The Armistice cancelled sailing orders.

ADMITS SELLING GUNS TO MINORS

John Becker, of Gettysburg, pleaded guilty to a charge of selling firearms to minors under 18 years of age at a hearing Tuesday afternoon before Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore.

Becker was held under $500 bond for the November 25 sentence court. He was arrested Tuesday by Borough Officer Lloyd E. Wisler who filed the information. Officer Wisler had investigated the sale following reports that juveniles had purchased guns.

He said Becker had made sales of two .22 caliber rifles to two youngsters about 13 years of age. Such sales are illegal under provisions of the Pennsylvania code of statutes regarding the sale of firearms.

Pvt. Dale Deardorff On Furlough Here

He is recovering from wounds received in France on June 14. He is spending several days of the furlough with relatives in Washington, D. C. He is expected to return here Wednesday.

30 MILITARY BALLOTS MAY BE REJECTED

Approximately 30 of the military ballots returned to the county commissioners' office from the county men and women in the service will be declared void, it was indicated this morning.

It was reported at the office of the commissioners, who also constitute the county board of elections, that that number of ballots had been returned without proper jurat, or certification by the service man as to age, voting district, and the meeting of residence requirements.

An additional 50 or more ballots were returned with the jurat sworn before a non-commissioned officer, a practice which is not legal under the Pennsylvania voting law. A federal law under the soldier voting legislation provides, however, that a non-commissioned officer may act in the execution of the jurat.

Expect Over 500

The commissioners' office said that in all probability these ballots sworn to in accordance to the Federal law would be counted unless they were challenged by someone at the time of counting. The official count will begin November 22.

The military votes are still being received at the commissioners office. They can be returned anytime up to the day of counting if they were postmarked on or before November 7. Two more of the ballots were received today, bringing to 892 the total returned to date from 2,526 mailed before the election to service men.

Most of the military ballots coming in now are from foreign countries. The total returned before the official count is expected to pass the 900 mark, but probably will fall short of the 1,000 which were anticipated earlier in the fall.

MRS. STANTON QUITS AS ART SUPERVISOR

Mrs. Eleanor E. Stanton, Harrisburg, serving her second year as supervisor of art in the Gettysburg public schools, submitted her resignation to the Gettysburg board of school directors Monday evening to take effect January 1. The resignation was accepted.

Mrs. Stanton, who formerly taught art in a number of high school and rural districts in the county, has been commuting from Harrisburg this year. The board directed Superintendent L. C. Keefauver to attempt to locate a successor.

The resignation was received at one of the briefest directors' meetings held here in several years. Business was completed and the meeting adjourned in 45 minutes. President Ralph Z. Oyler presided with all members of the board present.

Elect Delegate

Two leaves of absence were granted local teachers for the purpose of restoration of health. Miss Ruth McIlhenny, of the high school faculty, and Mrs. Margaret Gibson, fourth grade teacher at High Street school, were granted sabbatical leaves to the end of the first semester, January 31.

Mrs. Sarah Black Gideon and Mrs. Earl J. Bowman, who have been serving as substitutes, were formally named as substitutes for the two teachers on leave—Mrs. Gideon in the high school and Mrs. Bowman at High Street.

Marlon P. Hartzell was elected as the board's delegate to the state school directors' convention at Harrisburg February 8 and 9.

Financial Reports

In response to a request from the local camp of the Sons of Veterans that the high school students march in the Memorial Day parade, the board suggested that some means be sought to encourage students to march with their teachers and other public school pupils on May 30.

The monthly report of the school district treasurer showed a balance of $82,686 in the general fund after a month's expenses of $9,768 were paid. Chief receipt item last month was $5,519 received in tuition for non-resident pupils. More than $600 also was received in taxes. The sinking fund balance was given as $486.

December 4 was set as the time for the next board meeting.

PROMOTED BY NAVY

Fred V. Knox, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Knox, Gettysburg R. 3, has been promoted from Ensign to lieutenant (jg). He is now stationed in North Africa. Lt. Knox entered the service in July, 1943.

AIR MEDAL AWARDED TO LT. TROXELL

Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Troxell, 429 Baltimore street, have been notified by the War department that the Air Medal has been awarded to their son, Second Lieutenant Fred R. Troxell, for a flight he made against the enemy in Italy on February 2, four days before he was reported missing in aerial action north of Rome.

The citation accompanying the medal which has been sent to the Third Service Command and later will be presented to the parents of the missing flyer, follows:

"For meritorious achievement while participating in aerial flight as pilot of an A-36 (Invader light bomber) type aircraft. On February 2, 1944, Lt. Troxell flew in an attack upon Bitibro airdrome, Italy. Skillfully maneuvering through a heavy overcast and intense anti-aircraft fire upon the approach to the target area, Lt. Troxell damaged one aircraft and four trucks and his comrades damaged two aircraft, a locomotive, two radio towers and 12 trucks heavily laden with supplies.

"His proficiency in combat reflects great credit upon himself and the armed forces of the United States."

Dropped Out of Formation

The War department letter disclosed that young Troxell was sent on a strafing mission over Italy in a light bomber on February 6.

During this mission north of Rome, Troxell's bomber dropped behind the formation and the accompanying planes lost sight of him about 4:15 p. m., approximately two miles north of Capranica, Italy. The report of the other flyers stated that Troxell was in no apparent difficulty when last seen. Other circumstances surrounding the disappearance of the plane are unknown.

Enroute to Base

Troxell was alone in his plane at the time. The other flyers in the formation reported the flight was returning toward its home base and that they lost sight of Troxell's ship "just before we turned left onto the last leg of our mission and out to sea."

The parents have been assured that a continuing search for missing personnel is being made by land, sea and air and that as our armies advance into territory previously occupied by the enemy, special troops are assigned to the search for missing flyers.

The driver, Ray L. Oswalt, Mansfield, Ohio, said the steering gear failed to work when he attempted to make a turn and the truck ran into a ditch by the road, knocked over a tree and finally came to rest in a field. He was dazed by the accident and was taken to the Warner hospital by Harry DeGroft, Littlestown R. D., a passing motorist.

Oswalt said he had stopped outside of Gettysburg before the accident occurred to investigate the apparent failure of the steering apparatus, but had continued on his way after he thought he had corrected the trouble. The accident took place about two miles from the first stop, he stated. State police from the local substation were investigating this afternoon.

Sgt. Bringman To Wed English Girl

A copy of The London Gazette just received here discloses the announcement of the engagement of T. Sgt. Hugh Donald Bringman, 23, son of Jay W. Bringman, York street, and the late Mrs. Bringman, and Miss Daphne, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Williams, of Lydda, 15, Boldmere road, Eastcote, Pinner, Middlesex, England.

The wedding is expected to take place sometime in December.

Sergeant Bringman enlisted in the Army Air force in 1939 and served first in the Canal Zone and then was sent to a camp in Colorado before going to England about two years ago. He is a bombardier and has taken part in a number of bombing missions over the continent.

He is a graduate of Biglerville high school and a grandson of John H. Deatrick of Biglerville.

ARTILLERY FIRE IS WORSE THAN BOMBS SAYS VET

A veteran of the invasions of Sicily, southern France and of action with the Seventh Army in Italy, Pvt. Donald L. Trostle arrived Thursday, his twenty-first birthday, to spend a 21-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Trostle, Gettysburg R. 3.

Trostle, who wears the good Conduct ribbon and ribbons for service in the European and American theaters, has two major engagement stars—for the Sicily and Southern France invasions.

At Sicily he was on a transport when the heaviest Axis air raid of the invasion was made on Allied forces but that wasn't as bad as the hail of German 88's his outfit met on the coast of Southern France, he said Saturday.

Trostle went into France in the third wave on D-Day, accompanying the engineer outfit to which Harry Oyler of Gettysburg is attached. Trostle saw Oyler both before and after the invasion.

The young man served with an MP outfit assigned to handling war prisoners. He said Saturday morning that the young German prisoners are "rabid Nazis" but that the older men in the prison compounds know the war is lost.

Brought Prisoners Over

Trostle entered service February 8, 1943, leaving a job as inspector in a General Motors plant at Meriden, Conn. He attended Gettysburg high school for three years as a member of the class of 1942. Without getting a furlough, he went overseas late in June of last year and served in North Africa before going to Sicily and Italy.

His current furlough is a result of a trip to the United States with a contingent of Nazi prisoners. He will report for duty at Camp Patrick Henry, Va.

Private Trostle's father is a veteran of World War I. Twenty-six years ago Saturday he was on a transport at Norfolk ready to leave for France. The Armistice cancelled sailing orders.

ADMITS SELLING GUNS TO MINORS

John Becker, of Gettysburg, pleaded guilty to a charge of selling firearms to minors under 16 years of age at a hearing Tuesday afternoon before Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore.

Becker was held under $500 bond for the November 25 sentence court. He was arrested Tuesday by Borough Officer Lloyd E. Wisler who filed the information. Officer Wisler had investigated the sale following reports that juveniles had purchased guns.

He said Becker had made sales of two .22 caliber rifles to two youngsters about 13 years of age. Such sales are illegal under provision of the Pennsylvania code of statutes regarding the sale of firearms.

Pvt. Dale Deardorff On Furlough Here

Pvt. Dale Deardorff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Erle R. Deardorff, Carlisle street, is home from Fletcher General hospital at Cambridge, Ohio, on a 14-day furlough. He is recovering from wounds received in France on June 14. He is spending several days of the furlough with relatives in Washington, D. C. He is expected to return here Wednesday.

This is Private Deardorff's first furlough home in a year. He returned from France early in October and was sent to the Ohio hospital.

30 MILITARY BALLOTS MAY BE REJECTED

Approximately 30 of the military ballots returned to the county commissioners' office from the county men and women in the service will be declared void, it was indicated this morning.

It was reported at the office of the commissioners, who also constitute the county board of elections, that that number of ballots had been returned without proper jurat, or certification by the service man as to age, voting district, and the meeting of residence requirements.

An additional 50 or more ballots were returned with the jurat sworn before a non-commissioned officer, a practice which is not legal under the Pennsylvania voting law. A federal law under the soldier voting legislation provides, however, that a non-commissioned officer may act in the execution of the jurat.

Expect Over 900

The commissioners' office said that in all probability these ballots sworn to in accordance to the Federal law would be counted unless they were challenged by someone at the time of counting. The official count will begin November 22.

The military votes are still being received at the commissioners office. They can be returned anytime up to the day of counting if they were postmarked on or before November 7. Two more of the ballots were received today, bringing to 892 the total returned to date from 2,526 mailed before the election to service men.

Most of the military ballots coming in now are from foreign countries. The total returned before the official count is expected to pass the 900 mark, but probably will fall short of the 1,000 which were anticipated earlier in the fall.

MRS. STANTON QUITS AS ART SUPERVISOR

Mrs. Eleanor E. Stanton, Harrisburg, serving her second year as supervisor of art in the Gettysburg public schools, submitted her resignation to the Gettysburg board of school directors Monday evening to take effect January 1. The resignation was accepted.

Mrs. Stanton, who formerly taught art in a number of high school and rural districts in the county, has been commuting from Harrisburg this year. The board directed Superintendent L. C. Keefauver to attempt to locate a successor.

The resignation was received at one of the briefest directors' meetings held here in several years. Business was completed and the meeting adjourned in 45 minutes. President Ralph Z. Oyler presided with all members of the board present.

Elect Delegate

Two leaves of absence were granted local teachers for the purpose of restoration of health. Miss Ruth McIlhenny, of the high school faculty, and Mrs. Margaret Gibson, fourth grade teacher at High Street school, were granted sabbatical leaves to the end of the first semester, January 31.

Mrs. Sarah Black Gideon and Mrs. Earl J. Bowman, who have been serving as substitutes, were formally named as substitutes for the two teachers on leave—Mrs. Gideon in the high school and Mrs. Bowman at High Street.

Mahlon P. Hartzell was elected as the board's delegate to the state school directors' convention at Harrisburg February 8 and 9.

Financial Reports

In response to a request from the local camp of the Sons of Veterans that the high school students march in the Memorial Day parade, the board suggested that some means be sought to encourage students to march with their teachers and other public school pupils on May 30.

The monthly report of the school district treasurer showed a balance of $62,086 in the general fund after a month's expenses of $9,768 were paid. Chief receipt item last month was $5,519 received in tuition for non-resident pupils. More than $600 also was received in taxes. The sinking fund balance was given as $486.

December 4 was set as the time for the next board meeting.

AIR MEDAL AWARDED TO LT. TROXELL

Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Troxell, 429 Baltimore street, have been notified by the War department that the Air Medal has been awarded to their son, Second Lieutenant Fred R. Troxell, for a flight he made against the enemy in Italy on February 2, four days before he was reported missing in aerial action north of Rome.

The citation accompanying the medal which has been sent to the Third Service Command and later will be presented to the parents of the missing flyer, follows:

"For meritorious achievement while participating in aerial flight as pilot of an A-36 (Invader light bomber) type aircraft. On February 2, 1944, Lt. Troxell flew in an attack upon Bitibro airdrome, Italy. Skillfully maneuvering through a heavy overcast and intense anti-aircraft fire upon the approach to the target area, Lt. Troxell damaged one aircraft and four trucks and his comrades damaged two aircraft, a locomotive, two radio towers and 12 trucks heavily laden with supplies.

"His proficiency in combat reflects great credit upon himself and the armed forces of the United States."

Dropped Out of Formation

The War department letter disclosed that young Troxell was sent on a strafing mission over Italy in a light bomber on February 6.

During this mission north of Rome, Troxell's bomber dropped behind the formation and the accompanying planes lost sight of him about 4:15 p. m., approximately two miles north of Capranica, Italy. The report of the other flyers stated that Troxell was in no apparent difficulty when last seen. Other circumstances surrounding the disappearance of the plane are unknown.

Enroute to Base

Troxell was alone in his plane at the time. The other flyers in the formation reported the flight was returning toward its home base and that they lost sight of Troxell's ship "just before we turned left onto the last leg of our mission and out to sea."

The parents have been assured that a continuing search for missing personnel is being made by land, sea and air and that as our armies advance into territory previously occupied by the enemy, special troops are assigned to the search for missing flyers.

The driver, Ray L. Oswalt, Mansfield, Ohio, said the steering gear failed to work when he attempted to make a turn and the truck ran into a ditch by the road, knocked over a tree and finally came to rest in a field. He was dazed by the accident and was taken to the Warner hospital by Harry DeGroft, Littlestown R. D., a passing motorist.

Oswalt said he had stopped outside of Gettysburg before the accident occurred to investigate the apparent failure of the steering apparatus, but had continued on his way after he thought he had corrected the trouble. The accident took place about two miles from the first stop, he stated. State police from the local substation were investigating this afternoon.

Soldier Is Home On 17-Day Furlough

Pfc. William A. Harness, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hunter Harness, a resident of Gettysburg, arrived home on Saturday from Fort Lewis, Wash., on a 17-day furlough. He is attached to the medical corps.

A brother, Sgt. James Harness, who served in several campaigns overseas, including the Anzio beachhead, and who was wounded, was discharged early last week.

Pvt. H. Russell Harness is on duty in India.

Sgt. Bringman To Wed English Girl

A copy of The London Gazette just received here discloses the announcement of the engagement of T. Sgt. Hugh Donald Bringman, 23, son of Jay W. Bringman, York street, and the late Mrs. Bringman, and Miss Daphne, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Williams, of Lydda, 15, Boldmere road, Eastcote, Pinner, Middlesex, England.

The wedding is expected to take place sometime in December.

Sergeant Bringman enlisted in the Army Air force in 1939 and served first in the Canal Zone and then was sent to a camp in Colorado before going to England about two years ago. He is a bombardier and has taken part in a number of bombing missions over the continent.

He is a graduate of Biglerville high school and a grandson of John H. Deatrick of Biglerville.

ARTILLERY FIRE IS WORSE THAN BOMBS SAYS VET

A veteran of the invasions of Sicily, southern France and of action with the Seventh Army in Italy, Pvt. Donald L. Trostle arrived Thursday, his twenty-first birthday, to spend a 21-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Trostle, Gettysburg R. 3.

Trostle, who wears the good Conduct ribbon and ribbons for service in the European and American theaters, has two major engagement stars—for the Sicily and Southern France invasions.

At Sicily he was on a transport when the heaviest Axis air raid of the invasion was made on Allied forces but that wasn't as bad as the hail of German 88's his outfit met on the coast of Southern France, he said Saturday.

Trostle went into France in the third wave on D-Day, accompanying the engineer outfit to which Harry Oyler of Gettysburg is attached. Trostle saw Oyler both before and after the invasion.

The young man served with an MP outfit assigned to handling war prisoners. He said Saturday morning that the young German prisoners are "rabid Nazis" but that the older men in the prison compounds know the war is lost.

Brought Prisoners Over

Trostle entered service February 8, 1943, leaving a job as inspector in a General Motors plant at Meriden, Conn. He attended Gettysburg high school for three years as a member of the class of 1942. Without getting a furlough, he went overseas late in June of last year and served in North Africa before going to Sicily and Italy.

His current furlough is a result of a trip to the United States with a contingent of Nazi prisoners. He will report for duty at Camp Patrick Henry, Va.

Private Trostle's father is a veteran of World War I. Twenty-six years ago Saturday he was on a transport at Norfolk ready to leave for France. The Armistice cancelled sailing orders.

ADMITS SELLING GUNS TO MINORS

John Becker, of Gettysburg, pleaded guilty to a charge of selling firearms to minors under 16 years of age at a hearing Tuesday afternoon before Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore.

Becker was held under $500 bond for the November 25 sentence court. He was arrested Tuesday by Borough Officer Lloyd E. Wisler who filed the information. Officer Wisler had investigated the sale following reports that juveniles had purchased guns.

He said Becker had made sales of two .22 caliber rifles to two youngsters about 13 years of age. Such sales are illegal under provision of the Pennsylvania code of statutes regarding the sale of firearms.

Pvt. Dale Deardorff On Furlough Here

Pvt. Dale Deardorff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Erle R. Deardorff, Carlisle street, is home from Fletcher General hospital at Cambridge, Ohio, on a 14-day furlough. He is recovering from wounds received in France on June 14. He is spending several days of the furlough with relatives in Washington, D. C. He is expected to return here Wednesday.

This is Private Deardorff's first furlough home in a year. He returned from France early in October and was sent to the Ohio hospital.

30 MILITARY BALLOTS MAY BE REJECTED

Approximately 30 of the military ballots returned to the county commissioners' office from the county men and women in the service will be declared void, it was indicated this morning.

It was reported at the office of the commissioners, who also constitute the county board of elections, that that number of ballots had been returned without proper jurat, or certification by the service man as to age, voting district, and the meeting of residence requirements.

An additional 50 or more ballots were returned with the jurat sworn before a non-commissioned officer, a practice which is not legal under the Pennsylvania voting law. A federal law under the soldier voting legislation provides, however, that a non-commissioned officer may act in the execution of the jurat.

Expect Over 900

The commissioners' office said that in all probability these ballots sworn to in accordance to the Federal law would be counted unless they were challenged by someone at the time of counting. The official count will begin November 22.

The military votes are still being received at the commissioners office. They can be returned anytime up to the day of counting if they were postmarked on or before November 7. Two more of the ballots were received today, bringing to 892 the total returned to date from 2,526 mailed before the election to service men.

Most of the military ballots coming in now are from foreign countries. The total returned before the official count is expected to pass the 900 mark, but probably will fall short of the 1,000 which were anticipated earlier in the fall.

MRS. STANTON QUITS AS ART SUPERVISOR

Mrs. Eleanor E. Stanton, Harrisburg, serving her second year as supervisor of art in the Gettysburg public schools, submitted her resignation to the Gettysburg board of school directors Monday evening to take effect January 1. The resignation was accepted.

Mrs. Stanton, who formerly taught art in a number of high school and rural districts in the county, has been commuting from Harrisburg this year. The board directed Superintendent L. C. Keefauver to attempt to locate a successor.

The resignation was received at one of the briefest directors' meetings held here in several years. Business was completed and the meeting adjourned in 45 minutes. President Ralph Z. Oyler presided with all members of the board present.

Elect Delegate

Two leaves of absence were granted local teachers for the purpose of restoration of health. Miss Ruth McIlhenny, of the high school faculty, and Mrs. Margaret Gibson, fourth grade teacher at High Street school, were granted sabbatical leaves to the end of the first semester, January 31.

Mrs. Sarah Black Gideon and Mrs. Earl J. Bowman, who have been serving as substitutes, were formally named as substitutes for the two teachers on leave—Mrs. Gideon in the high school and Mrs. Bowman at High Street.

Mahlon P. Hartzell was elected as the board's delegate to the state school directors' convention at Harrisburg February 8 and 9.

Financial Reports

In response to a request from the local camp of the Sons of Veterans that the high school students march in the Memorial Day parade, the board suggested that some means be sought to encourage students to march with their teachers and other public school pupils on May 30.

The monthly report of the school district treasurer showed a balance of $62,086 in the general fund after a month's expenses of $9,768 were paid. Chief receipt item last month was $5,519 received in tuition for non-resident pupils. More than $600 also was received in taxes. The sinking fund balance was given as $486.

December 4 was set as the time for the next board meeting.

PROMOTED BY NAVY

Fred V. Knox, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Knox, Gettysburg R. 3, has been promoted from Ensign to lieutenant (jg). He is now stationed in North Africa. Lt. Knox entered the service in July, 1943.

UNITED NATIONS PEACE PARLEY IS DISCUSSED HERE

Strongpoints and suspected weaknesses of the Dumbarton Oaks charter and the great number of complicating factors involved in a workable world peace plan were discussed last Friday evening by a panel of representative community leaders before an audience of more than 100 persons in Trinity Evangelical and Reformed church, and Reformed church.

Judge W. C. Sheely conducted the panel discussion which was arranged for and presented by a committee of the Gettysburg Council of Church Women in observance of World Community Day. Mrs. Verna Myers, as chairman of the committee in charge introduced the panel members.

The subject of the Dumbarton Oaks parley was opened by Dr. Albert Bachman, Gettysburg college faculty member and student of world affairs, who reviewed briefly the report on the decisions reached at the United Nations parley after observing that from the historians' point of view a better evaluation of the parley's actions might be made if there were knowledge of the forces brought to bear behind the closed doors of the conference.

Stronger Than League

He listed three previous major world treaties ending war crises, each of which failed to establish a lasting peace. He listed first the Treaty of Westphalia in 1648 which broke up the Holy Roman empire, the Congress of Vienna and the Treaty o Varsailles with its League of Nations.

The Dumbarton Oaks charter is similar in many ways with the League of Nations but with the latter's weak points strengthened by the security council to be made up of representatives of the four major United Nations powers and France, he said.

Doctor Bachman summarized the conference plan for the establishment of world peace to be preserved by peaceful means by an organization of "all peace-loving nations" operating through a general assembly and a security council.

More "Realistic" Than League

The plan, Doctor Bachman said, suggests the establishment of a "super state" with procedures more closely approximating the English or continental procedure than the American doctrine of separation of executive and legislative functions.

Provision for a military staff to be attached to the security council makes the Dumbarton Oaks more "realistic" than the League of Nations "which confined the [illegible] to [illegible]" Doctor Bachman observed.

He also made special mention of the provision made at Dumbarton Oaks for the settlement of international disputes by peaceful means and the right of self defense [illegible]

Secret Commitments?

Doctor Bachman also made mention of the secret pledges made by the United States, Great Britain and Russia at the Yalta conference [illegible]

At the conclusion of the Bachman address a question period was held [illegible]

Rev. Edward W. Thomas, Fir[illegible] Methodist pastor, opened the forum discussion by asking [illegible] relationship between economics and the world peace [illegible] peacetime problems, Russia, the cause of wars, the struggle for bread, in England. He pointed to the tremendous industrial and financial system of the United States as an opportunity and [illegible] He said there is a need for world economic conference on world trade problems.

Welfare, Education, Health

Mrs. Ellen T. Buehler, leader in local welfare organizations, declared that "when our hearts follow through with our minds in world problems, that's social service." She proposed that international heads of such groups as the YWCA, Soroptimists, Rotary, Lions and the church should have a voice in the social and economic council to coordinate welfare work on an international scope.

Miss Dorothy M. Warner, county supervisor of special education, said the establishment of an international office of education is being advocated in many quarters for research and advisory purposes. She suggested international art and music displays and festivals and the surveillance of world textbooks to discover teachings that would threaten world peace. She also said there must be provision made for new teachers in Axis countries to replace pre-war instructors whose doctrines cannot be permitted to threaten future peace.

Dr. Raymond F. Sheely, county medical society head, discussed the relation between international unity and health, observing that the integrity and strength of a nation is affected by its health. Great strides could be made internationally in health education and nutrition and in the prevention and control of disease by an international organization.

Dr. Dwight F. Putman, Christ Lutheran pastor, declared religion is concerned with the promotion of all worthwhile moves for world peace. He declared "cooperation" is the crucial need in world affairs and warned of the necessity for care in applying the label of "peace-loving" to nations to be admitted to the United Nations group. Common bonds must be sought among the faiths of the world and petty differences forgotten.

Capt. Laurence Thomas, PW camp commandant here, asserted the need for some force to maintain peace and said an international army might operate as a municipal fire department—"not to start fires but to be able to get on the scene quickly and with the equipment necessary to control them promptly." No point on the earth's surface is more than 36 hours away, he observed.

In answer to questions Captain Thomas said the international army would be made up of United Nations troops and would not involve our keeping large armies overseas indefinitely.

Labor's place in the world affairs, the question of what attention was paid at Dumbarton to the Atlantic Charter and the opportunity for church leadership by religious forces were discussed after questions from the [illegible]

"Absolute Justice"

Judge Sheely briefly summarized the discussion and observed that "absolute peace is desired by most of the [illegible] people but it is difficult to determine the proper basis for that peace and to define the "absolute justice" on which that peace could be based.

Opening devotions were conducted by the Rev. Howard S. Fox Trinity church pastor, and there were two anthems by the junior choir of St. James Lutheran church under the direction of Prof. Richard B. Shade. An offering for world relief work was received.

Bicycle Club Rides To Hanover

The Gettysburg Bicycle club took advantage of perfect weather Sunday by pedalling to Hanover for dinner. The return trip was made by way of New Oxford. The round trip covered 32 miles. The cyclists were joined at Hanover by their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Poppay and Mrs. George Bronus and her young daughter.

The riders included Harold Reuning, Ervin Menges, Robert Saylor, Edward Stine, Charles Woodward, Donald Myer, Raufford Lippy and J. Herbert Weinert.

Lt. B. M. Bailey Killed In Crash

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin B. Bailey, Millersburg, have received word that their son, Second Lt. Benjamin M. Bailey, crew member of a Flying Fortress, was killed in a plane crash at Tourcester, England, October 11. He is grandson of Charles I. Bushey, York Springs, and the late Luella Wilt Bushey. He is a nephew of the following York Springs residents: Mr. and Mrs. Norman D. Starry, Mr. and Mrs. Craig Hetherington and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Kennedy.

The 22-year-old flier was inducted into the Army Air Forces at Nashville, Tennessee, April 11, 1943, and trained at Montgomery, Alabama; Avon Park, Florida, and Columbus, Mississippi, where he received his wings and commission. After a 10-day furlough he returned to Avon Park, where he was assigned to the crew of a B-17. He went overseas September 2, arriving in England September 23. He was assigned to Gen. Doolittle's Eighth Air Force.

He was graduated from Millersburg high school in 1940 and entered Pennsylvania State college in the fall of that year.

He is survived by his parents and three brothers, Glenn, Lee and Stanley, all serving overseas with the armed forces and three sisters.

SOROPTIMISTS PLAN TO MARK ANNIVERSARY

Mrs. Genevieve Cluck Siegal, McKnightstown, was presented as a new member of the Soroptimist club of Gettysburg at the club's regular meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. E. Mae Beales, West Middle street. Eighteen members attended.

The club voted to provide school clothing for a nine-year-old boy in the county who was reported in need of assistance by Miss Dorothy M. Warner, the club's welfare chairman. The service women also adopted a 19-year-old girl through the county Child Welfare Service and will provide Christmas gifts for the girl.

Mrs. Ellen Buehler was made chairman of the Helen Cope Memorial scholarship committee and will confer with high school officials on the basis upon which the scholarship will be offered. Mrs. Harry Ridinger was made chairman of a committee to select hostesses to assist with the "Teen-Canteen" at the YWCA.

To Mark Birthday

It was announced that a second vice president of the club will be named at the next meeting of the board of directors to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Florence Basehoar Shriver as president. Vice presidents were advanced leaving the second vice presidency open. Mrs. Buehler, Mrs. John Bachensky and Mrs. Ridinger reported on a North Atlantic Soroptimist conference they attended at Atlantic City, October 22.

These committees were named to arrange for observance of the club's sixth birthday anniversary November 28: Dinner, Mrs. David Blocher, Mrs. Irving Bierer and Mrs. Harvey Raffensperger, and program, Miss Mary Ramer, Mrs. C. T. Ziegler and Mrs. Beales.

The next business meeting will be held Dec. 12 with Mrs. J. Milton Bender. Plans are being made for a Christmas party next month.

Two Pound Baby, Born Here, Is Thriving At Hospital

Prematurely born, Betty Louise Sterner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Sterner, Gettysburg, was one month old Monday at the Warner hospital where she holds the distinction of being one of the tiniest babies ever born at that institution.

Arriving two and a half months ahead of schedule, Bettys Louise tipped the scales at exactly two pounds and 13 ounces when she was born on October 13.

Now, after a month of special care and feeding mostly in a special incubator, she weighs four pounds and 5 and one-half ounces and is getting along nicely, her physician, Dr. C. Harold Johnson, said today.

Receiving most of her nourishment from a Brecht feeder, described as a "glorified medicine dropper," the infant has lived in a world of ultra-violet rays with a special oxygen supply and carefully regulated temperature and humidity.

Four days ago she reached a stage where the artificial heat could be reduced and incubator care was completed. She probably will remain at the hospital for several weeks or a month more, or until she weighs about six pounds and is strong enough to join her parents at their home here. She is their only child.

Since Betty's birth another tiny babe arrived at the hospital by means a caesarean operation and weighed three pounds and one ounce. That infant continues in incubator care. Earlier in the fall twins were born prematurely, and nursed to healthy infanthood in the incubators at the hospital.

No one at the hospital today could remember a baby smaller than the Sterner child—that had been born alive there and lived.

ACCSA PROBES SERVICES FOR U.S. VETERANS

Problems of rehabilitation and education of the returning veterans were discussed at length at a round table group meeting of the Adams County Council of School Administrators Wednesday night in the Student Christian Association building on the Gettysburg college campus.

Prof. Lloyd C. Keefauver, superintendent of Gettysburg public schools, acted as chairman and Dr. Frank Faust, superintendent of the Chambersburg public schools and a member of the committee on veterans' rehabilitation and education of the Pennsylvania State Council for Education, was the opening speaker. Doctor Faust presented the problem to be considered and then, with Professor Keefauver, led in the discussion that followed.

Special Panel

Members of the special panel for the meeting were Paul M. Rohrbaugh, commander of the Albert J. Lentz post of the American Legion; Paul A. Kinsey, a member of the local Veterans' Service committee, representing also the Chamber of Commerce; Eugene V. Bulleit, attorney for the local Selective Service board and member of the Rotary club; E. A. Crouse, manager of the local office of the United States Employment service and a member of the Veterans' Service committee; Miss Roberta Bittinger, representing Business and Professional Women's club; Prof. C. R. Wolfe, registrar and dean of admissions at the college, who also represented the Lions club; and Miss Dorothy M. Warner, supervisor of special education in the county, and Mrs. C. T. Zeigler, both from the Soroptomist club.

The meeting was opened by Prof. Leslie V. Stock, supervising principal of the Biglerville public schools and president of the organization, who presided. Prof. C. P. Keefer, supervising principal of the New Oxford public schools acted as secretary pro-tem in the absence of Dr. Robert A. Bream. There were approximately 30 persons present, including the representatives from the various organizations.

Four Aims of Vets

In his opening remarks, Doctor Faust spoke of the veterans' committee of the State council for education. Included in its membership, he said, are the heads of the "big three" manpower organizations in the state—the Veterans Administration, the War Manpower commission and the Selective Service. Other members are leading educators of Pennsylvania.

What they are trying to do, Doctor Faust stated, is try to determine how the schools and colleges can help with the education of veterans.

There are four things the "GI Joe", so-called whether in the Army, Navy, Marines, Coast Guard, or other armed services—wants to do, the Chambersburg educator set forth. Those four things are: he would like to get the war won and over with; like to get home; get a job; and get back into his old routine in the community and change again into a citizen.

Government To Help

"Government agencies will do the first two," Doctor Faust declared, "and possibly a part of the third, but it is up to us to do the fourth part—see that the veteran can get back into the position of being a citizen in his own community."

"Of course, the more job and employment-consciousness we can get in our communities, the better it will be," he continued. "But the government does provide at least in part for that third desire of the veteran. Number four will be our problem."

Doctor Faust then reviewed the situation. "The soldier now has been away from home anywhere from four or five months to five years. But he has lived many more years in experience than the time alone would indicate. He has had many unpleasant things to face—perhaps he has had to kill to keep from being killed.

Morally Upset

"He knows of the many unpleasant things that have been going on back home. Of the strikes in the coal mines and the plane and truck factories and other war plants. He is socially, mentally and perhaps morally upset, and may have absorbed some unreal philosophies. He has lost connections with things at home.

"He may be financially troubled and also may have domestic troubles which have grown from one of the many thousands of hasty war marriages. He probably is going to be disatisfied with the ways of doing things at home. He faces different responsibilities and to top it off, there will be many things he would like to forget, but can't forget.

"That, plus a great, great many more will be our problem," Doctor Faust declared.

"Probably the main thing the veteran will need will be individualized, personal interest when he returns," the educator said. "There are many committees but there should be the coordinated committee to act as a clearing house for the work.

"That could be done in Gettysburg by calling in representatives of all the various organizations and laying down policies and principles for that central organization and the workings of the other groups and then utilizing that plan."

Doctor Faust suggested that in a county like Adams, a trained, professional counselor could be employed to advise the returning veterans. He said that the state Council of Education is preparing a manual, however, which will provide a course of instruction in counseling for communities in which there are no professional counselors at present.

In the discussion that followed, a number of questions were asked and discussed concerning the educational provisions of the "GI Bill of Rights" passed last summer by Congress.

Following the discussion, Professor Stock resumed charge of the meeting. Attorney Bulleit suggested that a central coordinating committee be formed, but no action was taken. No action was taken either on the appointment of a study committee to make a report on the meeting. While usually such a group is appointed to prepare a report for the next session, Professor Stock said that because the subject is so no study committee would be that no study committee would be named.

FRANTZ HEADS MINISTERIUM

The Rev. Nevin Frantz, Reformed pastor at Arendtsville, was elected president of the Adams County Ministerium at a brief business session on Thursday at the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological seminary before the sessions of the annual Rural Life conference opened there at 10 o'clock.

The Rev. Kenneth D. James, Littlestown, was chosen as secretary and the Rev. George S. Stoneback, Fairfield, was elected treasurer of the county organization.

More than 140 Protestant pastors from southern central Pennsylvania counties and nearby sections of Maryland are attending the Rural Life conference at the seminary today. Discussion of current and future programs and problems of rural churches in this area is being conducted through a series of addresses and seminars.

Couple Issued License To Wed

A marriage license was issued today at the court house to George William Meckley, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Gise, Hanover, and Pearl Audrey Shaffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark C. Shaffer, Abbottstown.

A special court order was issued waiving the regular three-day waiting period. Young Meckley is on leave from the Army and has been in service four years. He was at Pearl Harbor December 7, 1941, when the Japs attacked, and also took part in the battle of Midway. He will report for further duty in the Pacific theater on the anniversary of Pearl Harbor day this year.

SEEKING LARGER QUARTERS FOR 'TEEN - CANTEEN'

A report on the activities of the Girl Reserve committee and of the "Teen-Canteen" opened two weeks ago at the YWCA occupied most of the time at the monthly meeting of the "Y" board Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Glenn L. Bream, chairman of the Girl Reserve committee, made the report which recommended the finding of larger quarters for the canteen project. She said that attendance at the Saturday night entertainment for the high school and junior high school boys and girls was well over 200 each of the two nights it has been in operation.

It was pointed out that the "Y" building is too small to care adequately for such a crowd and permit the use of ping pong and card tables and still provide room for dancing. Mrs. Bream called for support of other civic organizations in Gettysburg for enlargement of facilities as well as the provision of larger quarters.

To Make Survey

The group will make a survey of the town to determine whether or not any other buildings are available and a report will be made at the next board meetings.

Mrs. Abdel Ross Wentz, president of the board, presided at the meeting and praised the various committees for their work during the past month. Mrs. Wentz also led the discussion, with Mrs. Bream, on the "Teen-Canteen" project.

Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Charles Lauver. Mrs. Lila Craig, chairman of the personnel committee, reported that no one had been employed to fill the vacancy in the position as "Y" secretary and director of Girl Reserve activities. Mrs. John Lenhart, present secretary, has resigned to go with her husband, a senior seminary student who has accepted a charge in York county.

LOCAL OFFICER IS IN FRANCE

With U. S. Forces in France (By Mail)—Thousands of American soldiers in the fighting fronts are being supplied with warm winter clothing from a Quartermaster Depot in France where Lt. Col. Robert G. Geiselman is director of the supply division.

Woolen overcoats, trousers, shirts, jackets, underwear and socks, plus overshoes, are being shipped to troops by rail and motor truck, preparing them for winter operations.

The depot, where Nazis developed millions of square feet of storage space and built railroad sidings, was captured in the American sweep through France.

Colonel Geiselman, a member of the Reserve for 21 years, has been on active duty since 1941. Prior to going on active duty, he was field manager in Connecticut for the Curtis Publishing Co., with headquarters in Meriden, Conn. He also served for four years as a CCC camp director in Pennsylvania.

In the summer of 1918, he was a civilian telephone operator at Camp Colt, Gettysburg, Pa., serving under General Eisenhower, who was then a colonel.

FIREMEN GATHER 9 TONS OF PAPER

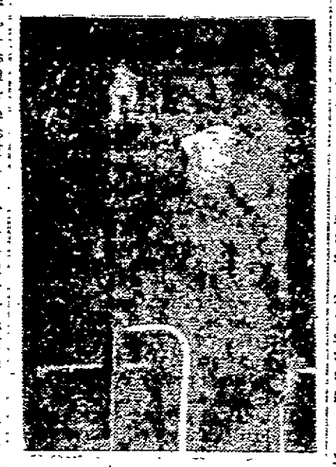

Nine tons of scrap paper, about one-half ton of tin cans and a small quantity of scrap metal was collected in Gettysburg last Thursday, Vernon Corle, chairman of the borough scrap committee, reported Friday.

Thursday's paper collection was one of the best in a long time, Mr. Corle reported, despite the fact that only eight members of the Gettysburg fire company assisted in the work which continued from 3 until 10 p. m.

Four trucks were used, two from the Gettysburg fire company, one from the Citizens Oil company and another owned by Morris Gitlin.

Retires

James A. Tate, 445 West Middle street, is shown leaving his caboose for the last time on the evening Reading passenger train here as he retired after 40 years of railroad service. For the last 38 years of that period he was a flagman. Soon after this picture was taken a dozen fellow workers gave "Jim" a farewell party at the Reading station and presented him with a number of gifts.

Miss McMillan emphasized the fact that the assistant field directors will serve not only until the end of the war, but also will have work for some time afterwards in rehabilitation and reconstruction programs in the foreign countries.

UNITED NATIONS PEACE PARLEY IS DISCUSSED HERE

Strongpoints and suspected weaknesses of the Dumbarton Oaks charter and the great number of complicating factors involved in a workable world peace plan were discussed last Friday evening by a panel of representative community leaders before an audience of more than 100 persons in Trinity Evangelical and Reformed church, and Reformed church.

Judge W. C. Sheely conducted the panel discussion which was arranged for and presented by a committee of the Gettysburg Council of Church Women in observance of World Community Day. Mrs. Verna Myers, as chairman of the committee in charge, introduced the panel members.

The subject of the Dumbarton Oaks parley was opened by Dr. Albert Bachman, Gettysburg college faculty member and student of world affairs, who reviewed briefly the report on the decisions reached at the United Nations parley after observing that from the historians' point of view a better evaluation of the parley's actions might be made if there were knowledge of the forces brought to bear behind the closed doors of the conference.

Stronger Than League

He listed three previous major world treaties ending war crises, each of which failed to establish a lasting peace. He listed first the Treaty of Westphalia in 1648 which broke up the Holy Roman empire, the Congress of Vienna and the Treaty o Varsailles with its League of Nations.

The Dumbarton Oaks charter is similar in many ways with the League of Nations but with the latter's weak points strengthened by the security council to be made up of representatives of the four major United Nations powers and France, he said.

Doctor Bachman summarized the conference plan for the establishment of world peace to be preserved by peaceful means by an organization of "all peace-loving nations" operating through a general assembly and a security council.

More "Realistic" Than League

The plan, Doctor Bachman said, suggests the establishment of a "super state" with procedures more closely approximating the English or continental procedure than the American doctrine of separation of executive and legislative functions.

Provision for a military staff to be attached to the security council makes the Dumbarton Oaks more "realistic" than the League of Nations "which perhaps was too much concerned with disarmament," Doctor Bachman observed.

He also made special mention of the provision made at Dumbarton Oaks for the establishment of an economic and social council of 18 with no nation allowed more than one representative on that council which would have the services of a staff of economic experts. A question from a panel member brought out the fact that there is no assurance that any of the large powers would have representation on tha council.

Secret Commitments?

Doctor Bachman also read the provisions made for amendment of the charter provisions and he confessed that in his mind the setup was "something of a riddle."

As he concluded Doctor Bachman drew a comparison between the Dumbarton Oaks parley and the Congress of Vienna. The latter was preceded by a secret four-power parley at which commitments were made secretly by the four powers of that day—Russia, Prussia, Austria and Britain. Dumbarton Oaks, he pointed out, was preceded by Teheran.

Edmund W. Thomas, First National bank president, opened the panel discussion by asserting there is a much closer relationship between economics and world peace than is generally realized. "Basically the cause of wars is the struggle for bread," he declared. He pointed to the tremendous industrial and financial strength of the United States and its opportunities and responsibilities in developing world trade and industry. He said there is a need for world economic conference on world trade problems.

Welfare, Education, Health

Mrs. Ellen T. Buehler, leader in local welfare organizations, declared that ""when our hearts follow through with our minds in world problems, that's social service." She proposed that international heads of such groups as the YWCA, Soroptimists, Rotary, Lions and the church should have a voice in the social and economic council to coordinate welfare work on an international scope.

Miss Dorothy M. Warner, county supervisor of special education said the establishment of an international office of education is being advocated in many quarters for research and advisory purposes. She suggested international art and music displays and festivals and the surveillance of world textbooks to discover teachings that would threaten world peace. She also said there must be provision made for new teachers in Axis countries to replace pre-war instructors whose doctrines cannot be permitted to threaten future peace.

Dr. Raymond F. Sheely, county medical society head, discussed the relation between international unity and health, observing that the integrity and strength of a nation is affected by its health. Great strides could be made internationally in health education and nutrition and in the prevention and control of disease by an international organization.

Dr. Dwight F. Putman, Christ Lutheran pastor, declared religion is concerned with the promotion of all worthwhile moves for world peace. He declared "cooperation" is the crucial need in world affairs and warned of the necessity for care in applying the label of "peace-loving" to nations to be admitted to the United Nations group. Common bonds must be sought among the faiths of the world and petty differences forgotten.

Capt. Laurence Thomas, PW camp commandant here, asserted the need for some force to maintain peace and said an international army might operate as a municipal fire department—"not to start fires but to be able to get on the scene quickly and with the equipment necessary to control them promptly." No point on the earth's surface is more than 36 hours away, he observed.

In answer to questions Captain Thomas said the international army would be made up of United Nations troops and would not involve our keeping large armies overseas indefinitely.

Labor's place in the world affairs, the question of what attention was paid at Dumbarton to the Atlantic Charter and the opportunity for world leadership by religious forces were discussed after questions from the audience.

"Absolute Justice"

Judge Sheely briefly summarized the discussion and observed that while peace is desired by most of the world's peoples it is difficult to determine the proper basis for that peace and to define the "absolute justice" on which that peace could be based.

Opening devotions were conducted by the Rev. Howard S. Fox, Trinity church pastor, and there were two anthems by the junior choir of St. James Lutheran church under the direction of Prof. Richard B. Shade. An offering for world relief work was received.

Bicycle Club Rides To Hanover

The Gettysburg Bicycle club took advantage of perfect weather Sunday by pedalling to Hanover for dinner. The return trip was made by way of New Oxford. The round trip covered 33 miles. The cyclists were joined at Hanover by their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Poppay and Mrs. George Brosius and her young daughter.

Lt. B. M. Bailey Killed In Crash

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin B. Bailey, Millersburg, have received word that their son, Second Lt. Benjamin M. Bailey, crew member of a Flying Fortress, was killed in a plane crash at Touncester, England, October 11. He is grandson of Charles I. Bushey, York Springs, and the late Luella Wilt Bushey. He is a nephew of the following York Springs residents: Mr. and Mrs. Norman D. Starry, Mr. and Mrs. Craig Hetherington and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Kennedy.

The 22-year-old flier was inducted into the Army Air Forces at Nashville, Tennessee, April 11, 1943, and trained at Montgomery, Alabama; Avon Park, Florida, and Columbus, Mississippi, where he received his wings and commission. After a 10-day furlough he returned to Avon Park, where he was assigned to the crew of a B-17. He went overseas September 2, arriving in England September 23. He was assigned to Gen. Doolittle's Eighth Air Force.

He was graduated from Millersburg high school in 1940 and entered Pennsylvania State college in the fall of that year.

He is survived by his parents and three brothers, Glenn, Lee and Stanley, all serving overseas with the armed forces and three sisters.

SOROPTIMISTS PLAN TO MARK ANNIVERSARY

Mrs. Genevieve Cluck Slegal, McKnightstown, was presented as a new member of the Soroptimist club of Gettysburg at the club's regular meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. E. Mae Beales, West Middle street. Eighteen members attended.

The club voted to provide school clothing for a nine-year-old boy in the county who was reported in need of assistance by Miss Dorothy M. Warner, the club's welfare chairman. The service women also adopted a 19-year-old girl through the county Child Welfare Service and will provide Christmas gifts for the girl.

Mrs. Ellen Buehler was made chairman of the Helen Cope Memorial scholarship committee and will confer with high school officials on the basis upon which the scholarship will be offered. Mrs. Harry Ridinger was made chairman of a committee to select hostesses to assist with the "Teen-Canteen" at the YWCA.

To Mark Birthday

It was announced that a second vice president of the club will be named at the next meeting of the board of directors to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Florence Basehoar Shriver as president. Vice presidents were advanced leaving the second vice presidency open. Mrs. Buehler, Mrs. John Bachensky and Mrs. Ridinger reported on a North Atlantic Soroptimist conference they attended at Atlantic City, October 22.

These committees were named to arrange for observance of the club's sixth birthday anniversary November 28: Dinner, Mrs. David Blocher, Mrs. Irving Bierer and Mrs. Harvey Raffensperger, and program, Miss Mary Ramer, Mrs. C. T. Ziegler and Mrs. Beales.

The next business meeting will be held Dec. 12 with Mrs. J. Milton Bender. Plans are being made for a Christmas party next month.

Two Pound Baby, Born Here, Is Thriving At Hospital

Prematurely born, Betty Louise Sterner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Sterner, Gettysburg, was one month old Monday at the Warner hospital where she holds the distinction of being one of the tiniest babies ever born at that institution.

Arriving two and a half months ahead of schedule, Bettys Louise tipped the scales at exactly two pounds and 13 ounces when she was born on October 13.

Now, after a month of special care and feeding mostly in a special incubator, she weighs four pounds and 5 and one-half ounces and is getting along nicely, her physician, Dr. C. Harold Johnson, said today.

Receiving most of her nourishment from a Brecht feeder, described as a "glorified medicine dropper," the infant has lived in a world of ultra-violet rays with a special oxygen supply and carefully regulated temperature and humidity.

Four days ago she reached a stage where the artificial heat could be reduced and incubator care was completed. She probably will remain at the hospital for several weeks or a month more, or until she weighs about six pounds and is strong enough to join her parents at their home here. She is their only child.

Since Betty's birth another tiny babe arrived at the hospital by means a caesarean operation and weighed three pounds and one ounce. That infant continues in incubator care. Earlier in the fall twins were born prematurely, and nursed to healthy infanthood in the incubators at the hospital.

No one at the hospital today could remember a baby smaller than the Sterner child—that had been born alive there and lived.

ACCSA PROBES SERVICES FOR U.S. VETERANS

Problems of rehabilitation and education of the returning veterans were discussed at length at a round table group meeting of the Adams County Council of School Administrators Wednesday night in the Student Christian Association building on the Gettysburg college campus.

Prof. Lloyd C. Keefauver, superintendent of Gettysburg public schools, acted as chairman and Dr. Frank Faust, superintendent of the Chambersburg public schools and a member of the committee on veterans' rehabilitation and education of the Pennsylvania State Council for Education, was the opening speaker. Doctor Faust presented the problem to be considered and then, with Professor Keefauver, led in the discussion that followed.

Special Panel

Members of the special panel for the meeting were Paul M. Rohrbaugh, commander of the Albert J. Lentz post of the American Legion; Paul A. Kinsey, a member of the local Veterans' Service committee, representing also the Chamber of Commerce; Eugene V. Bulleit, attorney for the local Selective Service board and member of the Rotary club; E. A. Crouse, manager of the local office of the United States Employment service and a member of the Veterans' Service committee; Miss Roberta Bittinger, representing Business and Professional Women's club; Prof. C. R. Wolfe, registrar and dean of admissions at the college, who also represented the Lions club; and Miss Dorothy M. Warner, supervisor of special education in the county, and Mrs. C. T. Zeigler, both from the Soroptomist club.

The meeting was opened by Prof. Leslie V. Stock, supervising principal of the Biglerville public schools and president of the organization, who presided. Prof. C. P. Keefer, supervising principal of the New Oxford public schools acted as secretary pro-tem in the absence of Dr. Robert A. Bream. There were approximately 30 persons present, including the representatives from the various organizations.

Four Aims of Vets

In his opening remarks, Doctor Faust spoke of the veterans' committee of the State council for education. Included in its membership, he said, are the heads of the "big three" manpower organizations in the state—the Veterans Administration, the War Manpower commission and the Selective Service. Other members are leading educators of Pennsylvania.

What they are trying to do, Doctor Faust stated, is try to determine how the schools and colleges can help with the education of veterans.

There are four things the "GI Joe", so-called whether in the Army, Navy, Marines, Coast Guard, or other armed services—wants to do, the Chambersburg educator set forth. Those four things are: he would like to get the war won and over with; like to get home; get a job; and get back into his old routine in the community and change again into a citizen.

Government To Help

"Government agencies will do the first two," Doctor Faust declared, "and possibly a part of the third, but it is up to us to do the fourth part—see that the veteran can get back into the position of being a citizen in his own community."

"Of course, the more job and employment-consciousness we can get in our communities, the better it will be," he continued. "But the government does provide at least in part for that third desire of the veteran. Number four will be our problem."

Doctor Faust then reviewed the situation. "The soldier now has been away from home anywhere from four or five months to five years. But he has lived many more years in experience than the time alone would indicate. He has had many unpleasant things to face—perhaps he has had to kill to keep from being killed.

Morally Upset

"He knows of the many unpleasant things that have been going on back home. Of the strikes in the coal mines and the plane and truck factories and other war plants. He is socially, mentally and perhaps morally upset, and may have absorbed some unreal philosophies. He has lost connections with things at home.

"He may be financially troubled and also may have domestic troubles which have grown from one of the many thousands of hasty war marriages. He probably is going to be disatisfied with the ways of doing things at home. He faces different responsibilities and to top it off, there will be many things he would like to forget, but can't forget.

"That, plus a great, great many more will be our problem," Doctor Faust declared.

"Probably the main thing the veteran will need will be individualized, personal interest when he returns," the educator said. "There are many committees but there should be the coordinated committee to act as a clearing house for the work.

"That could be done in Gettysburg by calling in representatives of all the various organizations and laying down policies and principles for that central organization and the workings of the other groups and then utilizing that plan."

Doctor Faust suggested that in a county like Adams, a trained, professional counselor could be employed to advise the returning veterans. He said that the state Council of Education is preparing a manual, however, which will provide a course of instruction in counseling for communities in which there are no professional counselors at present.

In the discussion that followed, a number of questions were asked and discussed concerning the educational provisions of the "GI Bill of Rights" passed last summer by Congress.

Following the discussion, Professor Stock resumed charge of the meeting. Attorney Bulleit suggested that a central coordinating committee be formed, but no action was taken. No action was taken either on the appointment of a study committee to make a report on the meeting. While usually such a group is appointed to prepare a report for the next session, Professor Stock said that because the subject is so no study committee would be that no study committee would be named.

FRANTZ HEADS MINISTERIUM

The Rev. Nevin Frantz, Reformed pastor at Arendtsville, was elected president of the Adams County Ministerium at a brief business session on Thursday at the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological seminary before the sessions of the annual Rural Life conference opened there at 10 o'clock.

The Rev. Kenneth D. James, Littlestown, was chosen as secretary and the Rev. George S. Stoneback, Fairfield, was elected treasurer of the county organization.

More than 140 Protestant pastors from southern central Pennsylvania counties and nearby sections of Maryland are attending the Rural Life conference at the seminary today. Discussion of current and future programs and problems of rural churches in this area is being conducted through a series of addresses and seminars.

SEEKING LARGER QUARTERS FOR 'TEEN - CANTEEN'

A report on the activities of the Girl Reserve committee and of the "Teen-Canteen" opened two weeks ago at the YWCA occupied most of the time at the monthly meeting of the "Y" board Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Glenn L. Bream, chairman of the Girl Reserve committee, made the report which recommended the finding of larger quarters for the canteen project. She said that attendance at the Saturday night entertainment for the high school and junior high school boys and girls was well over 200 each of the two nights it has been in operation.

It was pointed out that the "Y" building is too small to care adequately for such a crowd and permit the use of ping pong and card tables and still provide room for dancing. Mrs. Bream called for support of other civic organizations in Gettysburg for enlargement of facilities as well as the provision of larger quarters.

To Make Survey

The group will make a survey of the town to determine whether or not any other buildings are available and a report will be made at the next board meetings.

Mrs. Abdel Ross Wentz, president of the board, presided at the meeting and praised the various committees for their work during the past month. Mrs. Wentz also led the discussion, with Mrs. Bream, on the "Teen-Canteen" project.

Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Charles Lauver. Mrs. Lila Craig, chairman of the personnel committee, reported that no one had been employed to fill the vacancy in the position as "Y" secretary and director of Girl Reserve activities. Mrs. John Lenhart, present secretary, has resigned to go with her husband, a senior seminary student who has accepted a charge in York county.

LOCAL OFFICER IS IN FRANCE

With U. S. Forces in France (By Mail)—Thousands of American soldiers in the fighting fronts are being supplied with warm winter clothing from a Quartermaster Depot in France where Lt. Col. Robert G. Geiselman is director of the supply division.

Woolen overcoats, trousers, shirts, jackets, underwear and socks, plus overshoes, are being shipped to troops by rail and motor truck, preparing them for winter operations.

The depot, where Nazis developed millions of square feet of storage space and built railroad sidings, was captured in the American sweep through France.

Colonel Geiselman, a member of the Reserve for 21 years, has been on active duty since 1941. Prior to going on active duty, he was field manager in Connecticut for the Curtis Publishing Co., with headquarters in Meridan, Conn. He also served for four years as a CCC camp director in Pennsylvania.

In the summer of 1918, he was a civilian telephone operator at Camp Colt, Gettysburg, Pa., serving under General Eisenhower, who was then a colonel.

Colonel Geiselman is the husband of Mrs. Edna Geiselman, 1837 Powhaton avenue, Petersburg, Va., and the son of Mrs. C. W. Myers, 32 E. Middle street, Gettysburg.

Wears Ribbon Of "Unit Citation"

With the 15th AAF in Italy—Sgt. Harry L. Bream, 19, son of Mrs. Blanche Bream, of Cashtown, who has been serving overseas for 17 months now wears the Blue ribbon denoting the unit citation which was awarded his outfit by the President.

The unit to which he belongs recently received a presidential citation "for outstanding performance of duty in armed conflict with the enemy." Sergeant Bream is serving as a radio operator with a 15th Army Air Force B-17 Flying Fortress unit in Italy.

The citation awarded this group read in part "By the courage, heroism and determination of the air crews, together with the professional skill and devotion to duty of the ground personnel, the officers and men of this unit have reflected great credit upon themselves and the armed forces of the United States of America."

FIREMEN GATHER 9 TONS OF PAPER

Nine tons of scrap paper, about one-half ton of tin cans and a small quantity of scrap metal was collected in Gettysburg last Thursday, Vernon Corle, chairman of the borough scrap committee, reported Friday.

Thursday's paper collection was one of the best in a long time, Mr. Corle reported, despite the fact that only eight members of the Gettysburg fire company assisted in the work which continued from 3 until 10 p. m.

Retires

UNITED NATIONS PEACE PARLEY IS DISCUSSED HERE

Strongpoints and suspected weaknesses of the Dumbarton Oaks charter and the great number of complicating factors involved in a workable world peace plan were discussed last Friday evening by a panel of representative community leaders before an audience of more than 100 persons in Trinity Evangelical and Reformed church, and Reformed church.

Judge W. C. Sheely conducted the panel discussion which was arranged for and presented by a committee of the Gettysburg Council of Church Women in observance of World Community Day. Mrs. Verna Myers, as chairman of the committee in charge, introduced the panel members.

The subject of the Dumbarton Oaks parley was opened by Dr. Albert Bachman, Gettysburg college faculty member and student of world affairs, who reviewed briefly the report on the decisions reached at the United Nations parley after observing that from the historians' point of view a better evaluation of the parley's actions might be made if there were knowledge of the forces brought to bear behind the closed doors of the conference.

Stronger Than League

He listed three previous major world treaties ending war crises, each of which failed to establish a lasting peace. He listed first the Treaty of Westphalia in 1648 which broke up the Holy Roman empire, the Congress of Vienna and the Treaty o Varsailles with its League of Nations.

The Dumbarton Oaks charter is similar in many ways with the League of Nations but with the latter's weak points strengthened by the security council to be made up of representatives of the four major United Nations powers and France, he said.

Doctor Bachman summarized the conference plan for the establishment of world peace to be preserved by peaceful means by an organization of "all peace-loving nations" operating through a general assembly and a security council.

More "Realistic" Than League

The plan, Doctor Bachman said, suggests the establishment of a "super state" with procedures more closely approximating the English or continental procedure than the American doctrine of separation of executive and legislative functions.

Provision for a military staff to be attached to the security council makes the Dumbarton Oaks more "realistic" than the League of Nations "which perhaps was too much concerned with disarmament," Doctor Bachman observed.

He also made special mention of the provision made at Dumbarton Oaks for the establishment of an economic and social council of 18 with no nation allowed more than one representative on that council which would have the services of a staff of economic experts. A question from a panel member brought out the fact that there is no assurance that any of the large powers would have representation on tha council.

Secret Commitments?

Doctor Bachman also read the provisions made for amendment of the charter provisions and he confessed that in his mind the setup was "something of a riddle."

As he concluded Doctor Bachman drew a comparison between the Dumbarton Oaks parley and the Congress of Vienna. The latter was preceded by a secret four-power parley at which commitments were made secretly by the four powers of that day—Russia, Prussia, Austria and Britain. Dumbarton Oaks, he pointed out, was preceded by Teheran.

Edmund W. Thomas, First National bank president, opened the panel discussion by asserting there is a much closer relationship between economics and world peace than is generally realized. "Basically the cause of wars is the struggle for bread," he declared. He pointed to the tremendous industrial and financial strength of the United States and its opportunities and responsibilities in developing world trade and industry. He said there is a need for world economic conference on world trade problems.

Welfare, Education, Health

Mrs. Ellen T. Buehler, leader in local welfare organizations, declared that "when our hearts follow through with our minds in world problems, that's social service." She proposed that international heads of such groups as the YWCA, Soroptimists, Rotary, Lions and the church should have a voice in the social and economic council to coordinate welfare work on an international scope.

Miss Dorothy M. Warner, county supervisor of special education said the establishment of an international office of education is being advocated in many quarters for research and advisory purposes. She suggested international art and music displays and festivals and the surveillance of world textbooks to discover teachings that would threaten world peace. She also said there must be provision made for new teachers in Axis countries to replace pre-war instructors whose doctrines cannot be permitted to threaten future peace.

Dr. Raymond F. Sheely, county medical society head, discussed the relation between international unity and health, observing that the integrity and strength of a nation is affected by its health. Great strides could be made internationally in health education and nutrition and in the prevention and control of disease by an international organization.

Dr. Dwight F. Putman, Christ Lutheran pastor, declared religion is concerned with the promotion of all worthwhile moves for world peace. He declared "cooperation" is the crucial need in world affairs and warned of the necessity for care in applying the label of "peace-loving" to nations to be admitted to the United Nations group. Common bonds must be sought among the faiths of the world and petty differences forgotten.

Capt. Laurence Thomas, PW camp commandant here, asserted the need for some force to maintain peace and said an international army might operate as a municipal fire department—"not to start fires but to be able to get on the scene quickly and with the equipment necessary to control them promptly." No point on the earth's surface is more than 36 hours away, he observed.

In answer to questions Captain Thomas said the international army would be made up of United Nations troops and would not involve our keeping large armies overseas indefinitely.

Labor's place in the world affairs, the question of what attention was paid at Dumbarton to the Atlantic Charter and the opportunity for world leadership by religious forces were discussed after questions from the audience.

"Absolute Justice"

Judge Sheely briefly summarized the discussion and observed that while peace is desired by most of the world's peoples it is difficult to determine the proper basis for that peace and to define the "absolute justice" on which that peace could be based.

Opening devotions were conducted by the Rev. Howard S. Fox, Trinity church pastor, and there were two anthems by the junior choir of St. James Lutheran church under the direction of Prof. Richard B. Shade. An offering for world relief work was received.

Bicycle Club Rides To Hanover

The Gettysburg Bicycle club took advantage of perfect weather Sunday by pedalling to Hanover for dinner. The return trip was made by way of New Oxford. The round trip covered 33 miles. The cyclists were joined at Hanover by their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Poppay and Mrs. George Brosius and her young daughter.

Lt. B. M. Bailey Killed In Crash

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin B. Bailey, Millersburg, have received word that their son, Second Lt. Benjamin M. Bailey, crew member of a Flying Fortress, was killed in a plane crash at Touncester, England, October 11. He is grandson of Charles I. Bushey, York Springs, and the late Luella Wilt Bushey. He is a nephew of the following York Springs residents: Mr. and Mrs. Norman D. Starry, Mr. and Mrs. Craig Hetherington and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Kennedy.

The 22-year-old flier was inducted into the Army Air Forces at Nashville, Tennessee, April 11, 1943, and trained at Montgomery, Alabama; Avon Park, Florida, and Columbus, Mississippi, where he received his wings and commission. After a 10-day furlough he returned to Avon Park, where he was assigned to the crew of a B-17. He went overseas September 2, arriving in England September 23. He was assigned to Gen. Doolittle's Eighth Air Force.

He was graduated from Millersburg high school in 1940 and entered Pennsylvania State college in the fall of that year.

He is survived by his parents and three brothers, Glenn, Lee and Stanley, all serving overseas with the armed forces and three sisters.

SOROPTIMISTS PLAN TO MARK ANNIVERSARY

Mrs. Genevieve Cluck Slegal, McKnightstown, was presented as a new member of the Soroptimist club of Gettysburg at the club's regular meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. E. Mae Beales, West Middle street. Eighteen members attended.

The club voted to provide school clothing for a nine-year-old boy in the county who was reported in need of assistance by Miss Dorothy M. Warner, the club's welfare chairman. The service women also adopted a 19-year-old girl through the county Child Welfare Service and will provide Christmas gifts for the girl.

Mrs. Ellen Buehler was made chairman of the Helen Cope Memorial scholarship committee and will confer with high school officials on the basis upon which the scholarship will be offered. Mrs. Harry Ridinger was made chairman of a committee to select hostesses to assist with the "Teen-Canteen" at the YWCA.

To Mark Birthday

It was announced that a second vice president of the club will be named at the next meeting of the board of directors to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Florence Basehoar Shriver as president. Vice presidents were advanced leaving the second vice presidency open. Mrs. Buehler, Mrs. John Bachensky and Mrs. Ridinger reported on a North Atlantic Soroptimist conference they attended at Atlantic City, October 22.

These committees were named to arrange for observance of the club's sixth birthday anniversary November 28: Dinner, Mrs. David Blocher, Mrs. Irving Bierer and Mrs. Harvey Raffensperger, and program, Miss Mary Ramer, Mrs. C. T. Ziegler and Mrs. Beales.

The next business meeting will be held Dec. 12 with Mrs. J. Milton Bender. Plans are being made for a Christmas party next month.

Two Pound Baby, Born Here, Is Thriving At Hospital

Prematurely born, Betty Louise Sterner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Sterner, Gettysburg, was one month old Monday at the Warner hospital where she holds the distinction of being one of the tiniest babies ever born at that institution.

Arriving two and a half months ahead of schedule, Bettys Louise tipped the scales at exactly two pounds and 13 ounces when she was born on October 13.

Now, after a month of special care and feeding mostly in a special incubator, she weighs four pounds and 5 and one-half ounces and is getting along nicely, her physician, Dr. C. Harold Johnson, said today.

Receiving most of her nourishment from a Brecht feeder, described as a "glorified medicine dropper," the infant has lived in a world of ultra-violet rays with a special oxygen supply and carefully regulated temperature and humidity.

Four days ago she reached a stage where the artificial heat could be reduced and incubator care was completed. She probably will remain at the hospital for several weeks or a month more, or until she weighs about six pounds and is strong enough to join her parents at their home here. She is their only child.

Since Betty's birth another tiny babe arrived at the hospital by means a caesarean operation and weighed three pounds and one ounce. That infant continues in incubator care. Earlier in the fall twins were born prematurely, and nursed to healthy infanthood in the incubators at the hospital.

No one at the hospital today could remember a baby smaller than the Sterner child—that had been born alive there and lived.

ACCSA PROBES SERVICES FOR U.S. VETERANS

Problems of rehabilitation and education of the returning veterans were discussed at length at a round table group meeting of the Adams County Council of School Administrators Wednesday night in the Student Christian Association building on the Gettysburg college campus.

Prof. Lloyd C. Keefauver, superintendent of Gettysburg public schools, acted as chairman and Dr. Frank Faust, superintendent of the Chambersburg public schools and a member of the committee on veterans' rehabilitation and education of the Pennsylvania State Council for Education, was the opening speaker. Doctor Faust presented the problem to be considered and then, with Professor Keefauver, led in the discussion that followed.

Special Panel

Members of the special panel for the meeting were Paul M. Rohrbaugh, commander of the Albert J. Lentz post of the American Legion; Paul A. Kinsey, a member of the local Veterans' Service committee, representing also the Chamber of Commerce; Eugene V. Bulleit, attorney for the local Selective Service board and member of the Rotary club; E. A. Crouse, manager of the local office of the United States Employment service and a member of the Veterans' Service committee; Miss Roberta Bittinger, representing Business and Professional Women's club; Prof. C. R. Wolfe, registrar and dean of admissions at the college, who also represented the Lions club; and Miss Dorothy M. Warner, supervisor of special education in the county, and Mrs. C. T. Zeigler, both from the Soroptomist club.

The meeting was opened by Prof. Leslie V. Stock, supervising principal of the Biglerville public schools and president of the organization, who presided. Prof. C. P. Keefer, supervising principal of the New Oxford public schools acted as secretary pro-tem in the absence of Dr. Robert A. Bream. There were approximately 30 persons present, including the representatives from the various organizations.

Four Aims of Vets

In his opening remarks, Doctor Faust spoke of the veterans' committee of the State council for education. Included in its membership, he said, are the heads of the "big three" manpower organizations in the state—the Veterans Administration, the War Manpower commission and the Selective Service. Other members are leading educators of Pennsylvania.

What they are trying to do, Doctor Faust stated, is try to determine how the schools and colleges can help with the education of veterans.

There are four things the "GI Joe", so-called whether in the Army, Navy, Marines, Coast Guard, or other armed services—wants to do, the Chambersburg educator set forth. Those four things are: he would like to get the war won and over with; like to get home; get a job; and get back into his old routine in the community and change again into a citizen.

Government To Help

"Government agencies will do the first two," Doctor Faust declared, "and possibly a part of the third, but it is up to us to do the fourth part—see that the veteran can get back into the position of being a citizen in his own community."

"Of course, the more job and employment-consciousness we can get in our communities, the better it will be," he continued. "But the government does provide at least in part for that third desire of the veteran. Number four will be our problem."

Doctor Faust then reviewed the situation. "The soldier now has been away from home anywhere from four or five months to five years. But he has lived many more years in experience than the time alone would indicate. He has had many unpleasant things to face—perhaps he has had to kill to keep from being killed.

Morally Upset

"He knows of the many unpleasant things that have been going on back home. Of the strikes in the coal mines and the plane and truck factories and other war plants. He is socially, mentally and perhaps morally upset, and may have absorbed some unreal philosophies. He has lost connections with things at home.

"He may be financially troubled and also may have domestic troubles which have grown from one of the many thousands of hasty war marriages. He probably is going to be disatisfied with the ways of doing things at home. He faces different responsibilities and to top it off, there will be many things he would like to forget, but can't forget.

"That, plus a great, great many more will be our problem," Doctor Faust declared.

"Probably the main thing the veteran will need will be individualized, personal interest when he returns," the educator said. "There are many committees but there should be the coordinated committee to act as a clearing house for the work.

"That could be done in Gettysburg by calling in representatives of all the various organizations and laying down policies and principles for that central organization and the workings of the other groups and then utilizing that plan."

Doctor Faust suggested that in a county like Adams, a trained, professional counselor could be employed to advise the returning veterans. He said that the state Council of Education is preparing a manual, however, which will provide a course of instruction in counseling for communities in which there are no professional counselors at present.

In the discussion that followed, a number of questions were asked and discussed concerning the educational provisions of the "GI Bill of Rights" passed last summer by Congress.

Following the discussion, Professor Stock resumed charge of the meeting. Attorney Bulleit suggested that a central coordinating committee be formed, but no action was taken. No action was taken either on the appointment of a study committee to make a report on the meeting. While usually such a group is appointed to prepare a report for the next session, Professor Stock said that because the subject is so no study committee would be that no study committee would be named.

FRANTZ HEADS MINISTERIUM

The Rev. Nevin Frantz, Reformed pastor at Arendtsville, was elected president of the Adams County Ministerium at a brief business session on Thursday at the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological seminary before the sessions of the annual Rural Life conference opened there at 10 o'clock.

The Rev. Kenneth D. James, Littlestown, was chosen as secretary and the Rev. George S. Stoneback, Fairfield, was elected treasurer of the county organization.

More than 140 Protestant pastors from southern central Pennsylvania counties and nearby sections of Maryland are attending the Rural Life conference at the seminary today. Discussion of current and future programs and problems of rural churches in this area is being conducted through a series of addresses and seminars.

SEEKING LARGER QUARTERS FOR 'TEEN - CANTEEN'

A report on the activities of the Girl Reserve committee and of the "Teen-Canteen" opened two weeks ago at the YWCA occupied most of the time at the monthly meeting of the "Y" board Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Glenn L. Bream, chairman of the Girl Reserve committee, made the report which recommended the finding of larger quarters for the canteen project. She said that attendance at the Saturday night entertainment for the high school and junior high school boys and girls was well over 200 each of the two nights it has been in operation.

It was pointed out that the "Y" building is too small to care adequately for such a crowd and permit the use of ping pong and card tables and still provide room for dancing. Mrs. Bream called for support of other civic organizations in Gettysburg for enlargement of facilities as well as the provision of larger quarters.

To Make Survey

The group will make a survey of the town to determine whether or not any other buildings are available and a report will be made at the next board meetings.

Mrs. Abdel Ross Wentz, president of the board, presided at the meeting and praised the various committees for their work during the past month. Mrs. Wentz also led the discussion, with Mrs. Bream, on the "Teen-Canteen" project.

Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Charles Lauver. Mrs. Lila Craig, chairman of the personnel committee, reported that no one had been employed to fill the vacancy in the position as "Y" secretary and director of Girl Reserve activities. Mrs. John Lenhart, present secretary, has resigned to go with her husband, a senior seminary student who has accepted a charge in York county.

LOCAL OFFICER IS IN FRANCE

With U. S. Forces in France (By Mail)—Thousands of American soldiers in the fighting fronts are being supplied with warm winter clothing from a Quartermaster Depot in France where Lt. Col. Robert G. Geiselman is director of the supply division.

Woolen overcoats, trousers, shirts, jackets, underwear and socks, plus overshoes, are being shipped to troops by rail and motor truck, preparing them for winter operations.

The depot, where Nazis developed millions of square feet of storage space and built railroad sidings, was captured in the American sweep through France.

Colonel Geiselman, a member of the Reserve for 21 years, has been on active duty since 1941. Prior to going on active duty, he was field manager in Connecticut for the Curtis Publishing Co., with headquarters in Meridan, Conn. He also served for four years as a CCC camp director in Pennsylvania.

In the summer of 1918, he was a civilian telephone operator at Camp Colt, Gettysburg, Pa., serving under General Eisenhower, who was then a colonel.

Colonel Geiselman is the husband of Mrs. Edna Geiselman, 1837 Powhaton avenue, Petersburg, Va., and the son of Mrs. C. W. Myers, 32 E. Middle street, Gettysburg.

Wears Ribbon Of "Unit Citation"

With the 15th AAF in Italy—Sgt. Harry L. Bream, 19, son of Mrs. Blanche Bream, of Cashtown, who has been serving overseas for 17 months now wears the Blue ribbon denoting the unit citation which was awarded his outfit by the President.

The unit to which he belongs recently received a presidential citation "for outstanding performance of duty in armed conflict with the enemy." Sergeant Bream is serving as a radio operator with a 15th Army Air Force B-17 Flying Fortress unit in Italy.

The citation awarded this group read in part "By the courage, heroism and determination of the air crews, together with the professional skill and devotion to duty of the ground personnel, the officers and men of this unit have reflected great credit upon themselves and the armed forces of the United States of America."

FIREMEN GATHER 9 TONS OF PAPER

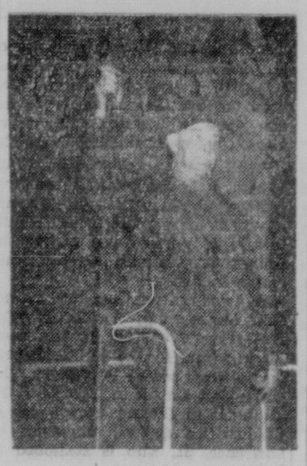

Nine tons of scrap paper, about one-half ton of tin cans and a small quantity of scrap metal was collected in Gettysburg last Thursday, Vernon Corle, chairman of the borough scrap committee, reported Friday.

Thursday's paper collection was one of the best in a long time, Mr. Corle reported, despite the fact that only eight members of the Gettysburg fire company assisted in the work which continued from 3 until 10 p. m.

Retires

R. C. SEEKING MEN FOR FIELD DIRECTOR POSTS

Miss Margaret McMillan, executive secretary of the local chapter of the American Red Cross, announced Wednesday the eastern area office of that organization is seeking a number of men for positions as assistant field directors in overseas service.

In order to qualify for the position, applicants must be men with college training and work experience in such fields as business administration, teaching, law, insurance, counselling, sales and social welfare. Only American citizens, from 30 years through the middle 40's, may be considered for the work.

The official statement or requirements, as issued by the eastern area office stated that, "an assistant field director must be a friendly, tactful person of mature judgment, with a genuine interest in people and a sincere desire to be of service."

"The arduous nature of the work demands excellent physical health," the statement continued, "and therefore all candidates must pass the stringent physical examination authorized by the American Red Cross."

Employment will depend on satisfactory clearance to the Red Cross by the United States Employment Service. All appointments will be contingent upon permission of the local Selective Service board to leave the United States.

START COUNT OF G.I. VOTES ON WEDNESDAY

Three special clerks to assist with the official tabulation of military ballots, beginning next Wednesday morning, were appointed at the regular weekly meeting Wednesday of the county commissioners.

The clerks will be Blaine Bushey, Arendtsville; Luke H. Jacobs, Littlestown, and L. U. Collins, of Mount Joy township. The count will begin at 10 o'clock in the morning. Clarence E. Smith, chief clerk to the county commissioners, said the tabulation probably will continue for three days.

The commissioners voted to continue their work through Thursday, Thanksgiving day, although it is a legal holiday. Smith said the count will take a long time because of the large amount of individual tabulations that will have to be made.

Each of the ballots will have to be credited to the proper election district in which name it was mailed. Eight hundred and ninety-seven military ballots have been returned from the more than 2,500 sent out in September

The procedure in the counting will be to call out the names of the soldier-voters from the envelope as returned to the commissioners' office. A challenge can then be made to test the legality of that person's right to vote. The envelope will be opened and saved, while the inner envelope containing the ballot will be placed in the ballot box.

After all of the ballot envelopes have been opened the ballot box will be shaken and the tabulations will begin. Individual tally sheets will be kept for each of the 42 voting districts.

One of the ballots received this morning came from India. It was voted and postmarked November 7, and traveled half-way around the world in 11 days

NURSES' AIDES TELL OF WORK AT CAMP LEE

Miss Foth and Mrs. Goodwin volunteered their services for the month and were on duty for 227 hours each. They served as Red Cross volunteers and were not paid. Camp Lee is located four miles from Petersburg, Va., and accommodates about 40,000 soldiers.

"The camp has a 1,500 bed hospital and the cases cared for there are such cases as might develop with any soldier while on duty at camp. These are not casualty cases from overseas as previously rumored.

"There have been only 80 nurses on duty at this hospital, hence there is a great need for nurses' aides at all times. Each ward can take care of about 40 patients, and to each ward there is assigned one nurse and a corps boy, and whenever possible to do so, nurses' aide. To date there have not been more than 20 nurses' aides residing on the post per month.

"There is a constant call for aides, as every couple of weeks about 20 nurses are shipped out for overseas duty, and the last few months the replacements have been considerably less, reducing the staff considerably. The schedule arranges for eight hours of duty a day, with a half day off during the week and a half day off Sunday, but many days the aides did not leave their wards on the scheduled hours.

"The duties of the nurses' aides at the hospital start at 7 a. m. by giving bed baths, making beds, taking temperatures, pulse and respirations, charting same, applying hot compresses when needed, observing patients after operations, preparing and serving trays, feeding patients, massaging, assisting in operating rooms and physio-therapy, collecting reports from surgical, X-ray, offices and clinics, admitting and discharging patients, assisting in preparing wards for formal inspection, doing errands for patients, writing their letters, going for mail, and many other little things the patients requested.

"Camp Lee would now like to have paid nurses' aides in the operating rooms and physio-therapy. The government is making this position possible by Civil Service examination. The salary of a paid aide is $162.50 per month, from which she pays for room, board and laundry, and other minor expenses, leaving about $75 per month net. All paid nurses' aides must sign up for a year of duty at some military hospital.

"At Camp Lee the nurses' aides live in a barracks, each girl having a separate room comfortably furnished, and all meals are taken at the same mess hall with the doctors and nurses. They are granted all privileges of an officer while on the post. 'Every one made our stay at Camp Lee a very pleasant one. It was a very gratifying experience regardless of hard work,' they observed.

"We hope others may be inspired to take up the nurses' aide training when the next course starts and render a service which is very much needed.

"Any one interested please call Mrs. Henry Scharf at Hotel Gettysburg or Mrs. Sydney Poppay."

Must Keep Mileage Rationing Records

Car owners are asked to retain their mileage rationing records in an announcement today by the local War Price and Rationing board office in which it was pointed out that the rationing records have to be sent to the board with each application for gasoline.

"A great many instances have come to light in which this slip of paper has been destroyed, the applicant not knowing it was of any value. The mileage rationing record, the narrow slip of white paper that was returned to each applicant with his new "A" book, has taken the place of the tire inspection record for the purpose of board notations of gasoline issuance," the OPA explained.

A good sized menagerie could be assembled if all of the wild animals reported running loose in this section of the country were captured—but local authorities said today that all of the rumors so far are "still a lot of hokum."

Stories from the lower end of the county this morning were that some kind of a large beast was running loose through the Mount Joy township section. The rumors began a week or more ago when a black panther supposedly had escaped from a circus train at Westminster and started a series of attacks on both cattle and humans in Carroll county.

Panther, Wildcat Or Dog

The panther finally was worked into a wildcat and the stories of its exploits moved into the Union Mills section. Up until Tuesday the animal was supposed to be inhabiting the area around that Maryland town, but this morning the story was told that it had moved north for the winter and had invaded Mount Joy township.

Maryland State Game Warden E. Lee LeCompte said Tuesday that the attacker and destroyer of cattle in Carroll county is probably a pack of wild dogs. While discounting the panther tale, Maryland State police said there was foundation for reports of destruction by a wild animal.

With the panther theory discredited, the possibility of a wildcat arose, but LeCompte scoffed at such an idea. He said he never heard of a wildcat attacking cattle. A wildcat will jump on the back of a deer and kill it, he said, but not a cow, and certainly not a bull.

Pennsylvania State Game Warden Lea Bushman reported Thursday that he had received no calls concerning a fierce cattle-attacking animal in the county—with the exception of a gorilla and a mountain lion on the loose near Fountaindale. However, he reported, he hadn't yet gotten around to hunting for either.

State police here also said they had not been asked to investigate the crimes of wild animals. If they wait for a few days perhaps the rumors will have the beast in Gettysburg and they won't have to waste any gasoline traveling south to find them, the officers observed.

Spangler, George Cushon, Joseph Smith and George Naugle. The audience of high school students and visitors saluted the flag as it was brought into the auditorium.

Brame read the Legion prayer for Armistice Day and Boy Scouts Dale Ferrar, Sidney Poppay, Jr. and William Snyder led the assembly in the pledge to the flag. Commander Paul M. Rohrbaugh of the Lentz post, was introduced. Judge W. C. Sheely presented Colonel Daniels.

"This is the greatest country in the world," he said. "We have just come through an era of speech-making. No where else could we go through a political campaign such as we just ended. Many changes were brought and discussed and we now are no worse off.

"Today we can get together and laugh, and it is a glorious thing to be able to do it."

As he spoke of the war, Colonel Daniels declared, "Certainly conditions now are not most desirable. All of us have relatives or friends in the service. The casualty lists now are over half a million and still going higher."

Use Education

It is such signs, Colonel Daniels said, that provide the peoples of the United States with the opportunity to look ahead and plan for the future. "It is only a fool who fails to take a warning," he stated, "and we can cure our political ills only with an intelligent adult population."

"Because of this you must use education as a basis for your duties as students and for preparing yourselves for adults. You will have to know your tax problems; know the suggested regulatory legislation in your state; know how well your nation is prepared to keep and enforce the peace, and above all, form an opinion one way or another on the matters.

"Don't wait until something in the world or your nation has happened—do it now."

Causes of War

The colonel then discussed the background of the present war. "It started back in 1914 and ran into 1920, but we failed to take advantage of the signs offered us. Then in the 26 years since the Armistice we thought we had become sophisticated We paid little attention to church activities. And as religion descends, so morals descend. Also as patriotism descends, so good citizenship descends.

"These things happened and there was something radically wrong with the world. Nations wanted others, and the second world war was precipitated."

"Freedom is still available, however," he declared. "Freedom is being free to do that which we ought to do. False freedom is being free to do that which we have no right to do."

In his conclusion, Colonel Daniels stated, "We cannot have freedom and justice without education To preserve these things the students must take warning and go out and take measures to prevent future attacks and preserve the peace"

Girls' Chorus Sings

During the program the girls' chorus at the high school sang two selections, "O Starry Flag," and "The Fisher's Widow," under the direction of Prof. Richard B Shade, director of music in the Gettysburg schools

The ceremonies closed with Professor Shade leading the assembly in singing the Star Spangled Banner. Following the Armistice Day program, the students held a "pep rally" in preparation for the football game Friday evening at Mechanicsburg.

START COUNT OF G.I. VOTES ON WEDNESDAY

Three special clerks to assist with the official tabulation of military ballots, beginning next Wednesday morning, were appointed at the regular weekly meeting Wednesday of the county commissioners.

The clerks will be Blaine Bushey, Arendtsville; Luke H. Jacobs, Littlestown, and L. U. Collins, of Mount Joy township. The count will begin at 10 o'clock in the morning. Clarence E. Smith, chief clerk to the county commissioners, said the tabulation probably will continue for three days.

The commissioners voted to continue their work through Thursday, Thanksgiving day, although it is a legal holiday. Smith said the count will take a long time because of the large amount of individual tabulations that will have to be made.

Each of the ballots will have to be credited to the proper election district in which name it was mailed. Eight hundred and ninety-seven military ballots have been returned from the more than 2,500 sent out in September.

The procedure in the counting will be to call out the names of the soldier-voters from the envelope as returned to the commissioners' office. A challenge can then be made to test the legality of that person's right to vote. The envelope will be opened and saved, while the inner envelope containing the ballot will be placed in the ballot box.

After all of the ballot envelopes have been opened the ballot box will be shaken and the tabulations will begin. Individual tally sheets will be kept for each of the 42 voting districts.

One of the ballots received this morning came from India. It was voted and postmarked November 7, and traveled half-way around the world in 11 days.

NURSES' AIDES TELL OF WORK AT CAMP LEE

Miss Foth and Mrs. Goodwin volunteered their services for the month and were on duty for 227 hours each. They served as Red Cross volunteers and were not paid. Camp Lee is located four miles from Petersburg, Va., and accommodates about 40,000 soldiers.

"The camp has a 1,500 bed hospital and the cases cared for there are such cases as might develop with any soldier while on duty at camp. These are not casualty cases from overseas as previously rumored.

"There have been only 80 nurses on duty at this hospital, hence there is a great need for nurses' aides at all times. Each ward can take care of about 40 patients, and to each ward there is assigned one nurse and a corps boy, and whenever possible to do so, nurses' aide. To date there have not been more than 20 nurses' aides residing on the post per month.

"There is a constant call for aides, as every couple of weeks about 20 nurses are shipped out for overseas duty, and the last few months the replacements have been considerably less, reducing the staff considerably. The schedule arranges for eight hours of duty a day, with a half day off during the week and a half day off Sunday, but many days the aides did not leave their wards on the scheduled hours.

"The duties of the nurses' aides at the hospital start at 7 a. m. by giving bed baths, making beds, taking temperatures, pulse and respirations, charting same, applying hot compresses when needed, observing patients after operations, preparing and serving trays, feeding patients, massaging, assisting in operating rooms and physio-therapy, collecting reports from surgical, X-ray, offices and clinics, admitting and discharging patients, assisting in preparing wards for formal inspection, doing errands for patients, writing their letters, going for mail, and many other little things the patients requested.

"Camp Lee would now like to have paid nurses' aides in the operating rooms and physio-therapy. The government is making this position possible by Civil Service examination. The salary of a paid aide is $162.50 per month, from which she pays for room, board and laundry, and other minor expenses, leaving about $75 per month net. All paid nurses' aides must sign up for a year of duty at some military hospital.

"At Camp Lee the nurses' aides live in a barracks, each girl having a separate room comfortably furnished, and all meals are taken at the same mess hall with the doctors and nurses. They are granted all privileges of an officer while on the post. 'Every one made our stay at Camp Lee a very pleasant one. It was a very gratifying experience regardless of hard work,' they observed.

"We hope others may be inspired to take up the nurses' aide training when the next course starts and render a service which is very much needed.

"Any one interested please call Mrs. Henry Scharf at Hotel Gettysburg or Mrs. Sydney Poppay."

Must Keep Mileage Rationing Records

Car owners are asked to retain their mileage rationing records in an announcement today by the local War Price and Rationing board office in which it was pointed out that the rationing records have to be sent to the board with each application for gasoline.

"A great many instances have come to light in which this slip of paper has been destroyed, the applicant not knowing it was of any value. The mileage rationing record, the narrow slip of white paper that was returned to each applicant with his new "A" book, has taken the place of the tire inspection record for the purpose of board notations of gasoline issuance," the OPA explained.

A good sized menagerie could be assembled if all of the wild animals reported running loose in this section of the country were captured—but local authorities said today that all of the rumors so far are "still a lot of hokum."

Stories from the lower end of the county this morning were that some kind of a large beast was running loose through the Mount Joy township section. The rumors began a week or more ago when a black panther supposedly had escaped from a circus train at Westminster and started a series of attacks on both cattle and humans in Carroll county.

Panther, Wildcat Or Dog

The panther finally was worked into a wildcat and the stories of its exploits moved into the Union Mills section. Up until Tuesday the animal was supposed to be inhabiting the area around that Maryland town, but this morning the story was told that it had moved north for the winter and had invaded Mount Joy township.

Maryland State Game Warden E. Lee LeCompte said Tuesday that the attacker and destroyer of cattle in Carroll county is probably a pack of wild dogs. While discounting the panther tale, Maryland State police said there was foundation for reports of destruction by a wild animal.

With the panther theory discredited, the possibility of a wildcat arose, but LeCompte scoffed at such an idea. He said he never heard of a wildcat attacking cattle. A wildcat will jump on the back of a deer and kill it, he said, but not a cow, and certainly not a bull.

Pennsylvania State Game Warden Lea Bushman reported Thursday that he had received no calls concerning a fierce cattle-attacking animal in the county—with the exception of a gorilla and a mountain lion on the loose near Fountaindale. However, he reported, he hadn't yet gotten around to hunting for either.

State police here also said they had not been asked to investigate the crimes of wild animals. If they wait for a few days perhaps the rumors will have the beast in Gettysburg and they won't have to waste any gasoline traveling south to find them, the officers observed.

4,102 Pupils Join Junior Red Cross

The additional contributions to the Junior Red Cross fund, as announced by Mrs. Beitler, amounted to $26.32 and brought the grand total given so far this year to $293.31. A total of 121 schools have joined.

There are approximately 8,000 school children in all of the county schools, Mrs. Beitler said. The Junior Red Cross membership campaign probably will be concluded in all of the schools by Christmas, she stated, although a few schools may not be completed until spring.

STUDENTS ARE URGED TO PLAN FUTURE LIVES

"High school students today should dedicate their lives to paying more attention to what goes on about them," Lt. Col. Willis F. Daniels, judge advocate at the Middletown Air Depot, Middletown, declared in an address last Friday afternoon at the Gettysburg high school auditorium

Speaking at special Armistice Day exercises sponsored by the Albert J. Lentz post of the American Legion, Colonel Daniels said that "by so dedicating your lives, you will dedicate to your future liberty and freedom of thought."

C. Arthur Brame presided at the exercises. The program opened with the presentation of the colors by the Lentz post color guard comprising Paul L. Spangler, George Cushon, Joseph Smith and George Naugle. The audience of high school students and visitors saluted the flag as it was brought into the auditorium.

Brame read the Legion prayer for Armistice Day and Boy Scouts Dale Ferrar, Sidney Poppay, Jr. and William Snyder led the assembly in the pledge to the flag. Commander Paul M. Rohrbaugh of the Lentz post, was introduced. Judge W. C. Sheely presented Colonel Daniels.

"This is the greatest country in the world," he said. "We have just come through an era of speech-making. No where else could we go through a political campaign such as we just ended. Many changes were brought and discussed and we now are no worse off.

"Today we can get together and laugh, and it is a glorious thing to be able to do it."

As he spoke of the war, Colonel Daniels declared, "Certainly conditions now are not most desirable. All of us have relatives or friends in the service. The casualty lists now are over half a million and still going higher."

Use Education

It is such signs, Colonel Daniels said, that provide the peoples of the United States with the opportunity to look ahead and plan for the future. "It is only a fool who fails to take a warning," he stated, "and we can cure our political ills only with an intelligent adult population."

"Because of this you must use education as a basis for your duties as students and for preparing yourselves for adults. You will have to know your tax problems; know the suggested regulatory legislation in your state; know how well your nation is prepared to keep and enforce the peace, and above all, form an opinion one way or another on the matters.

Causes of War

The colonel then discussed the background of the present war. "It started back in 1914 and ran into 1920, but we failed to take advantage of the signs offered us. Then in the 26 years since the Armistice we thought we had become sophisticated. We paid little attention to church activities. And as religion descends, so morals descend. Also as patriotism descends, so good citizenship descends.

"These things happened and there was something radically wrong with the world. Nations wanted others, and the second world war was precipitated."

"Freedom is still available, however," he declared. "Freedom is being free to do that which we ought to do. False freedom is being free to do that which we have no right to do."

In his conclusion, Colonel Daniels stated, "We cannot have freedom and justice without education. To preserve these things the students must take warning and go out and take measures to prevent future attacks and preserve the peace."

Girls' Chorus Sings

During the program the girls' chorus at the high school sang two selections, "O Starry Flag," and "The Fisher's Widow," under the direction of Prof. Richard B. Shade, director of music in the Gettysburg schools.

The ceremonies closed with Professor Shade leading the assembly in singing the Star Spangled Banner. Following the Armistice Day program, the students held a "pep rally" in preparation for the football game Friday evening at Mechanicsburg.

START COUNT OF G.I. VOTES ON WEDNESDAY

Three special clerks to assist with the official tabulation of military ballots, beginning next Wednesday morning, were appointed at the regular weekly meeting Wednesday of the county commissioners.

The clerks will be Blaine Bushey, Arendtsville; Luke H. Jacobs, Littlestown, and L. U. Collins, of Mount Joy township. The count will begin at 10 o'clock in the morning. Clarence E. Smith, chief clerk to the county commissioners, said the tabulation probably will continue for three days.

The commissioners voted to continue their work through Thursday, Thanksgiving day, although it is a legal holiday. Smith said the count will take a long time because of the large amount of individual tabulations that will have to be made.

Each of the ballots will have to be credited to the proper election district in which name it was mailed. Eight hundred and ninety-seven military ballots have been returned from the more than 2,560 sent out in September.

The procedure in the counting will be to call out the names of the soldier-voters from the envelope as returned to the commissioners' office. A challenge can then be made to test the legality of that person's right to vote. The envelope will be opened and saved, while the inner envelope containing the ballot will be placed in the ballot box.

After all of the ballot envelopes have been opened the ballot box will be shaken and the tabulations will begin. Individual tally sheets will be kept for each of the 42 voting districts.

One of the ballots received this morning came from India. It was voted and postmarked November 7, and traveled half-way around the world in 11 days.

NURSES' AIDES TELL OF WORK AT CAMP LEE

Miss Foth and Mrs. Goodwin volunteered their services for the month and were on duty for 227 hours each. They served as Red Cross volunteers and were not paid. Camp Lee is located four miles from Petersburg, Va., and accommodates about 40,000 soldiers.

"The camp has a 1,500 bed hospital and the cases cared for there are such cases as might develop with any soldier while on duty at camp. These are not casualty cases from overseas as previously rumored.

"There have been only 80 nurses on duty at this hospital, hence there is a great need for nurses' aides at all times. Each ward can take care of about 40 patients, and to each ward there is assigned one nurse and a corps boy, and whenever possible to do so, nurses' aide. To date there have not been more than 20 nurses' aides residing on the post per month.

"There is a constant call for aides, as every couple of weeks about 20 nurses are shipped out for overseas duty, and the last few months the replacements have been considerably less, reducing the staff considerably. The schedule arranges for eight hours of duty a day, with a half day off during the week and a half day off Sunday, but many days the aides did not leave their wards on the scheduled hours.

"The duties of the nurses' aides at the hospital start at 7 a. m. by giving bed baths, making beds, taking temperatures, pulse and respirations, charting same, applying hot compresses when needed, observing patients after operations, preparing and serving trays, feeding patients, massaging, assisting in operating rooms and physio-therapy, collecting reports from surgical, X-ray, offices and clinics, admitting and discharging patients, assisting in preparing wards for formal inspection, doing errands for patients, writing their letters, going for mail, and many other little things the patients requested.

"Camp Lee would now like to have paid nurses' aides in the operating rooms and physio-therapy. The government is making this position possible by Civil Service examination. The salary of a paid aide is $162.50 per month, from which she pays for room, board and laundry, and other minor expenses, leaving about $75 per month net. All paid nurses' aides must sign up for a year of duty at some military hospital.

"At Camp Lee the nurses' aides live in a barracks, each girl having a separate room comfortably furnished, and all meals are taken at the same mess hall with the doctors and nurses. They are granted all privileges of an officer while on the post. 'Every one made our stay at Camp Lee a very pleasant one. It was a very gratifying experience regardless of hard work,' they observed.

"We hope others may be inspired to take up the nurses' aide training when the next course starts and render a service which is very much needed.

"Any one interested please call Mrs. Henry Scharf at Hotel Gettysburg or Mrs. Sydney Poppay."

Must Keep Mileage Rationing Records

Car owners are asked to retain their mileage rationing records in an announcement today by the local War Price and Rationing board office in which it was pointed out that the rationing records have to be sent to the board with each application for gasoline.

"A great many instances have come to light in which this slip of paper has been destroyed, the applicant not knowing it was of any value. The mileage rationing record, the narrow slip of white paper that was returned to each applicant with his new "A" book, has taken the place of the tire inspection record for the purpose of board notations of gasoline issuance," the OPA explained.

A good sized menagerie could be assembled if all of the wild animals reported running loose in this section of the country were captured—but local authorities said today that all of the rumors so far are "still a lot of hokum."

Stories from the lower end of the county this morning were that some kind of a large beast was running loose through the Mount Joy township section. The rumors began a week or more ago when a black panther supposedly had escaped from a circus train at Westminster and started a series of attacks on both cattle and humans in Carroll county.

Panther, Wildcat Or Dog

The panther finally was worked into a wildcat and the stories of its exploits moved into the Union Mills section. Up until Tuesday the animal was supposed to be inhabiting the area around that Maryland town, but this morning the story was told that it had moved north for the winter and had invaded Mount Joy township.

Maryland State Game Warden E. Lee LeCompte said Tuesday that the attacker and destroyer of cattle in Carroll county is probably a pack of wild dogs. While discounting the panther tale, Maryland State police said there was foundation for reports of destruction by a wild animal.

With the panther theory discredited, the possibility of a wildcat arose, but LeCompte scoffed at such an idea. He said he never heard of a wildcat attacking cattle. A wildcat will jump on the back of a deer and kill it, he said, but not a cow, and certainly not a bull.

Pennsylvania State Game Warden Lea Bushman reported Thursday that he had received no calls concerning a fierce cattle-attacking animal in the county—with the exception of a gorilla and a mountain lion on the loose near Fountaindale. However, he reported, he hadn't yet gotten around to hunting for either.

State police here also said they had not been asked to investigate the crimes of wild animals. If they wait for a few days perhaps the rumors will have the beast in Gettysburg and they won't have to waste any gasoline traveling south to find them, the officers observed.

The additional contributions to the Junior Red Cross fund, as announced by Mrs. Beitler, amounted to $26.32 and brought the grand total given so far this year to $293.31. A total of 121 schools have joined.

There are approximately 8,000 school children in all of the county schools, Mrs. Beitler said. The Junior Red Cross membership campaign probably will be concluded in all of the schools by Christmas, she stated, although a few schools may not be completed until spring.

STUDENTS ARE URGED TO PLAN FUTURE LIVES

"High school students today should dedicate their lives to paying more attention to what goes on about them," Lt. Col. Willis F. Daniels, judge advocate at the Middletown Air Depot, Middletown, declared in an address last Friday afternoon at the Gettysburg high school auditorium

Speaking at special Armistice Day exercises sponsored by the Albert J. Lentz post of the American Legion, Colonel Daniels said that "by so dedicating your lives, you will dedicate to your future liberty and freedom of thought."

C. Arthur Brame presided at the exercises. The program opened with the presentation of the colors by the Lentz post color guard comprising Paul L. Spangler, George Cushon, Joseph Smith and George Naugle. The audience of high school students and visitors saluted the flag as it was brought into the auditorium.

Brame read the Legion prayer for Armistice Day and Boy Scouts Dale Ferrar, Sidney Poppay, Jr. and William Snyder led the assembly in the pledge to the flag. Commander Paul M. Rohrbaugh of the Lentz post, was introduced. Judge W. C. Sheely presented Colonel Daniels.

"This is the greatest country in the world," he said. "We have just come through an era of speech-making. No where else could we go through a political campaign such as we just ended. Many changes were brought and discussed and we now are no worse off.

"Today we can get together and laugh, and it is a glorious thing to be able to do it."

As he spoke of the war, Colonel Daniels declared, "Certainly conditions now are not most desirable. All of us have relatives or friends in the service. The casualty lists now are over half a million and still going higher."

Use Education

It is such signs, Colonel Daniels said, that provide the peoples of the United States with the opportunity to look ahead and plan for the future. "It is only a fool who fails to take a warning," he stated, "and we can cure our political ills only with an intelligent adult population."

"Because of this you must use education as a basis for your duties as students and for preparing yourselves for adults. You will have to know your tax problems; know the suggested regulatory legislation in your state; know how well your nation is prepared to keep and enforce the peace, and above all, form an opinion one way or another on the matters.

Causes of War

The colonel then discussed the background of the present war. "It started back in 1914 and ran into 1920, but we failed to take advantage of the signs offered us. Then in the 26 years since the Armistice we thought we had become sophisticated. We paid little attention to church activities. And as religion descends, so morals descend. Also as patriotism descends, so good citizenship descends.

"These things happened and there was something radically wrong with the world. Nations wanted others, and the second world war was precipitated."

"Freedom is still available, however," he declared. "Freedom is being free to do that which we ought to do. False freedom is being free to do that which we have no right to do."

In his conclusion, Colonel Daniels stated, "We cannot have freedom and justice without education. To preserve these things the students must take warning and go out and take measures to prevent future attacks and preserve the peace."

Girls' Chorus Sings

During the program the girls' chorus at the high school sang two selections, "O Starry Flag," and "The Fisher's Widow," under the direction of Prof. Richard B. Shade, director of music in the Gettysburg schools.

The ceremonies closed with Professor Shade leading the assembly in singing the Star Spangled Banner. Following the Armistice Day program, the students held a "pep rally" in preparation for the football game Friday evening at Mechanicsburg.

MECHANICSBURG BEATS MAROONS IN FINAL 13 - 6

Gettysburg high school's football team wound up its season last Friday evening by dropping a 13-6 decision to Mechanicsburg on the latter's field in a Southern Pennsylvania Conference game played before approximately 2,000 fans.

The victory was the first of the season for the Wildcats who had previously dropped seven straight tilts.

Near the middle of the second period Mechanicsburg secured possession of the ball at midfield through a Maroon fumble. K. Rider picked up 30 yards on two end runs and then Hertzler went off on a short dash.

Rider Kicked the Point

Early in the fourth period K. Rider intercepted a Maroon pass on the locals' 35 and raced to 4-yard mark from where he plunged over a few seconds later. The kick for the point was wide.

Coach Dry's outfit scored late in the final round. The Maroons secured possession of the pigskin on their own 25 through a fumble. Fidler then whipped a pass to Rassmussen on the 50 who immediately lateralled to Haehnlen and the latter dashed 50 yards for a touchdown. Fidler's placement for the point was wide.

The absence of four regulars and two reserves from the Maroon squad was undoubtedly felt. According to Coach Dry the following were dropped from the squad Tuesday for missing practices and generally breaking training rules: George Thrush, Joseph Stephenson, Milton Moyer, Earl Keefer, Leroy Rudisill and Harry Shaner.

A member of the group dropped from the squad told a Times reporter Saturday morning that the group had reported at the locker room on Monday evening and upon finding the locker room door locked had waited "10 to 15 minutes" before leaving.

Touchdowns, Hertzler, K. Rider and Haehnlen. Point after touchdown, K. Rider. Substitutions: Mechanicsburg—Jacobs, Piper, Shurley, W. Stone, Farens, Rollman: Gettysburg—Sharrah, Forry, Wolfgang. Referee, Doreumus. Umpire, Nye. Headlinesman, C. Miller.

LIONS HEAR OF BRITISH GUIANA

The legend of Manoa, the city of gold that was ruled by King Eldorado, was recounted for members of the Lions club by Albert Beharry, British Guiana native and freshman at Gettysburg college, as he described his homeland to members of the Gettysburg Lions club Monday evening during the group's weekly dinner meeting at Mrs. Smith's restaurant.

The history, geography, climate, customs and developments of British Guiana, site of the mythical city of gold described by a lieutenant of Cortez, the conqueror of Mexico, were related by Mr. Beharry who answered a number of questions from club members at the close of his talk.

Letter-Writing Teams

He said there are no Germans or Japanese in his country and no prospect of Axis influence finding a foothold among his people who are contents under their own legislative council and a British appointed governor and executive council. He said British Guiana offers many scenic attractions for tourists and enjoys a mild climate the year around.

Mr. Beharry was introduced by Dr. R. D. Wickerham who was in charge of the program.

President J. Milton Bender presided at the meeting with about 40 members present. The club was divided into seven teams and each will write a group letter each week to one of the seven Gettysburg Lions who are in military service. The list includes S 1-c William A. Beales now in Hawaii; Sp (A) Lee M. Hartman, University of Virginia; Lt (jg) Donald P. McPherson, USNR, Washington, D. C.; Major Stewart Moyer, who is in France; Lt. Col. John S. Rice, Manchester, N. Operating as "Artillery Reconnaissance," a specially organized force, the battalion achieved unique success in observation of long-range fire, innovating a system of fire control depending on high-performance military aircraft. In these operations the 698th destroyed 20 bridges and knocked out or damaged 72 enemy guns.

CANNERS DROP 20-0 DECISION TO CAMP HILL

Camp Hill's unbeaten football team proved too much for the Biglerville high bridders last Thursday evening and the Canners submitted to a 20-0 setback in their final game of the season which was played on the Biglerville field.

After battling to a scoreless tie in the first period the ice was broken in the second period when Murray broke through the line and zigzagged down the field for 30 yards and a score. He added the extra point on a placement boot.

Early in the second quarter Shover tallied for the visitors when he raced 20 yards and again Murray booted the extra point.

8th Straight

The final touchdown came later in the same quarter when Murray heaved a pass to Denison for a tally. The try for the extra point failed.

YOUTHS LOOT PARISH HOUSE

Five youths, ranging in age from 8 to 10 years, will be arraigned in juvenile court on charges of vandalism in Gettysburg, preferred by Borough Officer Charles W. Culp.

Officer Culp reported that over the week-end he apprehended four youths who admitted breaking into the Prince of Peace Episcopal church parish house, in Gettysburg, where they did considerable damage.

Among other things Officer Culp said the youths spilled ink over the floor, scattered books and cards about the reading room, destroyed a statue of the Infant Child, stole a first aid kit, destroyed some tables and stole 45 cents in change. He said the youths had gained entrance to the parish house through a cellar window and committed the vandalism on the afternoons of November 7 and 9.

Stole From Cars

Three youths, two of whom were also involved in the parish house case, were apprehended for looting automobiles in Gettysburg. Among the loot were flashlights, steel wool, cigarettes, auto car keys, loaf of bread and eggs. The eggs, Officer Culp said, were thrown through the living room window of an apartment house.

The Gettysburg officer said three of the five youths apprehended were involved in various acts of vandalism over the past several months.

The officer said that a brown leather jacket stolen from a car had been discarded by the youths near the Episcopal church and that it was picked up by someone. Officer Culp asks that it be returned to borough police.

FARMERS SAY TURKEY CEILING PRICES TOO LOW

The prospect of a local shortage of dressed turkeys for Thanksgiving a checkup appeared Saturday when Farmers' Market disclosed that none would quote prices on dressed turkeys for Thanksgiving delivery.

The explanation was that the OPA-fixed ceiling prices which range downward from 62 cents per pound do not allow the grower enough margin above the liveweight price to make it profitable to dress the birds. County turkey growers are selling their birds liveweight for 43 to 45 cents a pound.

Turkey growers say that a margin of less than 20 cents is not enough between the two levels to offset the heavy weight loss in dressing and give the grower any margin for the time spent in dressing the traditional Thanksgiving fowl.

"The liveweight ceiling is not high enough to begin with," one turkey grower said on Saturday. "Feed is $1 to $1.25 a hundred higher than last year and the ceiling price on the turkeys is almost the same."

Other Prices Stable

Pork prices were unchanged at market on Saturday and eggs continued at 56 cents at most stands. Cider was 50 cents per gallon and apple butter 50 cents a quart. Apples and pears were abundant at prices that have not changed in several weeks. Apple prices ranged downward from $4 for choice Stayman and Delicious to $1.50 and $2 for some other varieties and second grade Stayman and Delicious.

Dressed ducks sold for 50 cents per pound on Saturday. Dressed chicken prices ranged from 50 cents for old fowl to 58 cents per pound for young birds.

Home-grown celery could be had at 25 and 30 cents per bunch. Black walnut kernels brought 25 cents per quarter pound. Parsley was five cents a bunch.

Potato prices held at $2.75 to $3 per bushel.

Citizens' Group Initiates Move For County Library Here; Plan Association

A group of 66 representative citizens voted unanimously Wednesday evening at the court house to form an Adams County Library Association for the purpose of establishing the county's first public library.

A committee to draw up a constitution and by-laws was appointed by Burgess Fred G. Pfeffer, who was named temporary chairman of the group. The committee was instructed to report at the next meeting, Tuesday, November 28.

With marked enthusiasm for the project, the group heard Miss Evelyn Matthews, state extension librarian, and Dr. Alfred D. Keator, Pennsylvania state librarian, explain the county library plan as it operates in 20 other counties in Pennsylvania and then asked the state officials many questions on methods of procedure to be followed here.

State and County Can Help

Doctor Keator and Miss Matthews said that county commissioners have the authority to make an appropriation for county library purposes of a sum equivalent to that which would be derived from two mills of taxation, with the state required by law to contribute a sum equal to 75 per cent of the county's appropriation. The state's contribution may not be more than $2,500.

The group was told that $4,000 is the minimum annual budget under which the library should attempt to operate and that figure is exclusive of any housing costs. Rental and janitor services would have to be added to that estimate, Miss Matthews said.

In answer to questions as to the financial ability of the county and town to aid the library project, County Treasurer John W. Brehm said that while the county has a bonded debt of $106,000, its current balances in all funds aggregate nearly $200,000 now. Burgess Fred G. Pfeffer described Gettysburg's financial condition as "the best in 50 years."

"Sell Themselves"

The committee named to prepare a constitution and by-laws includes: O. H. Benson, Dr. A. R. Wentz, Richard A. Brown, Esq., Mrs. Lester O. Johnson and Mrs. E. S. Lewars.

Mrs. Ellen Tipton Buehler was named as temporary secretary. It was agreed that charter memberships shall be held open at least until the next meeting night.

Miss Matthews suggested that the logical arrangement for a county library here would be to have the main library at the county seat and arrange for the distribution of books to schools and other communities in the county by means of a bookmobile or substitute vehicle. County libraries have proved popular and have "sold themselves" in areas where they have been established, she declared.

Fitting War Memorial

Bedford county organized a county library in August, she reported. It operates on a $4,000 budget, has its headquarters in the court house and already has 2,000 volumes, a large part of them on loan from the state library.

In his remarks Doctor Keator praised the plan for "mechanized book service" as the probable form which library development will take in the future. He suggested that a building dedicated to the arts of peace for use as a library would form an ideal community memorial to its war heroes.

To help new libraries start, Miss Matthews explained, the state library will lend books on a two-year basis. Additional donations of books may be expected from public benefactors and association dues also from a comparatively small source of income for the association, she stated.

Librarians' Qualifications

Admitting there might be difficulty in finding a trained librarian, Miss Matthews listed as her requirements, in addition to professional training, "brains, personality, a love of books and people and the knack of bringing them together."

Selection of books is usually left up to the librarian or a committee which will have available balanced basic lists for county libraries and monthly lists of new volumes issued by the American Library association, Miss Matthews explained. She said most county libraries find that fully 50 per cent of their demand is for children's books.

A trained librarian would need volunteer assistants, unless there were funds to employ additional help, the group was told. A six-week summer course is available at State College for prospective library workers, it was stated.

Recalls Hospital's Founding

The problem of a bookmobile will not be difficult to solve, it was agreed. If a regular bookmobile is not immediately available, some other type of vehicle can be substituted.

The motion to form the county association was made by Mrs. Lewars. She recalled that the organization of a hospital in this community grew out of the lack of facilities to handle the flu epidemic here in the last war.

She suggested that there is now a "desperate need" for a library for young people, and that returning war veterans, some of them wounded and disabled, would find a public library and reading room a great blessing. "So a community need at the end of this war can be met by a library as a hospital met emergency medical needs a quarter of a century ago," she said.

Seek Library Site

The question of possible sites for the main library was discussed briefly. These vacant storerooms were reported under consideration: The former Peoples' cash storeroom, the former Haley's meat market room opposite the court house, the former Stoner's tire shop quarters on Baltimore street, the former McElroy grocery site in the first block of Carlisle street and the storeroom in the first floor of the Legion building. Rentals ranging from $30 to $90 per month were quoted on all of the rooms excepting that in the Legion building. No rental was given for that location. The entire group was asked to seek possible sites for the library.

Burgess Pfeffer publicly expressed the groups appreciation to Doctor Keater and Miss Matthews for their presence and to the local "public spirited citizens" who initiated the library movement and called Wednesday night's meeting.

Initial expenses for the new organization are being met by funds made available by the Woman's club of Gettysburg.

Estimate Truck Damage At $200

State police Saturday estimated at $200 the damage caused to a trailer-tractor truck which left the Emmitsburg road about seven miles south of Gettysburg last Friday noon and ran into a field.

The driver of the truck, Ray L. Oswalt, Mansfield, Ohio, was discharged Friday afternoon from the Warner hospital where he had been taken for treatment. Dr. Bruce N. Wolff said he had suffered from a contused chest.

The accident occurred, Oswalt said, when the steering apparatus on his truck failed as he tried to negotiate a turn in the road. The truck ran into a ditch, knocked over a tree and came to rest in a field. The truck was transporting a load of government furniture from St. Louis, Mo., to Washington, D. C.

CHIMNEY FIRE

Gettysburg firemen quickly extinguished a chimney fire at the home of Marshall Sanders, in that place, Sunday about noon. Little damage was reported.

Dr. James Alexander McAllister and John Horner McAllister were named executors of the estate. An estimate filed with the papers listed the value of personal property at $5,000 and that of real estate, which included Gettysburg properties at 30 East High street, and 113 East Middle street, at $5,000.

Home on her first overnight pass since entering Union Memorial hospital in Baltimore as a Cadet Nurse September 13, Miss Doris J. Berkheimer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Berkheimer, Gettysburg, submitted to an emergency appendicitis operation at noon on Sunday at the Warner hospital.

She was taken ill about 6 a. m. Sunday. After an examination an immediate operation was decided upon.

ROTARY CLUB HEARS ADDRESS ABOUT RUBBER

A report of the work accomplished and now being done by the rubber industry in the United States was given in an address by P. W. Barnard, manager of the truck and bus tire department of the B. F. Goodrich company, Philadelphia, before members of the Rotary club at their regular weekly meeting Monday evening at the YWCA building.

He revealed that in 1941 about 97 per cent of the United States' crude rubber was imported. Just prior to the attack on Pearl Harbor the United States had 500,000 tons in storage and 300,000 tons on order, enough for one year of normal demand.

The rubber industry was totally unprepared for government orders following the Japanese attack and around-the-clock work was made necessary for the installation of new machinery and required unceasing efforts of chemists in working out synthetic formulaes to solve the demand for rubber. The industry came through nobly and in October of this year more tires were produced and built than in any month previous to Pearl Harbor. It included 1,600,000 passenger car tires and 382,000 truck tires. It is expected this month's production will be five per cent higher than last month.

4 Precautions

Mr. Barnhard asserted that synthetic rubber is not a real rubber but rather a plastic and must be so treated. He outlined four precautions for those using rubber tires to observe in order to secure the maximum use. They were: Proper inflation, proper mounting, correct adjustment of steering equipment and front end mechanism, and careful observance in driving at low speed as synthetic tires will not dissipate heat as rubber tires.

At the present time, Mr. Barnard said, the government is taking 88 per cent of the rubber supply, leaving but 12 per cent for civilian consumption. Of the 12 per cent remaining, the government dictates how much can be used for the various sizes of tires.

Mr. Barnard said it has been estimated that the average life of a tire in the Pacific war zone is one hour and that the European zone of 14 hours. The amphibious operations in the Pacific were given as the cause of the short life inasmuch as many landings are made on coral reefs which cut tires to ribbons in a short time.

Outlook Dark

The speaker was not optimistic on the outlook for an improved crude rubber supply even though the war ends soon. He pointed out that in his belief many of the rubber plantations in the southwest Pacific have been destroyed by bombings, etc. It takes six 10-year-old rubber trees to provide enough rubber for one average tire, Mr. Barnard added. For the average driver it should be "recap or regret," said Mr. Barnard.

Two films were brought by the speaker and were shown by Jack Cessna. One told the story of the building of the Alcan highway and the other was entitled "Keep 'Em Rolling," which stressed the importance of rubber in our life today.

HANOVER DOWNS MAROON SCRUBS

After holding their heavier opponents scoreless for three periods, the Gettysburg high jayvees yielded a pair of touchdowns in the final period and dropped a 13-0 decision to the Hanover junior high eleven here last Friday afternoon.

Midway in the final period Mummert scored on a pass which was good for 30 yards and Gobrecht added the extra point on a placement boot.

SOME DEALERS IGNORING LAW DECLARES OPA

"About 40 per cent of the retail sellers of women's and children's outerwear clothing in this area, who have not yet showed the Office of Price Administration how they are figuring their ceiling prices, may be stopped from making any further sales after November 15," W. C. Young, acting district director, said Thursday.

"Retailers were notified in September that this information must be filed with the OPA district office before October 15." Mr. Young explained. However, no enforcement action will be taken until November 15th the date by which a retailer must have on his premises a letter confirming OPA's receipt of his pricing chart, if he is to continue to sell the garments involved.

"On November 16, OPA will ask for injunctions against any stores whose charts have not been received by then, to forbid their making any more sales until they have complied with the requirement."

Affects Most Stores

The plan affects department stores, specialty shops, five-and-ten cent stores, and all other retail sellers of women's, girls' and children's, and toddlers' coats, suits, jackets, skirts, blouses, dresses, snow suits, suits, slacks, and slack suits, and leggings and leggings sets.

Retail ceilings on these garments are calculated by the retailers themselves, from a formula based on the cost of the garments to them and on their customary markups during the base period of the regulation. Every retail seller of these garments is required to prepare a "pricing chart" containing the information needed to arrive at his ceiling prices.

"Without this chart, it is impossible for the seller himself to know what his true ceiling prices are," Mr. Young pointed out. The chart is also necessary if OPA is to check these ceilings to maintain control over retail clothing prices.

Recently Revised

Retailers should have had these charts prepared, and available for OPA inspection, for more than a year, under the terms of the original price regulation on these garments. When the regulation was revised, in September, it added a requirement that two copies of each pricing chart must be sent in to the OPA District Office. At this time a bulletin was sent to retailers explaining the requirement and showing them how to prepare their charts if they had not already done so.

Early in October volunteer workers for local board price panels compiled a master list of stores that are subject to the regulation. Every pricing chart that came in to the district office erased a name from this list. So far, 60 per cent of the stores have submitted charts.

Since October 15, Price Panel volunteers have paid visits to the retailers whose names had not yet been marked off, to remind them of the requirement. If any seller still didn't understand the regulation, he was told how to get help.

The charts that have come in are being checked by price specialists in the district office to make sure that they contain all the necessary information. After November 16, a more thorough examination of the charts will be made.

IS JAILED ON LARCENY COUNT

After pleading guilty to a charge of taking a gold wrist watch, William M. Vaughn, Gettysburg R. 2, remained a prisoner in the county jail following a hearing last Friday before Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder.

Vaughn was accused by Pvt. Harold K. Trout, of the local substation of the state police, of taking the wrist watch from the arm of George Gingell, Zora, as he slept in his car early Friday morning near Haines' roadside stand, south of Gettysburg on the Emmitsburg road.

Vaughn was arrested later in the day and committed to jail after the hearing. He remained in jail pending bail to be fixed by the court. Robbery is one of a number of offenses for which a justice of the peace cannot fix bail.

State police reported that Vaughn reached through Gingell's car window and slipped the watch from the Zora man's wrist. Gingell valued the watch at about $60. Vaughn's attorney was reported Saturday to be arranging bail.

MECHANICSBURG BEATS MAROONS IN FINAL 13 - 6

Gettysburg high school's football team wound up its season last Friday evening by dropping a 13-6 decision to Mechanicsburg on the latter's field in a Southern Pennsylvania Conference game played before approximately 2,000 fans.

The victory was the first of the season for the Wildcats who had previously dropped seven straight tilts.

Near the middle of the second period Mechanicsburg secured possession of the ball at midfield through a Maroon fumble. K. Rider picked up 30 yards on two end runs and then Hertzler went off on a short dash.

Rider Kicked the Point

Early in the fourth period K. Rider intercepted a Maroon pass on the locals' 35 and raced to 4-yard mark from where he plunged over a few seconds later. The kick for the point was wide.

Coach Dry's outfit scored late in the final round. The Maroons secured possession of the pigskin on their own 25 through a fumble. Fidler then whipped a pass to Rasmussen on the 50 who immediately lateralled to Haehnlen and the latter dashed 50 yards for a touchdown. Fidler's placement for the point was wide.

The absence of four regulars and two reserves from the Maroon squad was undoubtedly felt. According to Coach Dry the following were dropped from the squad Tuesday for missing practices and generally breaking training rules: George Thrush, Joseph Stephenson, Milton Moyer, Earl Keefer, Leroy Rudisill and Harry Shaner.

A member of the group dropped from the squad told a Times reporter Saturday morning that the group had reported at the locker room on Monday evening and upon finding the locker room door locked had waited "10 to 15 minutes" before leaving.

Touchdowns, Hertzler, K. Rider and Haehnlen. Point after touchdown, K. Rider. Substitutions: Mechanicsburg—Jacobs, Piper, Shurley, W. Stone, Farens, Rollman; Gettysburg—Sharrah, Forry, Wolfgang. Referee, Doreumus. Umpire, Nye. Headlinesman, C. Miller.

LIONS HEAR OF BRITISH GUIANA

The legend of Manoa, the city of gold that was ruled by King Eldorado, was recounted for members of the Lions club by Albert Beharry, British Guiana native and freshman at Gettysburg college, as he described his homeland to members of the Gettysburg Lions club Monday evening during the group's weekly dinner meeting at Mrs. Smith's restaurant.

The history, geography, climate, customs and developments of British Guiana, site of the mythical city of gold described by a lieutenant of Cortez, the conqueror of Mexico, were related by Mr. Beharry who answered a number of questions from club members at the close of his talk.

Letter-Writing Teams

He said there are no Germans or Japanese in his country and no prospect of Axis influence finding a foothold among his people who are content under their own legislative council and a British appointed governor and executive council. He said British Guiana offers many scenic attractions for tourists and enjoys a mild climate the year around.

Mr. Beharry was introduced by Dr. R. D. Wickerham who was in charge of the program.

President J. Milton Bender presided at the meeting with about 40 members present. The club was divided into seven teams and each will write a group letter each week to one of the seven Gettysburg Lions who are in military service. The list includes S 1-c William A. Beales, now in Hawaii; Sp. (A) Lee M. Hartman, University of Virginia; Lt. (jg) Donald P. McPherson, USNR, Washington, D. C.; Major Stewart Moyer, who is in France; Lt. Col. John S. Rice, Manchester, N. H.; Lt. Donald M. Swope, now in France, and F 2-c Carl Westerdahl, Gulfport, Miss.

CANNERS DROP 20-0 DECISION TO CAMP HILL

Camp Hill's unbeaten football team proved too much for the Biglerville high bridders last Thursday evening and the Canners submitted to a 20-0 setback in their final game of the season which was played on the Biglerville field.

After battling to a scoreless tie in the first period the ice was broken in the second period when Murray broke through the line and zigzagged down the field for 30 yards and a score. He added the extra point on a placement boot.

Early in the second quarter Shover tallied for the visitors when he raced 20 yards and again Murray booted the extra point.

8th Straight

The final touchdown came later in the same quarter when Murray heaved a pass to Denison for a tally. The try for the extra point failed.

The victory marked the eighth in a row for Camp Hill and its seventh in the Lower Susquehanna conference.

For Biglerville it marked the third setback as against as many victories.

YOUTHS LOOT PARISH HOUSE

Five youths, ranging in age from 8 to 10 years, will be arraigned in juvenile court on charges of vandalism in Gettysburg, preferred by Borough Officer Charles W. Culp.

Officer Culp reported that over the week-end he apprehended four youths who admitted breaking into the Prince of Peace Episcopal church parish house, in Gettysburg, where they did considerable damage.

Among other things Officer Culp said the youths spilled ink over the floor, scattered books and cards about the reading room, destroyed a statue of the Infant Child, stole a first aid kit, destroyed some tables and stole 45 cents in change. He said the youths had gained entrance to the parish house through a cellar window and committed the vandalism on the afternoons of November 7 and 9.

Stole From Cars

Three youths, two of whom were also involved in the parish house case, were apprehended for looting automobiles in Gettysburg. Among the loot were flashlights, steel wool, cigarettes, dice, car keys, loaf of bread and eggs. The eggs, Officer Culp said, were thrown through the living room window of an apartment house.

The Gettysburg officer said three of the five youths apprehended were involved in various acts of vandalism over the past several months.

The officer said that a brown leather jacket, stolen from a car had been discarded by the youths near the Episcopal church, and that it was picked up by someone. Officer Culp asks that it be returned to borough police.

FARMERS SAY TURKEY CEILING PRICES TOO LOW

The prospect of a local shortage of dressed turkeys for Thanksgiving a checkup appeared Saturday when Farmers' Market disclosed that none would quote prices on dressed turkeys for Thanksgiving delivery.

The explanation was that the OPA-fixed ceiling prices which range downward from 62 cents per pound do not allow the grower enough margin above the liveweight price to make it profitable to dress the birds. County turkey growers are selling their birds liveweight for 43 to 45 cents a pound.

Turkey growers say that a margin of less than 20 cents is not enough between the two levels to offset the heavy weight loss in dressing and give the grower any margin for the time spent in dressing the traditional Thanksgiving fowl.

"The liveweight ceiling is not high enough to begin with," one turkey grower said on Saturday. "Feed is $1 to $1.25 a hundred higher than last year and the ceiling price on the turkeys is almost the same."

Other Prices Stable

Pork prices were unchanged at market on Saturday and eggs continued at 56 cents at most stands. Cider was 50 cents per gallon and apple butter 50 cents a quart. Apples and pears were abundant at prices that have not changed in several weeks. Apple prices ranged downward from $4 for choice Stayman and Delicious to $1.50 and $2 for some other varieties and second grade Stayman and Delicious.

Dressed ducks sold for 50 cents per pound on Saturday. Dressed chicken prices ranged from 50 cents for old fowl to 58 cents per pound for young birds.

Home-grown celery could be had at 25 and 30 cents per bunch. Black walnut kernels brought 25 cents per quarter pound. Parsley was five cents a bunch.

Potato prices held at $2.75 to $3 per bushel.

Citizens' Group Initiates Move For County Library Here; Plan Association

A group of 66 representative citizens voted unanimously Wednesday evening at the court house to form an Adams County Library Association for the purpose of establishing the county's first public library.

A committee to draw up a constitution and by-laws was appointed by Burgess Fred G. Pfeffer, who was named temporary chairman of the group. The committee was instructed to report at the next meeting, Tuesday, November 28.

With marked enthusiasm for the project, the group heard Miss Evelyn Matthews, state extension librarian, and Dr. Alfred D. Keator, Pennsylvania state librarian, explain the county library plan as it operates in 20 other counties in Pennsylvania and then asked the state officials many questions on methods of procedure to be followed here.

State and County Can Help

Doctor Keator and Miss Matthews said that county commissioners have the authority to make an appropriation for county library purposes of a sum equivalent to that which would be derived from two mills of taxation, with the state required by law to contribute a sum equal to 75 per cent of the county's appropriation. The state's contribution may not be more than $2,500.

The group was told that $4,000 is the minimum annual budget under which the library should attempt to operate and that figure is exclusive of any housing costs. Rental and janitor services would have to be added to that estimate, Miss Matthews said.

In answer to questions as to the financial ability of the county and town to aid the library project, County Treasurer John W. Brehm said that while the county has a bonded debt of $106,000, its current balances in all funds aggregate nearly $200,000 now. Burgess Fred G. Pfeffer described Gettysburg's financial condition as "the best in 50 years."

"Sell Themselves"

The committee named to prepare a constitution and by-laws includes: O. H. Benson, Dr. A. R. Wentz, Richard A. Brown, Esq., Mrs. Lester O. Johnson and Mrs. E. S. Lewars.

Mrs. Ellen Tipton Buehler was named as temporary secretary. It was agreed that charter memberships shall be held open at least until the next meeting night.

Miss Matthews suggested that the logical arrangement for a county library here would be to have the main library at the county seat and arrange for the distribution of books to schools and other communities in the county by means of a bookmobile or substitute vehicle. County libraries have proved popular and have "sold themselves" in areas where they have been established, she declared.

Fitting War Memorial

Bedford county organized a county library in August, she reported. It operates on a $4,000 budget, has its headquarters in the court house and already has 2,000 volumes, a large part of them on loan from the state library.

In his remarks Doctor Keator praised the plan for "mechanized book service" as the probable form which library development will take in the future. He suggested that a building dedicated to the arts of peace for use as a library would form an ideal community memorial to its war heroes.

To help new libraries start, Miss Matthews explained, the state library will lend books on a two-year basis. Additional donations of books may be expected from public benefactors and association dues also from a comparatively small source of income for the association, she stated.

Librarians' Qualifications

Admitting there might be difficulty in finding a trained librarian, Miss Matthews listed as her requirements, in addition to professional training, "brains, personality, a love of books and people and the knack of bringing them together."

Selection of books is usually left up to the librarian or a committee which will have available balanced basic lists for county libraries and monthly lists of new volumes issued by the American Library association, Miss Matthews explained. She said most county libraries find that fully 50 per cent of their demand is for children's books.

A trained librarian would need volunteer assistants, unless there were funds to employ additional help, the group was told. A six-week summer course is available at State College for prospective library workers, it was stated.

Recalls Hospital's Founding

The problem of a bookmobile will not be difficult to solve, it was agreed. If a regular bookmobile is not immediately available, some other type of vehicle can be substituted.

The motion to form the county association was made by Mrs. Lewars. She recalled that the organization of a hospital in this community grew out of the lack of facilities to handle the flu epidemic here in the last war.

She suggested that there is now a "desperate need" for a library for young people, and that returning war veterans, some of them wounded and disabled, would find a public library and reading room a great blessing. "So a community need at the end of this war can be met by a library as a hospital met emergency medical needs a quarter of a century ago," she said.

Seek Library Site

The question of possible sites for the main library was discussed briefly. These vacant storerooms were reported under consideration: The former Peoples' cash storeroom, the former Haley's meat market room opposite the court house, the former Stoner's tire shop quarters on Baltimore street, the former McElroy grocery site in the first block of Carlisle street and the storeroom in the first floor of the Legion building. Rentals ranging from $30 to $90 per month were quoted on all of the rooms excepting that in the Legion building. No rental was given for that location. The entire group was asked to seek possible sites for the library.

Burgess Pfeffer publicly expressed the groups appreciation to Doctor Keater and Miss Matthews for their presence and to the local "public spirited citizens" who initiated the library movement and called Wednesday night's meeting.

Initial expenses for the new organization are being met by funds made available by the Woman's club of Gettysburg.

Estimate Truck Damage At $200

State police Saturday estimated at $200 the damage caused to a trailer-tractor truck which left the Emmitsburg road about seven miles south of Gettysburg last Friday noon and ran into a field.

The driver of the truck, Ray L. Oswalt, Mansfield, Ohio, was discharged Friday afternoon from the Warner hospital where he had been taken for treatment. Dr. Bruce N. Wolff said he had suffered from a contused chest.

The accident occurred, Oswalt said, when the steering apparatus on his truck failed as he tried to negotiate a turn in the road. The truck ran into a ditch, knocked over a tree and came to rest in a field. The truck was transporting a load of government furniture from St. Louis, Mo., to Washington, D. C.

CHIMNEY FIRE

Gettysburg firemen quickly extinguished a chimney fire at the home of Marshall Sanders, in that place, Sunday about noon. Little damage was reported.

Clyde A. Barnes, Fayetteville R. 1, was released on $300 bail following a hearing Wednesday before Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder on a charge of desertion and non-support.

Barnes was arrested Tuesday by state police on a warrant issued from Justice Snyder's office after information had been filed by his wife, Mrs. Rhoda V. Barnes. Barnes was released under the bail for his appearance in court Friday.

$100 Bequests For Church And Society

Bequests of $100 each to the Presbyterian church and the Missionary society of the church were made in the will of the late Miss Mary Agnes McAllister, who died November 6 in Lansdowne.

Dr. James Alexander McAllister and John Horner McAllister were named executors of the estate. An estimate filed with the papers listed the value of personal property at $5,000 and that of real estate, which included Gettysburg properties at 30 East High street, and 113 East Middle street, at $5,000.

Samuel White, of Gettysburg, was treated Saturday for a contused and lacerated fourth finger on his right hand received while working at the H. and H. Machine shop.

Has Emergency Operation Here

Home on her first overnight pass since entering Union Memorial hospital in Baltimore as a Cadet Nurse September 13, Miss Doris J. Berkheimer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Berkheimer, Gettysburg, submitted to an emergency appendicitis operation at noon on Sunday at the Warner hospital.

She was taken ill about 6 a. m. Sunday. After an examination an immediate operation was decided upon.

ROTARY CLUB HEARS ADDRESS ABOUT RUBBER

A report of the work accomplished and now being done by the rubber industry in the United States was given in an address by P. W. Barnard, manager of the truck and bus tire department of the B. F. Goodrich company, Philadelphia, before members of the Rotary club at their regular weekly meeting Monday evening at the YWCA building.

He revealed that in 1941 about 97 per cent of the United States' crude rubber was imported. Just prior to the attack on Pearl Harbor the United States had 500,000 tons in storage and 300,000 tons on order, enough for one year of normal demand.

The rubber industry was totally unprepared for government orders following the Japanese attack and around-the-clock work was made necessary for the installation of new machinery and required uncasing efforts of chemists in working out synthetic formulaes to solve the demand for rubber. The industry came through nobly and in October of this year more tires were produced and built than in any month previous to Pearl Harbor. It included 1,600,000 passenger car tires and 388,000 truck tires. It is expected this month's production will be five per cent higher than last month.

4 Precautions

Mr. Barnhard asserted that synthetic rubber is not a real rubber but rather a plastic and must be so treated. He outlined four precautions for those using rubber tires to observe in order to secure the maximum use. They were: Proper inflation, proper mounting, correct adjustment of steering equipment and front end mechanism, and careful observance in driving at low speed as synthetic tires will not dissipate heat as rubber tires.

At the present time, Mr Barnard said, the government is taking 88 per cent of the rubber supply, leaving but 12 per cent for civilian consumption. Of the 12 per cent remaining, the government dictates how much can be used for the various sizes of tires.

Mr. Barnard said it has been estimated that the average life of a tire in the Pacific war zone is one hour and that the European zone of 14 hours. The amphibious operations in the Pacific were given as the cause of the short life inasmuch as many landings are made on coral reefs which cut tires to ribbons in a short time.

Outlook Dark

The speaker was not optimistic on the outlook for an improved crude rubber supply even though the war ends soon. He pointed out that in his belief many of the rubber plantations in the southwest Pacific have been destroyed by bombings, etc. It takes six 10-year-old rubber trees to provide enough rubber for one average tire, Mr. Barnard added. For the average driver it should be "recap or regret," said Mr. Barnard.

Two films were brought by the speaker and were shown by Jack Cessna. One told the story of the building of the Alcan highway and the other was entitled "Keep 'Em Rolling," which stressed the importance of rubber in our life today.

HANOVER DOWNS MAROON SCRUBS

After holding their heavier opponents scoreless for three periods, the Gettysburg high jayvees yielded a pair of touchdowns in the final period and dropped a 13-0 decision to the Hanover junior high eleven here last Friday afternoon.

Midway in the final period Mummert scored on a pass which was good for 30 yards and Gobrecht added the extra point on a placement boot.

A few minutes later Louey swept around end and raced 20 yards for a tally. The try for the extra point failed.

SOME DEALERS IGNORING LAW DECLARES OPA

"About 40 per cent of the retail sellers of women's and children's outerwear clothing in this area, who have not yet showed the Office of Price Administration how they are figuring their ceiling prices, may be stopped from making any further sales after November 15," W. C. Young, acting district director, said Thursday.

"Retailers were notified in September that this information must be filed with the OPA district office before October 15," Mr. Young explained. However, no enforcement action will be taken until November 15th the date by which a retailer must have on his premises a letter confirming OPA's receipt of his pricing chart, if he is to continue to sell the garments involved.

"On November 16, OPA will ask for injunctions against any stores whose charts have not been received by then, to forbid their making any more sales until they have complied with the requirement."

Affects Most Stores

The plan affects department stores, specialty shops, five-and-ten cent stores, and all other retail sellers of women's, girls' and children's and toddlers' coats, suits, jackets, skirts, blouses, dresses, snow suits, suits, slacks, and slack suits, and leggings and leggings sets.

Retail ceilings on these garments are calculated by the retailers themselves, from a formula based on the cost of the garments to them and on their customary markups during the base period of the regulation. Every retail seller of these garments is required to prepare a "pricing chart" containing the information needed to arrive at his ceiling prices.

"Without this chart, it is impossible for the seller himself to know what his true ceiling prices are," Mr. Young pointed out. The chart is also necessary if OPA is to check these ceilings to maintain control over retail clothing prices.

Recently Revised

Retailers should have had these charts prepared, and available for OPA inspection, for more than a year, under the terms of the original price regulation on these garments. When the regulation was revised, in September, it added a requirement that two copies of each pricing chart must be sent in to the OPA District Office. At this time a bulletin was sent to retailers explaining the requirement and showing them how to prepare their charts if they had not already done so.

Early in October volunteer workers for local board price panels compiled a master list of stores that are subject to the regulation. Every pricing chart that came in to the district office erased a name from this list. So far, 60 per cent of the stores have submitted charts.

Since October 15, Price Panel volunteers have paid visits to the retailers whose names had not yet been marked off, to remind them of the requirement. If any seller still didn't understand the regulation, he was told how to get help.

The charts that have come in are being checked by price specialists in the district office to make sure that they contain all the necessary information. After November 16, a more thorough examination of the accuracy of the charts will be made.

IS JAILED ON LARCENY COUNT

After pleading guilty to a charge of taking a gold wrist watch, William M. Vaughn, Gettysburg R. 2, remained a prisoner in the county jail following a hearing last Friday before Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder.

Vaughn was accused by Pvt. Harold K. Trout, of the local substation of the state police, of taking the wrist watch from the arm of George Gingell, Zora, as he slept in his car early Friday morning near Haines' roadside stand, south of Gettysburg on the Emmitsburg road.

Vaughn was arrested later in the day and committed to jail after the hearing. He remained in jail pending bail to be fixed by the court. Robbery is one of a number of offenses for which a justice of the peace cannot fix bail.

State police reported that Vaughn reached through Gingell's car window and slipped the watch from the Zora man's wrist. Gingell valued the watch at about $60. Vaughn's attorney was reported Saturday to be arranging bail.

Bosserman was killed in action April 8, this year, while serving with the Army. A son, Walter D. Bosserman, Jr., was listed as the only surviving heir in addition to Mrs. Bosserman. The estate was valued at about $500 in personal property with no real estate.

MECHANICSBURG BEATS MAROONS IN FINAL 13 - 6

Gettysburg high school's football team wound up its season last Friday evening by dropping a 13-6 decision to Mechanicsburg on the latter's field in a Southern Pennsylvania Conference game played before approximately 2,000 fans.

The victory was the first of the season for the Wildcats who had previously dropped seven straight tilts.

Particularly outstanding for Gettysburg was the work of Curvin Sanders on the line.

Near the middle of the second period Mechanicsburg secured possession of the ball at midfield through a Maroon fumble. K. Rider picked up 30 yards on two end runs and then Hertzler went off on a short dash.

Rider Kicked the Point

Early in the fourth period K. Rider intercepted a Maroon pass on the locals' 35 and raced to 4-yard mark from where he plunged over a few seconds later. The kick for the point was wide.

Coach Dry's outfit scored late in the final round. The Maroons secured possession of the pigskin on their own 25 through a fumble. Fidler then whipped a pass to Rasmussen on the 50 who immediately lateralled to Haehnlen and the latter dashed 50 yards for a touchdown. Fidler's placement for the point was wide.

The absence of four regulars and two reserves from the Maroon squad was undoubtedly felt. According to Coach Dry the following were dropped from the squad Tuesday for missing practices and generally breaking training rules: George Thrush, Joseph Stephenson, Milton Moyer, Earl Keefer, Leroy Rudisill and Harry Shaner.

A member of the group dropped from the squad told a Times reporter Saturday morning that the group had reported at the locker room on Monday evening and upon finding the locker room door locked had waited "10 to 15 minutes" before leaving.

Touchdowns, Hertzler, K. Rider and Haehnlen. Point after touchdown, K. Rider. Substitutions: Mechanicsburg—Jacobs, Piper, Shurley, W. Stone, Farens, Rollman; Gettysburg—Sharrah, Forry, Wolfgang. Referee, Doreumus. Umpire, Nye. Headlinesman, C. Miller.

LIONS HEAR OF BRITISH GUIANA

The legend of Manoa, the city of gold that was ruled by King Eldorado, was recounted for members of the Lions club by Albert Beharry, British Guiana native and freshman at Gettysburg college, as he described his homeland to members of the Gettysburg Lions club Monday evening during the group's weekly dinner meeting at Mrs. Smith's restaurant.

The history, geography, climate, customs and developments of British Guiana, site of the mythical city of gold described by a lieutenant of Cortez, the conqueror of Mexico, were related by Mr. Beharry who answered a number of questions from club members at the close of his talk.

Letter-Writing Teams

He said there are no Germans or Japanese in his country and no prospect of Axis influence finding a foothold among his people who are content under their own legislative council and a British appointed governor and executive council. He said British Guiana offers many scenic attractions for tourists and enjoys a mild climate the year around.

Mr. Beharry was introduced by Dr. R. D. Wickerham who was in charge of the program.

President J. Milton Bender presided at the meeting with about 40 members present. The club was divided into seven teams and each will write a group letter each week to one of the seven Gettysburg Lions who are in military service. The list includes S 1-c William A. Beales, now in Hawaii; Sp. (A) Lee M. Hartman, University of Virginia; Lt. (jg) Donald P. McPherson, USNR, Washington, D. C.; Major Stewart Moyer, who is in France; Lt. Col. John S. Rice, Manchester, N. H.; Lt. Donald M. Swope, now in France, and F 2-c Carl Westerdahl, Gulfport, Miss.

CANNERS DROP 20-0 DECISION TO CAMP HILL

Camp Hill's unbeaten football team proved too much for the Biglerville high bridders last Thursday evening and the Canners submitted to a 20-0 setback in their final game of the season which was played on the Biglerville field.

After battling to a scoreless tie in the first period the ice was broken in the second period when Murray broke through the line and zigzagged down the field for 30 yards and a score. He added the extra point on a placement boot.

Early in the second quarter Shover tallied for the visitors when he raced 20 yards and again Murray booted the extra point.

8th Straight

The final touchdown came later in the same quarter when Murray heaved a pass to Denison for a tally. The try for the extra point failed.

The victory marked the eighth in a row for Camp Hill and its seventh in the Lower Susquehanna conference.

For Biglerville it marked the third setback as against as many victories.

YOUTHS LOOT PARISH HOUSE

Five youths, ranging in age from 8 to 10 years, will be arraigned in juvenile court on charges of vandalism in Gettysburg, preferred by Borough Officer Charles W. Culp.

Officer Culp reported that over the week-end he apprehended four youths who admitted breaking into the Prince of Peace Episcopal church parish house, in Gettysburg, where they did considerable damage.

Among other things Officer Culp said the youths spilled ink over the floor, scattered books and cards about the reading room, destroyed a statue of the Infant Child, stole a first aid kit, destroyed some tables and stole 45 cents in change. He said the youths had gained entrance to the parish house through a cellar window and committed the vandalism on the afternoons of November 7 and 9.

Stole From Cars

Three youths, two of whom were also involved in the parish house case, were apprehended for looting automobiles in Gettysburg. Among the loot were flashlights, steel wool, cigarettes, dice, car keys, loaf of bread and eggs. The eggs, Officer Culp said, were thrown through the living room window of an apartment house.

The Gettysburg officer said three of the five youths apprehended were involved in various acts of vandalism over the past several months.

The officer said that a brown leather jacket, stolen from a car had been discarded by the youths near the Episcopal church, and that it was picked up by someone. Officer Culp asks that it be returned to borough police.

FARMERS SAY TURKEY CEILING PRICES TOO LOW

The prospect of a local shortage of dressed turkeys for Thanksgiving a checkup appeared Saturday when Farmers' Market disclosed that none would quote prices on dressed turkeys for Thanksgiving delivery.

The explanation was that the OPA-fixed ceiling prices which range downward from 62 cents per pound do not allow the grower enough margin above the liveweight price to make it profitable to dress the birds. County turkey growers are selling their birds liveweight for 43 to 45 cents a pound.

Turkey growers say that a margin of less than 20 cents is not enough between the two levels to offset the heavy weight loss in dressing and give the grower any margin for the time spent in dressing the traditional Thanksgiving fowl.

"The liveweight ceiling is not high enough to begin with," one turkey grower said on Saturday. "Feed is $1 to $1.25 a hundred higher than last year and the ceiling price on the turkeys is almost the same."

Other Prices Stable

Pork prices were unchanged at market on Saturday and eggs continued at 56 cents at most stands. Cider was 50 cents per gallon and apple butter 50 cents a quart. Apples and pears were abundant at prices that have not changed in several weeks. Apple prices ranged downward from $4 for choice Stayman and Delicious to $1.50 and $2 for some other varieties and second grade Stayman and Delicious.

Dressed ducks sold for 50 cents per pound on Saturday. Dressed chicken prices ranged from 50 cents for old fowl to 58 cents per pound for young birds.

Home-grown celery could be had at 25 and 30 cents per bunch. Black walnut kernels brought 25 cents per quarter pound. Parsley was five cents a bunch.

Potato prices held at $2.75 to $3 per bushel.

Citizens' Group Initiates Move For County Library Here; Plan Association

A group of 66 representative citizens voted unanimously Wednesday evening at the court house to form an Adams County Library Association for the purpose of establishing the county's first public library.

A committee to draw up a constitution and by-laws was appointed by Burgess Fred G. Pfeffer, who was named temporary chairman of the group. The committee was instructed to report at the next meeting, Tuesday, November 28.

With marked enthusiasm for the project, the group heard Miss Evelyn Matthews, state extension librarian, and Dr. Alfred D. Keator, Pennsylvania state librarian, explain the county library plan as it operates in 20 other counties in Pennsylvania and then asked the state officials many questions on methods of procedure to be followed here.

State and County Can Help

Doctor Keator and Miss Matthews said that county commissioners have the authority to make an appropriation for county library purposes of a sum equivalent to that which would be derived from two mills of taxation, with the state required by law to contribute a sum equal to 75 per cent of the county's appropriation. The state's contribution may not be more than $2,500.

The group was told that $4,000 is the minimum annual budget under which the library should attempt to operate and that figure is exclusive of any housing costs. Rental and janitor services would have to be added to that estimate, Miss Matthews said.

In answer to questions as to the financial ability of the county and town to aid the library project, County Treasurer John W. Brehm said that while the county has a bonded debt of $106,000, its current balances in all funds aggregate nearly $200,000 now. Burgess Fred G. Pfeffer described Gettysburg's financial condition as "the best in 50 years."

"Sell Themselves"

The committee named to prepare a constitution and by-laws includes: O. H. Benson, Dr. A. R. Wentz, Richard A. Brown, Esq., Mrs. Lester O. Johnson and Mrs. E. S. Lewars.

Mrs. Ellen Tipton Buehler was named as temporary secretary. It was agreed that charter memberships shall be held open at least until the next meeting night.

Miss Matthews suggested that the logical arrangement for a county library here would be to have the main library at the county seat and arrange for the distribution of books to schools and other communities in the county by means of a bookmobile or substitute vehicle. County libraries have proved popular and have "sold themselves" in areas where they have been established, she declared.

Fitting War Memorial

Bedford county organized a county library in August, she reported. It operates on a $4,000 budget, has its headquarters in the court house and already has 2,000 volumes, a large part of them on loan from the state library.

In his remarks Doctor Keator praised the plan for "mechanized book service" as the probable form which library development will take in the future. He suggested that a building dedicated to the arts of peace for use as a library would form an ideal community memorial to its war heroes.

To help new libraries start, Miss Matthews explained, the state library will lend books on a two-year basis. Additional donations of books may be expected from public benefactors and association dues also from a comparatively small source of income for the association, she stated.

Librarians' Qualifications

Admitting there might be difficulty in finding a trained librarian, Miss Matthews listed as her requirements, in addition to professional training, "brains, personality, a love of books and people and the knack of bringing them together."

Selection of books is usually left up to the librarian or a committee which will have available balanced basic lists for county libraries and monthly lists of new volumes issued by the American Library association, Miss Matthews explained. She said most county libraries find that fully 50 per cent of their demand is for children's books.

A trained librarian would need volunteer assistants, unless there were funds to employ additional help, the group was told. A six-week summer course is available at State College for prospective library workers, it was stated.

Recalls Hospital's Founding

The problem of a bookmobile will not be difficult to solve, it was agreed. If a regular bookmobile is not immediately available, some other type of vehicle can be substituted.

The motion to form the county association was made by Mrs. Lewars. She recalled that the organization of a hospital in this community grew out of the lack of facilities to handle the flu epidemic here in the last war.

She suggested that there is now a "desperate need" for a library for young people, and that returning war veterans, some of them wounded and disabled, would find a public library and reading room a great blessing. "So a community need at the end of this war can be met by a library as a hospital met emergency medical needs a quarter of a century ago," she said.

Seek Library Site

The question of possible sites for the main library was discussed briefly. These vacant storerooms were reported under consideration: The former Peoples' cash storeroom, the former Haley's meat market room opposite the court house, the former Stoner's tire shop quarters on Baltimore street, the former McElroy grocery site in the first block of Carlisle street and the storeroom in the first floor of the Legion building. Rentals ranging from $30 to $90 per month were quoted on all of the rooms excepting that in the Legion building. No rental was given for that location. The entire group was asked to seek possible sites for the library.

Burgess Pfeffer publicly expressed the groups appreciation to Doctor Keater and Miss Matthews for their presence and to the local "public spirited citizens" who initiated the library movement and called Wednesday night's meeting.

Initial expenses for the new organization are being met by funds made available by the Woman's club of Gettysburg.

Estimate Truck Damage At $200

State police Saturday estimated at $200 the damage caused to a trailer-tractor truck which left the Emmitsburg road about seven miles south of Gettysburg last Friday noon and ran into a field.

The driver of the truck, Ray L. Oswalt, Mansfield, Ohio, was discharged Friday afternoon from the Warner hospital where he had been taken for treatment. Dr. Bruce N. Wolff said he had suffered from a contused chest.

The accident occurred, Oswalt said, when the steering apparatus on his truck failed as he tried to negotiate a turn in the road. The truck ran into a ditch, knocked over a tree and came to rest in a field. The truck was transporting a load of government furniture from St. Louis, Mo., to Washington, D. C.

ROTARY CLUB HEARS ADDRESS ABOUT RUBBER

A report of the work accomplished and now being done by the rubber industry in the United States was given in an address by P. W. Barnard, manager of the truck and bus tire department of the B. F. Goodrich company, Philadelphia, before members of the Rotary club at their regular weekly meeting Monday evening at the YWCA building.

He revealed that in 1941 about 97 per cent of the United States' crude rubber was imported. Just prior to the attack on Pearl Harbor the United States had 500,000 tons in storage and 300,000 tons on order, enough for one year of normal demand.

The rubber industry was totally unprepared for government orders following the Japanese attack and around-the-clock work was made necessary for the installation of new machinery and required unceasing efforts of chemists in working out synthetic formulaes to solve the demand for rubber. The industry came through nobly and in October of this year more tires were produced and built than in any month previous to Pearl Harbor. It included 1,600,000 passenger car tires and 388,000 truck tires. It is expected this month's production will be five per cent higher than last month.

4 Precautions

Mr. Barnhard asserted that synthetic rubber is not a real rubber but rather a plastic and must be so treated. He outlined four precautions for those using rubber tires to observe in order to secure the maximum use. They were: Proper inflation, proper mounting, correct adjustment of steering equipment and front end mechanism, and careful observance in driving at low speed as synthetic tires will not dissipate heat as rubber tires.

At the present time, Mr Barnard said, the government is taking 88 per cent of the rubber supply, leaving but 12 per cent for civilian consumption. Of the 12 per cent remaining, the government dictates how much can be used for the various sizes of tires.

Mr. Barnard said it has been estimated that the average life of a tire in the Pacific war zone is one hour and that the European zone of 14 hours. The amphibious operations in the Pacific were given as the cause of the short life inasmuch as many landings are made on coral reefs which cut tires to ribbons in a short time.

Outlook Dark

The speaker was not optimistic on the outlook for an improved crude rubber supply even though the war ends soon. He pointed out that in his belief many of the rubber plantations in the southwest Pacific have been destroyed by bombings, etc. It takes six 10-year-old rubber trees to provide enough rubber for one average tire, Mr. Barnard added. For the average driver it should be "recap or regret," said Mr. Barnard.

Two films were brought by the speaker and were shown by Jack Cessna. One told the story of the building of the Alcan highway and the other was entitled "Keep 'Em Rolling," which stressed the importance of rubber in our life today.

SOME DEALERS IGNORING LAW DECLARES OPA

"About 40 per cent of the retail sellers of women's and children's outerwear clothing in this area, who have not yet showed the Office of Price Administration how they are figuring their ceiling prices, may be stopped from making any further sales after November 15," W. C. Young, acting district director, said Thursday.

"Retailers were notified in September that this information must be filed with the OPA district office before October 15." Mr. Young explained. However, no enforcement action will be taken until November 15th the date by which a retailer must have on his premises a letter confirming OPA's receipt of his pricing chart, if he is to continue to sell the garments involved.

"On November 16, OPA will ask for injunctions against any stores whose charts have not been received by then, to forbid their making any more sales until they have complied with the requirement."

Affects Most Stores

The plan affects department stores, specialty shops, five-and-ten cent stores, and all other retail sellers of women's, girls' and children's and toddlers' coats, suits, jackets, skirts, blouses, dresses, snow suits, suits, slacks, and slack suits, and leggings and leggings sets.

Retail ceilings on these garments are calculated by the retailers themselves, from a formula based on the cost of the garments to them and on their customary markups during the base period of the regulation. Every retail seller of these garments is required to prepare a "pricing chart" containing the information needed to arrive at his ceiling prices.

"Without this chart, it is impossible for the seller himself to know what his true ceiling prices are," Mr. Young pointed out. The chart is also necessary if OPA is to check these ceilings to maintain control over retail clothing prices.

Recently Revised

Retailers should have had these charts prepared, and available for OPA inspection, for more than a year, under the terms of the original price regulation on these garments. When the regulation was revised, in September, it added a requirement that two copies of each pricing chart must be sent in to the OPA District Office. At this time a bulletin was sent to retailers explaining the requirement and showing them how to prepare their charts if they had not already done so.

Early in October volunteer workers for local board price panels compiled a master list of stores that are subject to the regulation. Every pricing chart that came in to the district office erased a name from this list. So far, 60 per cent of the stores have submitted charts.

Since October 15, Price Panel volunteers have paid visits to the retailers whose names had not yet been marked off, to remind them of the requirement. If any seller still didn't understand the regulation, he was told how to get help.

The charts that have come in are being checked by price specialists in the district office to make sure that they contain all the necessary information. After November 16, a more thorough examination of the accuracy of the charts will be made.

IS JAILED ON LARCENY COUNT

After pleading guilty to a charge of taking a gold wrist watch, William M. Vaughn, Gettysburg R. 2, remained a prisoner in the county jail following a hearing last Friday before Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder.

Vaughn was accused by Pvt. Harold K. Trout, of the local substation of the state police, of taking the wrist watch from the arm of George Gingell, Zora, as he slept in his car early Friday morning near Haines' roadside stand, south of Gettysburg on the Emmitsburg road.

Vaughn was arrested later in the day and committed to jail after the hearing. He remained in jail pending bail to be fixed by the court. Robbery is one of a number of offenses for which a justice of the peace cannot fix bail.

State police reported that Vaughn reached through Gingell's car window and slipped the watch from the Zora man's wrist. Gingell valued the watch at about $60. Vaughn's attorney was reported Saturday to be arranging bail.
